MUTINOUS CONVICTS KILL GUARD, HURT 3; ARE THEN BESIEGED

Battle Rages All Day in Eddyville (Ky.) Penitentiary, Awaiting Arrival of Troops.

GAS BOMBS ARE ORDERED

But Officials Delay Making Assault, Debating Whether to Let Hunger Force Surrender.

MURDERER LEADS MUTINY

With Two Companions, He Dashes for Liberty, but Is Forced Into Jail Dining Room.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 3.—Three convict murderers, cornered in the dining room of the Eddyville State Penitentiary plant here early today after they had killed one guard and wounded three others in a desperate attempt to shoot their way to liberty, still were besieged tonight.

Surrounded by a grim circle of prison guards reinforced by scores of citizen riflemen, the convicts held to their barricade, exchanging an occasional shot with the besiegers.

No concerted attempt to rush the improvised fortress of the convicts was made during the day, but with a machine gun troop of the National Guard from Hopkinsville and the tear gas squad from the Louisville Police Department coming to help prison authorities meet the situation, officials expected tonight to determine what course to pursue after a conference with leaders of the reinforcements.

It was debated whether to make an assault or to wait for hunger to force a surrender.

Hodge Cunningham of Cadiz, a guard, was killed in the first fusillade fired by the convicts. The guards wounded were W. M. Gilbert of Breckinridge County, believed fatally shot; W. P. Gillihan, Lyon County, shot through the hips, and V. B. Mattingly, Leitchfield, shot through the body. Gilbert and Gillihan were taken to a Princeton hospital, but Mattingly, whose death physicians said was a matter of hours, was kept here.

Mattingly lay for nearly six hours in the spot where he was shot down, exposed to fire from the barricaded convicts. His fellow-guards were unable to respond to his appeals for water and attention for his wounds. A prisoner took water to the wounded man. Mattingly refused to let the convict carry him to safety, fearing the barricaded men would shoot him to death in his rescuer's arms. He was able eventually to drag himself to a point where rescuers could reach him without being exposed to fire.

Mutineers Bind a Lone Guard.

The convicts, Monte Walters, of Louisville; Lawrence Griffith, of Mayfield, and Harry Ferland, of Covington or Newport, initiated their desperate bid for freedom in the shirt factory of the prison early today, according to Guard Gillihan. Between forty and 100 convicts were in the room, Gillihan said, when the three men seized and bound Lee Scholes, lone guard there, and with automatic pistols in their hands made a dash for the main entrance to the prison grounds, firing at every guard they met.

The shots attracted guards from all parts of the prison to the scene and under a heavy fire the convicts were forced to take refuge in the dining room, a two-story brick building in the centre of the prison grounds.

From vantage points in upstairs windows of the dining room the convicts were able to direct a withering fire which forced the guards to take cover. An alarm quickly was sounded and citizens from the neighboring countryside, seizing such nondescript arms as were available, quickly added their strength to the besiegers.

Prison officials obtained a machine gun from a coal mine company at Nortonville and this was trained upon the barricaded building during the afternoon. Governor Edwin P. Morrow ordered Troop C of the National Guard Machine Gun Company at Hopkinsville to the scene, and Louisville sent four tear gas guns in charge of the tear gas squad of the Louisville Police Department to the scene.

It is believed that one or more of the convicts has been shot, according to an official at the prison. He said a sniper had told him he believed he "got" one or two of them. In that case only one is left. It is not known how much ammunition the rebels had secured.

The walls of the room in which the men have taken refuge are so thick that an ordinary bullet will not penetrate, so the windows have been shot at all day every time there was a movement within the place reflected upon a window.

Where the rebels got the pistols is a mystery. It is suspected, however, that the wife of Monte "Tex" Walters, Louisville murderer, smuggled them in.

About a year ago Walters obtained saws from his wife and broke out. He made a desperate effort to get away, but a guard shot him through the body as he was trying to climb the wall. Walters almost died and professed to have repented.

Mrs. Walters had been permitted to visit her husband again. She was with him a day or two ago and it is believed that she then managed to get the guns to him.

Rival White House Pups Howl While Coolidge Makes Speech

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Laddie Buck, the Airedale pup, and Peter Pan, the equally youthful wire-haired terrier, carried their rivalry for the honor of being the official White House dog direct to President Coolidge today. In doing so they threatened to interrupt the Chief Executive while he was making an address to delegates of the World's Dairy Congress.

The two dogs are quartered in kennels just under the south portico of the Executive mansion. The President selected the steps of the portico as a place for addressing the Dairy Congress delegates, but was hardly more than started on his speech when a series of barks and yelps almost drowned out his voice. William Jackson, the negro "master of hounds," succeeded in partly choking the howls of one of the dogs, but the other continued to yelp intermittently throughout the address.

RENT COMMITTEE TO BALK ANY GOUGE

Increase in Tax Assessment Not Considered Ground for Increase by Landlords.

TENANTS TO WIELD BALLOT

List of Candidates Declared Hostile to Relief Legislation Is Prepared.

The Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering has put in order the machinery which may be necessary to protect tenants against landlords planning to raise rents as a result of the billion-dollar increase in assessments on real estate, according to an announcement by Miss Lillie Grant, acting Chairman of the Committee on Rent Profiteering. She said that the committee was ready to begin a city-wide campaign against any further rent increases and that if necessary the Board of Aldermen and the Commissioner of Accounts would be asked to invoke their powers of subpoena in the case of landlords whom the committee might desire to investigate.

"In the past," said Miss Grant, "we have not really exercised the power of subpoena in bringing landlords before us, but if there is a further wave of rent-raising we will go the limit. There are real subpoena powers reposed in the Board of Aldermen, and the Commissioner of Accounts also has subpoena power."

Miss Grant said that the committee was now handling thousands of complaints of alleged rent profiteering which have been coming in at the rate of 200 or more a day. The increases demanded by landlords run anywhere from $2 to $10 for apartments occupied by families of moderate income. As yet no complaint has been made against a landlord who demanded an increase on the basis of the increased assessments.

Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert said in his opinion no rent increases would follow the increase in the city's assessment.

"Rents in this city have been boosted as high as landlords dare boost them for some time to come," he declared. "As a matter of fact, the increases in valuations were based to a large extent on the increase in rents, and if one compares the tax bills for 1924 it will be found that the rent increase profits will far exceed the losses which might be sustained by 1924 increases in valuations and accompanying higher taxes."

A movement to organize the voting strength of tenants was launched yesterday by the Federation of Tenants' Associations of Greater New York, of which Harry Allen Ely, 938 St. Nicholas Avenue, is President. This organization, which is claiming credit for the defeat of Martin C. Ansorge for Congress, Ward V. Talbert for the State Senate and Clifford H. Bostwick for the Board of Aldermen, already has made up its list of candidates who were opposed to rent relief legislation and sent out an appeal to voters to join the organization of tenants in bringing about the defeat of those candidates. The fight call to the tenants, made public last night by Captain Ely, follows, in part:

"For more than three years tenants have been desperately fighting to protect their homes from the greed of the real estate trust and the rent-hog landlord.

"This combination controls both the Democratic and Republican Parties and their leaders.

"In order to keep a roof over their heads, tenants have been forced to send their children hungry to school and deny themselves the actual necessities of life. During this period little children have died of malnutrition and parents have committed suicide from hopeless despair because our legislators, of both political parties, have neglected to give relief.

"The emergency rent laws now on the statute books were placed there because tenants had united and showed a formidable voting strength, and not because of any desire on the part of either party to relieve the distressed peoples.

"The Federation of Tenants' Associations of Greater New York, now numbering forty-two organizations, holds the balance of voting power in both political parties and proposes to use it pitilessly to obtain justice and equity for its members. It is non-partisan, non-sectarian, draws no color line and believes that an injury to one of its members is the concern of all.

"It will advise you, through its President, whom to vote for at the coming election. You have been fighting a desperate battle for your loved ones and your homes; victory is within your grasp at last. Don't throw it away.

"Vote for the candidates selected by the Federation of Tenants' Associations of Greater New York. You will get the word in due time."

OUST 2 EMPLOYES OF CANAL BUREAU PENDING SHAKE-UP

WITNESS DEFIES KELLOGG

Albany Company Official Refuses to Tell of His Dealings With State Employes.

LENT MONEY TO OUSTED MAN

Deputy Denies Testimony of Inspector That He Ordered Purchases From Favored Firm.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 3.—The dismissal of two employes of the Bureau of Canals and Waterways of the Department of Public Works was disclosed today when former Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Kellogg resumed his investigation to ascertain why the bureau paid $70,000 for supplies listed on the market at about $45,000.

The men who left the State service, as of Oct. 1, were J. William Grady of Syracuse, Assistant Deputy, and Harry M. Hulsapple, chief of the financial staff of the Canal Bureau. Their dismissal was announced by Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, Public Works Commissioner, whose story, told to the Governor yesterday, started the investigation an hour later.

J. William Grady, according to the testimony given today, is a brother of T. D. Grady, employed at one time as a salesman for the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company of Albany, a firm which, Colonel Greene alleged, had been favored above all others in purchases for the State's canal system.

Commissioner Greene said that his dismissal of Grady had been for the "best interests of the State." The discharge of Hulsapple, twenty-nine years in the service, was for "cause."

Governor's Courage Praised.

With the resumption of the investigation there was heard praise for the "political courage" of Governor Smith in undertaking, on the eve of the Assembly campaign, an investigation of appointees made during his incumbency. It was hinted that the inquiry, now limited to the dealings of the Canal Bureau with the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company, might progress along wider lines. A general shake-up of the bureau was regarded as inevitable.

Before the hearing was adjourned by Judge Kellogg until Tuesday there was brought out through the testimony of employes of the bureau a lack of knowledge as to who certified the "fairness" of prices to be paid by the State that prompted the investigator to comment, at one point, on the proneness of the witnesses to "lean on one another."

It also was revealed that the hurried visit of Colonel Greene to the Governor was prompted by an inquiry made by representatives of the Morse-Fairbanks Company, competitor in some lines of the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company.

The Morse-Fairbanks Company reported to Colonel Greene that they had sold a machine for something like $450 to the mill supply firm and when the Commissioner came to check up the history of that deal he found the State had paid more than $900 for the same piece of machinery.

The first witness to take the stand for examination by Judge Kellogg, prompted by Deputy Attorney General Edward G. Griffin, was Edward L. Swazey, general manager of the Albany firm. He was accompanied by his attorney, James A. Leary of Schenectady. On advice of counsel Mr. Swazey refused answers to most of the questions on the ground that they might tend to incriminate him.

Supply Dealer Refuses Answers.

Mr. Swazey denied having financial transactions with James Doyle of Syracuse, Deputy Commissioner of the Canal Bureau.

When asked if he had financial dealings with Grady and if Grady was on the payroll of the supply firm, the witness refused to answer.

He declined to disclose whether he knew Grady's brother and was silent when he was asked if the brother was on the payroll of his firm at $5,000 a year. After he had persisted in his refusal to answer the Commissioner's questions he was excused. He sat in the front row with his attorney.

Henry A. J. Castor, chief Inspector of the Canal Bureau, was then called. The questions of Judge Kellogg indicated an effort to fix responsibility for approving the prices of the supply company. Castor said that he "requisitioned" supplies and that many others did likewise. When asked who fixed the prices to be paid, he replied:

"That I don't know. Last year I

Hylan, Still Very Ill, Will Be Home Today; Doctor Orders Absolute Rest, Bars Visitors

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Mayor John F. Hylan will leave here tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock for his home in Brooklyn, after a six weeks' illness. He will make the trip in the private car of William H. Woodin, former State Fuel Commissioner, on a special train provided by the New York Central.

Mayor Hylan was looking forward today to his return. He feels that his recovery will be hastened once he reaches his home and his physicians agree with him in this opinion. The special train will make no stops between here and New York City, and the engineer has been instructed to maintain an even rate of speed.

Mrs. Hylan will accompany the Mayor, as will John F. Sinnott, his son-in-law and secretary. Mrs. Sinnott will remain until Friday to superintend the packing and shipment of their household goods.

Dr. George F. Comstock, the local physician who has attended the Mayor since he became ill on Aug. 24, will be on the train with two nurses, Mrs. Elsie Thomson and Miss Edna Steiger. Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures; Dr. Charles E. Nammack and Dr. John A. Ferguson, the Hylan family physician, will meet the Mayor on his arrival in New York City.

Every precaution will be taken to guard the Mayor from fatigue and annoyance during the trip. The special train will be backed to the crossing on Broadway near the cottage where the Mayor has been ill, and he will be taken to the train in an ambulance from the Saratoga Hospital.

An effort will be made to keep away newspaper photographers, and for that reason and with the additional object of avoiding a crowd, the exact destination of the train in New York City is being kept secret. Dr. Comstock has warned the family that any excitement might have an unfavorable effect on the Mayor.

"Mayor Hylan is still a very sick man who has gone through a severe illness," he said. "He must have absolute rest and quiet, and nothing must be done to annoy him. He must not receive visitors for a considerable period after he returns to Brooklyn. He is mending slowly, and I hope that the persons in New York City who are interested in his recovery will give every assistance in their power."

Edward Riegelmann, Borough President of Brooklyn, and Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan were visitors at the Hylan cottage today.

LIMITS THE BRANCHES OF NATIONAL BANKS

Daugherty Holds They May Only Receive Deposits and Cash Checks.

GENERAL FUNCTIONS BARRED

Controller Dawes Explains the Restrictions to Congressional Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—National banks may establish branches in the cities where they are located for receiving deposits and cashing checks, but these branches cannot conduct a general banking business, according to an opinion submitted by Attorney General Daugherty to Henry M. Dawes, controller of the currency.

Mr. Dawes announced this opinion and his interpretation of it when he appeared today before the joint Congressional committee considering plans to induce State banks to enter the Federal Reserve system. He called the permitted facilities tellers' windows, and intimated that no other major functions, such as making loans or purchasing securities, could be carried on at these windows. The controller said explicitly that a national bank should not be permitted to operate these tellers' windows in any States or cities where the State banks had not similar or greater facilities.

The general extension of branch banking would result in the elimination of the national banking system, Mr. Dawes said, and thereby the ultimate destruction of the Federal Reserve system.

States of Banks Clarified.

"The relations of the national bank to operations in branch banking have been the subject of a very widespread misunderstanding," Mr. Dawes said. "In order that the situation might be clarified and defined, the present Controller requested an opinion of the Attorney General which has just been handed down.

"A previous opinion given by Attorney General Wickersham was to the general effect that a national bank might not de novo establish a branch bank. The present opinion from the Attorney General makes it clear that none of the major or important incidental functions of a national bank may be exercised beyond the limits of the city in which the parent institution is located. This opinion also indicates that certain functions of a national bank, incident to the banking business, may be carried on at fixed points within the city limits and outside of the four walls of the banking house.

"This opinion is not inconsistent with that of Attorney General Wickersham, and the practical application which will be made of it will be that certain national banks will be permitted to establish what are virtually tellers' windows in places more or less removed from the banks, but in the city limits, where they may take deposits and cash checks. The discretionary powers which are inherent in such transactions as making loans, purchasing securities and similar activities will not be permitted in such offices located at a distance from the parent institution.

"It seems to me unnecessary at the present time to do more than make the above bare reference to the legal situation. The force of the opinion of the Attorney General just handed down would as a practical matter remove the national banks from the branch bank controversy, since a national bank cannot engage in the banking business outside of the city limits of its location, and inside of the city limits it may under certain conditions perform only limited functions at a distance from the banking house.

Predicts Advantages to Cities.

"Authorization to national banks to establish such additional offices will be of great advantage in certain localities where the State banks are already extending their services in this manner. In such cities as New York, Cleveland and Detroit, the national banks will be able to reach their customers in the matter of making deposits and cashing checks in the same way that their competitors do in this single important aspect of the banking business.

"At the present time in the city of Cleveland there are only three national

GOV. WALTON BLOCKS CERTIFYING OF VOTE

OUSTS OFFICIALS IN TULSA

Opponents Get Up Petition for Grand Jury to Investigate Alleged Misuse of Public Money.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—An attack by Governor J. C. Walton on the legality of yesterday's election on a constitutional amendment to permit an impeachment session of the State Legislature was in full swing tonight, with more than a third of the returns in the State not yet tabulated.

His first gun in the after-election fight was fired today when he obtained, in the State District Court, a temporary restraining order preventing the State Election Board from certifying the returns to the Secretary of State.

Hearing on the application to make the order permanent was set for Oct. 9.

Observers on both sides anticipated a lull in the contest between the Governor and the Legislature until then. The order was granted by Judge Tom G. Chambers Jr., an appointee of Governor Walton.

In his application the Executive alleged the election was illegal because the proposed constitutional amendments submitted were not properly advertised before the election. He declared that thousands of armed special deputies, commissioned by Sheriffs throughout the State, had intimidated voters, and that this combined with alleged influence exerted by the Ku Klux Klan, had kept more than 200,000 persons from the polls.

Close advisers of the Governor declared the election yesterday could not be regarded as a repudiation of him. They pointed out that in the general election of 1922 more than 500,000 votes were cast, while in yesterday's election they estimated the total vote will not exceed 300,000 when the official count is made. They explained that they expected 75,000 of the votes cast to be against the amendment. This, they pointed out, would leave only 225,000 cast by the Ku Klux Klan and their adherents, "making the total of those who did not vote for the amendment more than 275,000."

Interest in the tangled situation will shift tomorrow to a hearing in State District Court of an injunction sought by members of the Legislature to bar the Governor and his representatives from interfering with their attempt to convene an impeachment session. The injunction suit was brought following action of the military last Wednesday in dispersing, at the Governor's order, a session called by a majority of the members without his sanction.

The action was instituted before it was determined that the legislative amendment would be voted on in yesterday's election.

New Attack on the Governor.

Meanwhile a new attack was launched today against the official acts of Governor Walton by Campbell Russell, a political opponent of the Governor, who circulated the initiative petition for the legislative referendum.

This time he circulated a petition for a Grand Jury in District Court here to investigate charges that Governor Walton has misused public monies and to inquire into the appointment of thousands of State "secret service" agents by the executive. More than the required number of signatures were obtained and the petition was filed in what was said to have been the shortest time on record for such proceedings in Oklahoma City.

Belated returns received from yesterday's special election continued to pile up an overwhelming vote for the constitutional amendment empowering the State Legislature to convene at its own call to inquire into impeachment charges against Governor Walton. At 9 o'clock tonight, when 2,142 out of 2,327 precincts in the State had been heard from, the count stood: For, 188,573; against, 87,380.

Walton Ousts Tulsa Officials.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 3.—Orders from the adjutant general's office ordering removal of Colonel E. L. Head and Captain Murray Sells and "all their aides and assistants" from the offices of the County Sheriff and City Police Commissioner, respectively, were served this afternoon from Oklahoma City.

The order was expected to block hearing Friday in the Supreme Court on quo warranto proceedings instituted last week in behalf of the Sheriff and Police Commissioner.

The military supervisors were placed in the two offices under Governor J. C. Walton's martial law proclamation, September 14.

MERCURY REVEALED IN MRS. WEBB'S BODY BY CHEMICAL TEST

Toxicologist Will Report Today Whether There Was Enough to Cause Death.

FRIENDS APPEAL TO ALBANY

Will Ask Governor to Take Over Investigation From Westchester Prosecutor.

DR. MEYER ATTACKS WEBB

Excluded Husband Because of Conduct—Mrs. Johnstone Gives Diary to Jury.

Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, toxicologist at Bellevue Hospital, announced yesterday the discovery of mercury in the viscera of Mrs. Gertie Emily Gorman Webb, who died on the evening of Sept. 25 under circumstances that have led to an investigation by the Westchester County Grand Jury. Dr. Gettler had not determined the quantity of the poison present but said that he would file a complete report, including that feature, with the authorities in White Plains this morning.

Relatives and friends of Mrs. Webb who have been prominent in the case yesterday took steps to supersede District Attorney Arthur Rowland in the investigation. Two men left for Albany to ask Governor Smith to put the case in the hands of a Special Deputy Attorney General.

Objections to the twenty-line will of Aug. 21, 1923, signed while Mrs. Webb was ill at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club in Rye and which left her $2,000,000 estate entirely to her husband, Charles Webb, were filed in the Surrogate's Court of this county yesterday on behalf of Edmund Adam Smith Hunter of Devon, Pa., a cousin of Mrs. Webb. He charged that Webb practiced fraud in obtaining the signature, and that Mrs. Webb was not competent to sign at the time. Surrogate John P. O'Brien signed an order, returnable tomorrow morning, to show cause why a temporary administrator of the estate should not be appointed, pending the outcome of the several contests on this will.

Dr. Meyer Admits He Excluded Webb.

Dr. William J. Meyer of White Plains, who attended Mrs. Webb and who refused to sign a death certificate, demanding an autopsy, issued a statement yesterday in reply to that presented the previous day by Howard Thayer Kingsbury, counsel for Webb. Dr. Meyer berated District Attorney Rowland for requiring him to sign a waiver of immunity in testifying before the Grand Jury last Tuesday. He said he desired to appear before that body again next Monday. Dr. Meyer denied Webb's allegation that he had barred consultants. He denied Webb's charge that the third will, giving large parts of the estate to relatives and friends and charities was unsigned because Dr. Meyer would not permit its consideration by his patient. Dr. Meyer said it was necessary to exclude Webb from the sick room because of Webb's conduct.

The Grand Jury heard only one witness yesterday, then adjourned until Monday. This witness was Mrs. Robert S. Johnstone, girlhood friend and long a confidante of Mrs. Webb and wife of a former Judge of the Court of General Sessions.

Dr. Gettler worked all yesterday and last evening on his chemical analysis. He conferred for two hours in the laboratories with District Attorney Rowland, Coroner Edward F. Fitzgerald and Captain Arthur Carey of the New York Homicide Squad. Dr. Gettler informed them he would send to White Plains this morning a complete report as to whether a lethal dose of bichloride of mercury had been administered to Mrs. Webb. The Westchester authorities requested him not to make his report public.

Tells of Mercury Find.

"I have found mercury in the viscera of Mrs. Webb," Dr. Gettler said to reporters. "I have examined some tablets taken from the sick room and said to be the only antiseptic tablets found there. They were paxtene tablets. I found them perfectly harmless. I have not yet completed my examination as to quantity and cannot say at this time whether mercury was present in a lethal dose. I have had no statement from any one nor have I heard of any statement showing that Mrs. Webb used bichloride of mercury."

Coroner Fitzgerald said: "So far we know only that there were traces of bichloride of mercury in Mrs. Webb's system. The reports thus far received do not show that it was sufficient to cause death or that the residue not eliminated was enough poison to cause death. There is nothing to show she did not use a bichloride of mercury preparation knowing it was poison. There is nothing to show that if she made excessively dangerous use of it the fault was due to anything but her own ignorance."

It was learned last night that Dr.

Bergdoll Assailants Likely To Get Light Sentences

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Co.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSBACH, Baden, Oct. 3.—German justice is grinding slower than the proverbial mills of the gods, but none the less thoroughly, and apparently honestly in the Bergdoll case. The trial of Griffis and others involved in the alleged attack on Bergdoll will begin in about three weeks in the Landgericht at Mosbach.

Bergdoll returned to Eberbach a week ago after a motor vacation in the Schwarzwald. Bergdoll's mother is homeward bound and is due to land in New York within the next few days.

Landgerichstrat Trautwein, who has just completed a preliminary judicial examination of Griffis and the others, told THE NEW YORK TIMES representative that it would be hard to maintain the charge of attempted murder. Judge Trautwein said: "It is possible only a charge of 'assault and battery' will be made, or else 'criminal assumption of State authority.'"

THE TIMES informant reports that the Americans will probably get off with exceedingly mild sentences. If Bergdoll had been a woman, Griffis and the others could have been charged with the grave crime of attempted kidnapping, but the German criminal law says you can only kidnap a "female victim" to constitute a crime.

HARVEY TO RETIRE; COMING HOME SOON

Will Not Run Coolidge's Campaign for Nomination, but Will Help It Along.

CANDIDATES TO BE MANY

Hammond, Beck, Munsey and Cravath Are Among Those Called Possibilities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. — Colonel George Harvey, Ambassador to Great Britain, is to return to America next month on leave of absence, and the understanding here is that his resignation will become effective about Jan. 1.

There have been reports that Colonel Harvey would retire to take charge of the campaign of President Coolidge for the Presidential nomination. It is understood there is no basis for such statements other than the expectation that Colonel Harvey will have an active part in the campaign next year and probably will devote his time to furthering the political fortunes of Mr. Coolidge.

The course of Colonel Harvey in determining to retire from his diplomatic post is not a consequence of the change of Administration, according to men in a position to know the situation. It is represented that prior to President Harding's death Colonel Harvey had made known that he would be unable to remain in London as Ambassador, and that Mr. Harding had been giving consideration to the selection of a successor. Colonel Harvey's wish to become a private citizen is said to be due to the feeling that he should give more attention to his private business affairs, and to a realization of the high cost of ambassadorial living in London. Nothing has appeared in the information obtained by those close to officialdom here to indicate that Colonel Harvey is dissatisfied in any way with the Coolidge Administration, or has any other reasons for desiring to quit the diplomatic service than those stated.

It was Colonel Harvey's intention, when he left the United States recently, to return to this country early in November and tender his resignation formally while here. There has been some obstacle to this plan, and it is now likely that he will not arrive in America until later in that month, with the possibility that he may not get back until near the end of the year.

Several men prominent in the party, and some of them close to the Administration, have been informed of the intention of Colonel Harvey, and there are indications that suggestions of names have already been made to President Coolidge in connection with the choice of a successor. In the list from which the President may be expected to make his selection are found the names of John Hays Hammond, Chairman of the Federal Coal Comission; James M. Beck, Solicitor General; Frank A. Munsey, Paul D. Cravath of New York; Henry P. Fletcher, now Ambassador to Belgium, and Charles E. Warren, former Ambassador to Japan. It is said that friends of one or two of these men are already active in their behalf.

Richard W. Child, Ambassador to Italy, has desired for some time to leave the diplomatic service. Recently he informed the Administration that he felt obliged on account of personal affairs to give up his post. He asked that President Coolidge name his successor soon. In response to this communication the suggestion has been made to him that he return here on indefinite leave of absence.

Mexican Deputy Is Shot During Session; Clash Foreshadows Election Trouble

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO, Oct. 3. — Congressman Mena Cordoba of the State of Campeche drew a revolver in today's session of the Chamber and fired three shots at Lieutenant Rueda de Leon, one bullet lodging in his leg. A number of women attending the session narrowly escaped being hit.

Hardly had the noise of the shooting died away when Congressman Santa Ana, with a cry of "Viva General Calles!" engaged in a fist fight with another Congressman. After a few blows the Congressmen were separated.

The shooting and the fist fight broke up the Congressional session.

From the attitude of the Congressmen it is clear that the coming campaign in Mexico promises trouble. Uninterested observers firmly believe it is impossible to have an election with a change of Presidents without bloodshed.

BERLIN, Thursday, Oct. 4.—The Stresemann Cabinet crashed at 12:30 o'clock this morning when the Chancellor repaired to President Ebert's modest gray granite palace, 26 Wilhelmstrasse, and tendered the resignation of himself and the whole Cabinet. This action was not unexpected by the President, who accepted the resignation at once and requested Dr. Stresemann to form a new Cabinet.

The Social Democratic members of the Reichstag, including all the big Socialist leaders, had held a caucus at 10 o'clock and voted to withdraw from the Coalition Government. The ballot was 45 to 54. The party's decision was immediately communicated to Chancellor Stresemann and the resignation of the entire cabinet was the result.

A recrudescence of militarism seems to be sweeping the country. Politically there is a strong current toward the reactionary Right.

Today was wasted in futile alarms and excursions in and from the Reichstag. Statesmen and politicians kept coming and going, attending party caucuses which sent ultimatums to each other, and getting nowhere. The Stresemann Cabinet, which broke the Teuton record by sitting for five and one-half hours until 3 o'clock this morning, resumed its sitting at 5:30 this evening.

The subject of the prolonged deliberation was whether to try and patch up a big coalition government, including Socialists, or to smash the present coalition and form a Right Government of the bourgeois parties only. The Socialist Party at first showed a willingness to compromise on abolition of the eight-hour day, and provided a new technical term "an elastic eight-hour day." To-night, however, the caucus of the Social Democratic Party categorically rejected any and all consideration of the draft of the new "working-time law," the essence of which is abolition of the eight-hour day. Further the leaders refused to consider a demand of the German People's Party insurgents that the Radical Socialist Finance Minister, Dr. Hilferding, should retire.

Handicapped From Start.

BERLIN, Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—Dr. Gustav Stresemann and the members of his Ministry resigned from office tonight. President Ebert then called upon the retiring Chancellor to form a new Cabinet.

The Stresemann Government retired from office with the relinquishment of passive resistance in the Ruhr and the Rhineland as the only active accomplishment to its credit. While criticism of its usefulness on this score would seem to be not entirely fair, in view of the hopelessly tangled legacy assumed by it as the successor of the Cuno Ministry, the Stresemann coalition in its political composition was such as to preclude in the long run any hope of productiveness in the nature of financial and economic reforms, on account of the conflicting currents which hampered its deliberations.

With a theoretical Socialist in the Ministry of Finance and an Industrialist Party man as Minister of Economics, one chronic point of friction was promptly established. It led to the retirement yesterday of Hans von Raumer, who held the latter post, as he had apparently wearied of carrying on a running debate with Dr. Hilferding on financial and economic dogmas.

This was only one of the several minor paradoxes with which the Stresemann Ministry was handicapped. The Chancellor's well-known optimism, which was praised as a useful asset when he assumed office, was unable to overcome the formidable task of getting an economically and politically moribund Germany back on its feet.

Poincaré's Policy Blamed.

M. Poincaré, the French Premier, is blamed by the German Government and the Reichstag leaders for the collapse of Chancellor Stresemann's Coalition Government. If Poincaré had given the slightest [illegible] in response to

Anti-Wood Forces Win in Manila Election; Demand Rivals Help to 'Overthrow' General

MANILA, Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—Complete returns of yesterday's election from all but a few scattered precincts in the outlying provinces showed today that Ramon Fernandez, Coalitionist candidate for the insular Senate to succeed Pedro Guevara, who resigned to become Philippine Commissioner at Washington, was elected by a safe majority. Fernandez's election is a victory for the advocates of immediate independence and the anti-Wood forces.

The total vote in the City of Manila was 34,490. Fernandez's plurality in the city was 3,852. The total vote reported from the provinces was 23,651, making Fernandez's plurality 11,101.

Manuel Quezon, Coalitionist Party leader, is ill and made no comment for publication. His colleague, Manuel Roxas, said:

"The election is over and the forces of freedom emerged victorious. We expect that our friends, the Democratas, will abide by the verdict of the people and will now join us in our national undertaking to overthrow the autocracy of Governor General Wood, and in the achievement of the earliest possible independence of our country."

The election was orderly throughout the Islands, with one exception. From Bataan came a report that a member of the Democrata Party had shot a Coalitionist.

This is preserving time for Batmer Grandberries. They taste like real delicious Jelly.—Advt.

dement of passive resistance, official and political quarters believe that Dr. Stresemann's position would have been measurably strengthened thereby, as it would have been spared the Nationalist onslaught, which not only gained momentum through the unconditional Ruhr surrender, but also from the swiftly collapsing internal situation.

Both factors sufficed to knock the prop from under the Cabinet, whose advent as a "big Coalition Government" was acclaimed less than seven weeks ago as promising internal reconstruction and wall of progress in the foreign situation.

After the Socialist members of the Reichstag rejected, by a vote of 61 to 54, the compromise proposed by Chancellor Stresemann on the mooted points of the eight-hour law and modification of the dictatorship powers, four members in the Cabinet, Dr. Hilferding, Minister of Finance; Schmidt, Reconstruction; Sollman, Interior, and Padbruch, Justice, apprised the Chancellor of their withdrawal, whereupon the Chancellor consulted the remaining members of the Cabinet for a decisive session.

Ready for Dictatorship.

While a Government without popular representation, as now reflected in the Reichstag, would ordinarily be viewed as a return to an ultra-czaristic régime, there is enough sentiment abroad in the land to support such an innovation, in the nation's present plight. In the Reichswehr Minister Gessler's direction is being actively championed outside the ranks of the Socialists, although it is believed the moderate minority wing in the Radical Party would silently view such an expedient as worth the experiment.

Popular disappointment over the Reichstag's failure as a constructive legislative organism is not recent, but dates back several years. The growing social distress has only accelerated it during the past six weeks; the defeat in the Ruhr and Rhineland battle gave it reinforced impetus, and incidentally, quickened Nationalist sentiment, which materially contributed to undermining the present Cabinet's position, despite its foreign foundation.

Dr. Stresemann is believed in some quarters to be possessed of the necessary qualifications for the position of civilian dictator in view of his pronounced economic training. He has initiative and the faculty of quick decision, so long as he is unhampered by political advisers or does not have to answer to party or Parliament. He is credited with knowing what the situation demands, both in respect to its financial and its financier, and could also, it is said, be relied upon to put a constructive foreign policy into effect.

In the accounts of last night's Cabinet session and the other political conferences Chancellor Stresemann was represented as not believing himself able to impress on all the Reichstag parties that the situation called for patriotism rather than party allegiance, and he was reported as determined to stake his further incumbency in the Chancellorship on the success or defeat of his program.

The Chancellor's defense to the various political groups of the dictatorial remedies he has proposed laid stress upon the ability of the nation at present to maintain its volume of exports, and the inability it would mean, were it unable to procure raw materials for the various industries. The Chancellor pointed out waste in many lines which he declared must be overcome through increased production, extending working hours and the ruthless pruning of the public payrolls.

In this Dr. Stresemann was merely voicing the demand put forward more than a year ago by Hugo Stinnes and the other industrialists who seem clearly to have foreseen the coming collapse and have been consistently preaching "more production."

Reichswehr patrols have rounded up several hundred youths on the outskirts of Berlin who are suspected of having been hired to participate in military "putsches."

Stresemann Cabinet Short-Lived.

Within the last few days the separation of the very political and industrial forces whose adhesion had made possible the Stresemann Government in the middle of August rendered dissolution inevitable. The decree of "ausnahme zustand," or military emergency measures, invoked by President Ebert on Sept. 27, and by it the automatic change of Dr. Gessler's function from Minister of Public Defense to that of military dictator, pleased neither the reaction-aries against whom it was obviously leveled nor the radicals against whom it might be operated in case of Communist uprisings.

On Tuesday, a member of the People's Party resigned from the Cabinet, then the Democrats, and then the prominent Socialist Minister of Finance tried to withdraw, and the People's Party, whose Parliamentary leader Chancellor Stresemann had been, demanded a reconstruction of the Cabinet along lines which should be further removed from politics and more sensitive of the economic needs of the country. That however, was the basis of organization of the Cuno Government, which Stresemann succeeded.

He succeeded it with two lines of policy which he had already clearly defined as party leader: The ending of passive resistance in the Ruhr and the forcing of Belgium and post-Belgium powers to bear their share of reparations, which were to be determined upon.

While both were acceptable to the People's Party and the United Socialists, the first item was a business assignment mildly acknowledged by Stresemann's own party, controlled in its economic ramifications by Hugo Stinnes, while the second was a sop thrown to the Socialists for their support in the defeatism and their acceptance of additional crushing responsibility in the Government. This Government consisted of two of the People's Party, including the Chancellor, four of the United Socialists, including Herr Hilferding as Minister of Finance, three Clericals and three Democrats, including Minister of Defense von Gessler.

The cohesion in this Government was destroyed when Bavaria objected to the end of passive resistance and attempted to restore reactionary principles, followed by the secession of the Socialists, to whom repressive measures were anathems.

REPARATION PLANS HELD UP.

Paris Sees the Enemies of Treaty Bidding for Power in Germany.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Development in Germany, as seen from Paris are obscure in detail but the French feel sure of one thing, namely, that those trying to seize power both in Berlin and Munich are precisely those who wish to fight the execution of the Treaty of Versailles. Neither the Nationalists of the Prussian capital nor the monarchists of the Bavarian capital are expected to hurt themselves in any reparation efforts if they get control.

For the present the French are somewhat discouraged over their Ruhr victory and are sitting tight waiting for the Germans to decide which way they will move. What France will do depends entirely on events. It could scarcely be expected that she would be advancing much in reparation negotiations plans in the past few days.

In principle the French hold the German commotion is none of their business except so far as it affects the Reich's attitude on reparations. They would probably continue to hold that attitude with regard to any changes in the republican form of the German Government.

But a monarchist coup would be something else. There are two monarchical possibilities in Germany, the Hohenzollerns and the Wittelsbachs. There can be very little doubt the French would not stand idly by and see the former Crown Prince ascend the German throne. They would probably go to the limit of sending an army to Berlin to prevent that happening.

What they would do about a Bavarian King is hard to foretell. Their attitude certainly would not be the same as toward the Hohenzollern. France has long regarded Prussian domination as responsible for much of German cussedness and there might be some solace in the prospect of Prussia being dominated by Bavaria if it should work out that way. Of course, if it were a question of Bavaria separating from Prussia, there would be no question the French would shed no tears. But it is very evident that is not the plan if the Bavarian monarchists, who want their man King of all Germany and Austria and a few other places as well. The best opinion here, however, has it that a monarchist coup would not succeed in Germany at the present time but would cause a general strike, which would spell the failure of the attempt. So the French turn their attention toward the probability of the Berlin Nationalists getting control. And they derive some comfort from the thought that the industrial leaders of this movement are owners of the property they hold in the Ruhr.

The Government press of Paris is advising its readers not to get excited about the latest German struggle to resist reparation payments and assuring them that in any case France will hold on to the Ruhr.

INSURE AGAINST RIOT LOSS.

Owners of German Property Take Out Policies for £1,000,000.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Large policies are being placed in the London insurance market against risks of strike, riot and civil commotion in Germany on property belonging to American and British interests, much of which is in Hamburg.

The Daily Telegraph quotes one underwriter as saying that the amount of such insurance totals "literally £1,000,000."

ARREST IN BAVARIA FOR RIOT IN MUNICH

BAND MEMBERS AT LARGE

No Opposition to von Kahr's Rule by Strikes or Other Demonstrations.

MUNICH, Oct. 3.—As a result, of an inquiry into an affray between Socialists and members of the Bund Oberland in South Munich, a son-in-law of Herr Auer, leader of the Bavarian Socialist Party, has been arrested. Members of Bund Oberland who were at least partly responsible for the indiscriminate shooting and disorder are still at large.

It is impossible to obtain any frank expression of opinion from Socialist adherents owing to the fact that such a statement might be considered as treason, but it is clear that the Socialist Party has absolutely no intention of opposing either by strikes or otherwise any measures that Dr. von Kahr may see fit to bring forward. For the time being Socialism, and incidentally parliamentary representation, have ceased to play any part in the development of the Bavarian situation.

Although the suggestion that General von Lossow, commanding in Bavaria, would act according to orders from Berlin may be true, it is more than doubtful whether those under his command would carry out these orders if they ran contrary to those of von Kahr. In view of a possible increase in the numbers of unemployed, it is stated, every encouragement is to be given to those who wish to enlist.

For the present everything is quiet pending developments in Berlin.

Bride of 17, Marriage Annulled.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Supreme Court Justice Albert H. F. Seeger today granted to Mrs. Emily Lambert Horton an annulment of her marriage to William Forton, because she was only 17 years old when she became a bride. The marriage was a secret one, and the plaintiff's mother told Justice Seeger that she did not know her daughter was married until three months after the ceremony.

SEIZE ALL THE LIQUOR OF A. AND H. ARTILLERY

Our Officials Get What Bostonians Did Not Leave at Base Beyond Canadian Border.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—When members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston left Quebec for this city, after their annual field day, they stowed away about $1,000 worth of fine liquor, which they hoped they might be able to bring home. But at a point above the border, a customs official boarded the train, and, by virtue of the law which gives him the right of search, but not of seizure, went over the train carefully. What he found made it clear to him that it was no one man's job which he had tackled. So he wired ahead for reinforcements.

Then Captain William M. McKenna, commander of the corps, gave an order that may ring down through all times. He commanded that the liquor be collected, taken off the train and deposited, under bond, with the Canadian customs officials at Ablington, close to the American boundary line. And the order was obeyed by most of the ancients, only a few of the most daring keeping any liquor.

At Richford, Vt., two additional customs officers joined the first lone worker. The search was carefully made this time, and everything found was seized. But most of the ancients, in true military spirit, had obeyed orders, and there was little of the stuff left.

Now the ancients' liquor is in a safe place, but how they are ever going to use it is the puzzle.

LIQUOR RUNNER SEIZED.

Marine Police Arrest Crew of Four After Chase.

Seizure of 385 cases of whisky on the motor vessel Atalanta and arrest of four men who made up the crew were made early yesterday by Policemen Frederick Parkinson and George Bero aboard a police launch after a chase that began at 132d Street and the East River and ended in Pott's Cove, Astoria. The alleged liquor runner was moving down stream when sighted by the police launch. The Atalanta, according to the police, was running without lights and ignored an order to stop.

It was turned over to the Federal prohibition authorities, as was its cargo of liquor.

The four prisoners were held for arraignment on charges of violating the Volstead act before United States Commissioner Samuel M. Hitchcock. They said they were George Nelson, 26, of 217 West Fourteenth Street; Alfred Andrews, 38, of 211 East Fourth Street; Joseph Meyer of 40 Water Street, Paterson, N. J., and Albert Fox, a seaman of 1,220 Lexington Avenue.

TO PLAN DOG QUARANTINE.

Conference Called Because of Rabies in Essex County, N. J.

A meeting of all health officers in Essex County, N. J., has been called for tomorrow afternoon at the offices of the Board of Health at Newark to consider plans to establish a quarantine against all dogs because of the present epidemic of rabies in the county.

Within the last three days about fifty persons, mostly children, have been bitten by dogs at Newark, East Orange, Orange, West Orange, Belleville and Bloomfield. About twenty of these persons are residents of Newark. They have been treated at the Willard Parker Hospital, New York; the City Hospital, Newark; the Orange Memorial Hospital, and by family physicians. All are expected to recover.

Mayor Charles H. Martens of East Orange issued a proclamation yesterday ordering that all dogs be tied up for observation.

Find Ten Stolen Autos.

Detectives of the north shore district in Queens, following the arrest of four men in Astoria, who are now being held for examination in the Long Island City Police Court, have found ten Ford sedans that were stolen, according to Captain John Gallagher of Hunters Point. They have also recovered four sets of license plates from the bottom of a creek.

MERCURY REVEALED IN MRS. WEBB'S BODY

Meyer and two women who were in the sick room received from Mrs. Webb what she intended to be an ante-mortem statement in which she described the manner in which bichloride of mercury had been prepared for her use, and in which she expressed the fear that her condition was due to poisoning. Dr. Meyer's desire to testify again before the Grand Jury was reported to be in relation to such a statement.

Says Blood Showed No Poison.

Discussing the chemical analysis yesterday, Lee Parsons Davis of counsel for Webb, said: "When Mrs. Webb was in Roosevelt Hospital tests of her blood were made but no traces of slow poison were found. That was the time slow poison symptoms would have been found. The case is one involving a quarrel over the estate. So far, no evidence has been adduced which would call for a warrant of arrest being issued for any one and I doubt if anything will develop which will show that Mrs. Webb did not die of natural causes."

The two emissaries to Albany to interview Governor Smith want after certain persons interested in the will contests had made futile efforts to reach Governor Smith by telephone. Though insisting on suppressing their names as authors of the plan, they told reporters that they intended to ask that Governor Smith to appoint a Special Deputy Attorney General to assume charge of the case. It was explained that relatives and friends of Mrs. Webb were dissatisfied with the attitude of District Attorney Rowland and Coroner Fitzgerald at the outset of the investigation, in obtaining what they characterized as suspicious circumstances. Those who planned to ask for appointment of a supervising prosecutor said they would make the application orally. They admitted that they were contestants of the twenty-line will.

Won't File Mrs. Webb's First Will.

It was learned that these contestants planned not to submit for probate the will signed by Mrs. Webb in February, 1921, before her marriage, in which she disposed of her property to relatives, friends and charities. They were said to have decided, in agreement with Webb on that point, that Mrs. Webb's marriage revoked that will to the extent of requiring that her husband receive a share he would have received had she died intestate, namely, one-half.

In his statement of Tuesday, Webb said that he was willing to carry out the provisions of will No. 2, which was unsigned and which gave him much less of the estate than he would receive if the pre-marriage will were offered for probate and which, because it was holographic, would yield him $1,000,000 share in the properties left by his wife. The contestants, it was learned, hoped by their court fights to induce the court to refuse to admit that portion of the will of Mrs. Gertie Emily Gorman in which the testatrix, mother of Mrs. Webb, left $250,000 to her sister and brother-in-law, Irene S. Hunter and William A. Hunter of Devon, Pa.

Surrogate John P. O'Brien yesterday signed an order to show cause why a temporary administrator should not be appointed to conserve the assets of the estate of Mrs. Webb pending the outcome of will contests. The order is returnable at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in special term of the Surrogate's Court. The order was signed on application of Cohalan & Cohalan and Young & Burdick, attorneys for the proponents of the will, who point out that a number of months might elapse before trial was reached.

When this move was called to his attention, Colonel Kingsbury, counsel for Mrs. Adah Wilson Woolpert, a cousin of Mrs. Webb and manager of her offices at 295 Madison Avenue, would assume charge of the properties temporarily. Woolpert was engaged by Mrs. Webb only a few days before her death in managing the properties. He and Colonel Kingsbury were the witnesses to the twenty-line will.

Cohalan & Cohalan filed yesterday a list of objections on behalf of a cousin of Mrs. Webb, Edmund Adam Smith Hunter of Devon, Pa., alleging that fraud practiced fraud to obtaining Mrs. Webb's signature to the twenty-line instrument. It was also alleged she was of unsound mind Aug. 20, when she signed the document.

The Hunter objections filed yesterday read:

"Edmund Adam Smith Hunter, in the matter of proving the last will and testament of Gertie Emily Gorman Webb, objections to probate.

"Edmund Adam Hunter Smith, a person interested in the estate of the above-named Gertie Emily Gorman Webb, and as against a will of the above-named Gertie Emily Gorman Webb, executed prior to the will offered for probate in the above-entitled proceeding, and a person interested in the event of the above-entitled proceeding, by Cohalan & Cohalan, his attorneys, objects to the probate of the paper writing propounded as a last will and testament of Gertie Emily Gorman Webb, deceased, dated Aug. 21, 1922, upon information and belief on the grounds following:

"1. That said propounded paper is not the last will and testament of said Gertie Emily Gorman Webb, decesed.

"2. That said propounded paper was not executed pursuant to the requirements of the statute in such case made and provided and that such propounded paper and its provisions are null and void.

"3. That at the time said propounded paper purports to have been executed, the said decedent was not of sound mind and did not possess testamentary capacity.

"4. That the execution of such propounded paper (if ever executed) was obtained from said above-named Gertie Emily Gorman Webb by fraud, deceit or undue influence upon the part of Charles Webb or some other person or persons acting in privity and in conjunction with him or in his behalf.

"Wherefore, this contestant prays that the petition for the probate of the alleged will herein propounded be dismissed with costs and this contestant demands a trial by jury of all the issues raised in this proceeding.

"COHALAN & COHALAN,
"Attorneys for Contestant.
"100 Broadway, New York City."

Similar objections, it was learned, were to be filed today in the Surrogate's Court on behalf of William T. Hunter Jr. of Devon, Pa., and Mrs. Irene Augusta Hunter Derbyshire of Chambersburg, Pa., also cousins of Mrs. Webb and like Edmund A. S. Hunter, children of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hunter of Devon, uncle and aunt of Mrs. Webb. In the will of February, 1921, drawn up by Irving E. Burdick for Mrs. Webb before her marriage, she left $5,000 outright to Edmund A. S. Hunter and trust funds of $10,000 each for the benefit of the other two cousins.

Father and Stepbrother Object.

Mr. Burdick filed yesterday for Samuel Jennings Gorman Sr., father of Mrs. Webb, an amended list of objections, changing the objections filed Tuesday so that the new objections charged the twenty-line will was signed after undue influence or fraud had been exercised on Mrs. Webb. In the original list of objections it was merely alleged that improper influence had been brought to bear. Charges similar to those contained in his father's amended document were filed yesterday in separate objections by the son, Samuel Jennings Gorman Jr., half-brother of Mrs. Webb. In the will, for 1921, drawn by Mrs. Webb left a trust fund of $250,000 for the benefit of her father, of the principal of which $5,000 was to go to her half-brother on their father's death. A contingent bequest of $20,000 was made for the half-brother.

Dr. Meyer insisted that he was in no way interested in any dispute over the Webb properties. His statement, issued from the New York office, at Park Avenue, follows:

"The attitude of the District Attorney toward me, personally resented by me, was reported in the papers prior to my appearance before the Grand Jury. The District Attorney said that in a forty minute conference he did not succeed in getting a statement from me. This is not true. There was no conference. When I did appear before the Grand Jury I was asked to sign a waiver of immunity. Mr. Rowland said I was exposing myself as well as others to indictment if the Grand Jury saw fit.

Dr. Meyer Resents Treatment.

"I signed the waiver but took deep personal umbrage at the insinuation that my professional and conscientious efforts as a physician to further the ends of justice should in any way be questioned. The inference was distinctly given to the Grand Jury before any questions were asked of me that I, as the attending physician, was not beyond suspicion, all of which I deeply resent. I was more than a willing witness. It was not necessary to drag me into the Grand Jury room, because it was I who insisted on an autopsy and investigation.

"It was on the advice of counsel who were dissatisfied with the attitudes of the District Attorney and the Coroner that I appeared before the District Attorney and insisted my story be told directly to the Grand Jury and be made a matter of record. I requested of the Grand Jury the privilege of returning as a witness before that body, that I might further detail circumstances which did not occur to me yesterday. They are so numerous I could not recall all at one sitting.

"I communicated with Mr. Rowland this morning to say I desired to appear before the Grand Jury Monday morning. In view of newspaper statements and insinuations broadcast by Mr. Webb and his attorneys I wish it understood that I have never uttered one word or criticism against Dr. West or Dr. Krug, both of whom are gentlemen of high professional standing and beyond criticism.

Denies He Refused to Consult.

"Mr. Webb told me before witnesses that doctors informed him and his wife that she had but thirty days to live, and any publicity or comment made relative to this feature of the case cannot be laid at this doorstep.

"Mr. Webb also mistakes the fact when he states that I refused a consultation. Mr. Webb paid so little attention to his wife's condition that he failed to make any suggestions, but I resorted to consultations with very reputable physicians and experts long before Mrs. Webb died. On the day of Mrs. Webb's death, when Mr. Webb appeared in the corridor outside the sickroom in company with an attorney and a doctor, I did then refuse the offer of consultation because Mrs. Webb was then unconscious and dying.

"I considered it not in the interests of the patient to permit a twelfth-hour disturbance, especially in view of the fact that Mr. Webb had known for two and a half weeks that his wife was critically ill and on the verge of the grave every moment and yet he made no requests for a consultation.

"I did exclude Mr. Webb from the sickroom six days before her death, the exclusion being forced on me by reason of Mr. Webb's conduct in the sickroom, which was extremely detrimental to the life of the patient.

"Any statement to the effect that I refused to permit Mrs. Webb to sign wills is incorrect, since the signing of any will was never attempted in the sickroom.

"I was not in any way concerned in any will or any legal feature of Mrs. Webb's case excepting such as pertained to her illness, although outside the sick room there was considerable talk from Mr. Webb to me relative to wills, business affairs and financial matters, the very reference to which was extremely disgusting to me.

Webb's Specialist Too Late.

"Relative to the suggested consultations asked for by Mr. Webb I wish it understood that had suggestions come from Mr. Webb in time to do Mrs. Webb any good prior to, or incidental to my own calling in of Dr. Edgar or Dr. Irwin, I would have gladly accepted such consultation. It is when Dr. Floyd arrived he did not appear in time to see Mrs. Webb alive. Mr. Webb gives the impression and wants it understood that I prevented him seeing his wife die. This is absolutely not so.

"When it became evident about noon on the day of death that she had but a few hours to live, I sent for Mr. Webb, who was somewhere at large around the hotel, to tell him that if he wished to spend with his wife her last few hours of life he should come immediate to the sick room. This Mr. Webb refused to do until prevailed upon by some people in the sick room. He made this refusal in these words:

"'We have been together for ten years. One day lost unless not matter.'

"An hour later Mr. Webb did appear in the sick room for five or ten minutes, during which time he manifested no interest in his wife's condition. He then left the room and saw nothing more of his wife alive.

Found "Gross Pathological Evidence."

"With Dr. Otto H. Schultze I was present at the autopsy and in common with Dr. K. P. Kennard and Dr. Thomas Gonsales, assistant medical examiners, I viewed and examined the viscera of Mrs. Webb. I discovered sufficient gross pathological evidence to bear out the contention presented through the authorities of Westchester County that although the findings of the analytical chemist may be considered conclusive if poison is found, the findings are not by any means conclusive if the tests prove negative."

A friend of Dr. Meyer said last evening: "There are being assembled a number of letters which Webb wrote during his wife's illness in which he described Dr. Meyer as a miracle man and lauded him for his untiring devotion to Mrs. Webb's case. These will be offered, if necessary, at the proper time, in refutation of some of the things Webb has been saying."

Dr. Meyer is said to have become suspicious of his patient's ailment because of what he considered its peculiar fluctuations. After clearing up a pneumonic condition he treated her for a kidney affection. The kidney trouble seemed to diminish, whereupon the heart acted badly. The heart became better and, in turn, the kidneys were again functioning properly. This repetition of these fluctuations led Dr. Meyer to suspect something was wrong. It was said by a friend of his yesterday, these suspicions being accentuated when he learned that somebody had made bichloride of mercury preparations for Mrs. Webb. It was in consequence of these suspicions reported to have been arrived at also by the patient, that the supposed ante-mortem statement was made by Mrs. Webb. This statement was said to have named the person who mixed the bichloride of mercury preparations for Mrs. Webb.

Dr. Meyer last night refused to comment on this phase of the case. But he said:

"I called up District Attorney Rowland this afternoon and demanded that I be allowed to go before the Grand Jury again next Monday. He was rather reluctant to allow me to do this but finally agreed. I have some very important information about this case which I neglected to give the Grand Jury. There was so much going on before the jury that I became confused."

Mrs. Johnstone Gives Diary to Jury.

For fifty minutes yesterday morning Mrs. Margaret Pollock Johnstone, wife of ex-Judge Robert S. Johnstone of General Sessions, related to the Grand Jury facts in her possession about the illness of her lifelong friend. She was smiling when she emerged. Mrs. Johnstone is attractive and wore a pink brown velvet hat trimmed with minks, brown silk dress and a long suverna gray coat with silver fox collar. Mrs. Johnstone said in an interview early this week that she suspected that poison had been administered to Mrs. Webb. She said she had kept notes of some thirty conversations and incidents of the sick-room period. Mrs. Johnstone was accompanied to the Court House by her husband, who refused to permit her to be interviewed. Stanley Richter, Mr. Johnstone's law partner, was with them.

"I told Mr. Rowland yesterday that Mrs. Johnstone would appear voluntarily before him at any time and tell whatever she knew," said Judge Johnstone. "She was prepared to make a statement to him before going into the Grand Jury room, but he said yesterday he did not want her statement. Our only interest in the matter is to uphold truth and justice."

When she came out of the Grand Jury room, Mrs. Johnstone was asked whether she had been permitted to talk freely. "What woman needs to be prompted to talk?" she replied with a smile. "Mr. Rowland was altogether considerate. He did not question me but let me tell my story in my own way."

When she was asked whether she had presented her notes, Judge Johnstone interposed: "Mrs. Johnstone had the notes with her when she went into the Grand Jury room and she hasn't got them now. You can draw your own inferences."

Probable Witnesses Named.

District Attorney Rowland said that if the chemical analysis showed poison in a lethal dose, he would present as witnesses next week, beginning Monday morning, Dr. Gettler, Dr. Kennard, Dr. Gonsales and Dr. Schultze, all of whom have examined the viscera either at the autopsy or in the pathological laboratories of Bellevue Hospital; Dr. Meyer, in consequence of his desire to add further testimony; Dr. Davenport West, who attended Mrs. Webb in New York at Roosevelt Hospital; Dr. A. V. Edgar, New York diagnostician who examined the patient; Dr. Frank N. Irwin of White Plains, an eye specialist called in to examine Mrs. Webb's eyes; Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hunter, the uncle and aunt who joined in compelling an autopsy; Anna Herzog of 1 Hunt Place, White Plains, and Dorothy Dayton of 91 Central Avenue, White Plains, the nurses who attended Mrs. Webb.

It was reported that other witnesses might include Wilson Woolpert, S. Jennings Gorman Sr., S. Jennings Gorman Jr., George H. Taylor, a friend of the Webbs, who said he made notations of recent conversations with Mrs. Webb; John F. McIntyre of General Sessions, who visited Mrs. Webb in the sick room and who told Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora of New York County that her impending death involved suspicious circumstances; Irving E. Burdick, who drew up the pre-marriage will, and Mrs. McIntyre and Mrs. Burdick, who, with Mrs. Johnstone, were constantly at the sick woman's bedside during the last several days of her life.

District Attorney Joab H. Banton said yesterday that unless it was established that the administration of poison, if any was administered, began in New York County, he would not attempt to take over the case. "Of course," he added, "if the District Attorney of Westchester County asks us to assist him, we will be glad to give him what help we can." No witnesses in the case have been examined in Mr. Banton's office.

In the very center of Manhattan's financial and big-business zone, stands this great home of an indispensable Service to Man—Suretyship.

Radiating out from it are the arteries of modern Progress and its broad vision takes in the furthest horizons of Trade—those argosies of Industry and Commerce which set their sails against the winds of Seven Seas.

The Strategic Location of 100 Broadway

The far-sighted Dutch colonists of New Amsterdam who built a wall across its northern boundary to protect themselves against the Indians did not foresee that in less than 300 years the site of that wall (Wall Street was then merely a street within the wall) would be the financial center of the world.

Today it is estimated that more and larger business enterprises are planned, established and controlled within gunshot of "100 Broadway" than in any other district of similar size in the world.

In this strategic center of the very heart of America's "big business" stands the majestic building of America's great Surety Company. Within its walls much of the important Corporate Surety history of the country has been written.

The part played by Corporate Suretyship in the growth of our nation has been a tremendously important one. The bonds issued by this Company have inspired a feeling of security in thousands of employers and a feeling of pride in thousands of their employees; they have facilitated the business of governments; they have multiplied the power of great undertakings requiring guaranty of performance; they have safeguarded widows and orphans, expedited the procedure of the courts, eased attachments on property and vacated libels on vessels.

This service is at the command of bankers, manufacturers and business men who desire the highest form of Suretyship the world has ever devised.

SIX CITIES IN RUHR PAY FRENCH QUOTA

But Most Industrialists Are Still Reluctant to Meet Occupation Levy.

MINERS FLOCK TO WORK

Five Officials of Duesseldorf Face Death for Alleged Part In Riot.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 3.—The first serious indication of the good intentions of the German industrialists was given this afternoon at Essen when the managing director of Krupp's called at the French engineers' mission to obtain a transport permit for very large quantities of coal from the Neuessener Mine to the Krupp works.

No very definitive instructions seem so far to have reached the Ruhr industrialists from Berlin, and while the workers manifest a strong desire to return to work, the employers continue to hold aloof. A member of the French mission said this afternoon that during the eight days which have elapsed since passive resistance was officially abandoned by Chancellor Stresemann the industrialists seemed to interpret the abandonment as warranting demands for all sorts of favors from the French. What chiefly appears to worry the Germans is collection of the coal tax. The French not only demand that this be paid in the future but expect arrears due in recent months to be settled. Only one mine so far has shown tangible good-will by depositing $10,000 on account of arrears.

Negotiations are proceeding regarding future delivery of reparation coal, but have not yet reached any very definite form. The French, however, expect new developments within a few days. Meanwhile they are continuing to collect for themselves in the requisitioned mines and have been approached by German mine owners with requests to employ German labor there, instead of Polish and Italian labor as at present.

The chief desire of the Germans now seems to be to regain control of the railroads, which the French have not the slightest intention to give up. The Régie is quite ready to handle anything in the way of transport which may come within the next few months, even with the limited number of railroad men employed at present.

If the outlook is not so bright so far as the industrialists are concerned, the municipal authorities, on the other hand, seem to show themselves more willing to come to an understanding. The Ruhr cities are gradually beginning to acquit the cost of the occupying army, as stipulated in the Versailles Treaty. These payments ceased like all others when the Ruhr was occupied. The towns now paying are Duesseldorf, Essen, Dortmund, Witten, Hörde and Bochum. Elsewhere the French continue to seize funds for payment of the daily cost of occupation.

Officials Face Death for Riot.

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—Three city officials of Duesseldorf and two officers of the Security Police who are under arrest in connection with the riot of last Sunday were formally charged with attempted murder by the French authorities today.

The penalty for this offense under the French military law is death.

The five defendants are Chief of Police Herbert Haas, Police Inspector Hoefner, Criminal Police Inspector Artur Wollenberg, Major Adolf Engel, who is Commander of the Security Police, and Lieutenant Vogt.

The families of all the Security Police involved in the rioting have been interned and are being held in strict confinement in the barracks with the men under detention, according to the German newspapers today.

Several members of the Security Police and a number of German civilians are still missing, and the city authorities have decided to drain the lake near the scene of the trouble with the idea of finding the bodies of some of these persons. When the police fired on the crowd a number of civilians jumped into the lake to get out of the way, and it seems several of these may have been drowned.

ESSEN, Oct. 3 (Associate Press.)—The miners generally throughout the Ruhr resumed work today, according to a reliable German mining authority. It is said they returned to their jobs with the professed intention of bringing the output up to last year's standard as soon as possible.

The negotiations of the French occupational authorities with the railroad men are said to be at a deadlock, with no compromise in sight.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—The French Government some days ago received a proposal from the German Government that the latter send a High Commissioner to the Ruhr, who would negotiate with the French authorities as to the conditions under which work should be resumed. The French Government, it is understood from responsible quarters, refused to receive such an official.

The person named as likely to be appointed by Chancellor Stresemann was Johannes Fuchs, Minister of the Occupied Area. Baron von Maltzan, German Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, in discussing the subject with M. de Margerie, the French Ambassador, was informed that France must decline to have in the Ruhr a representative of the Berlin Government, who, according to the French conception, would undertake argument in opposition to many measures which the French consider necessary.

AMERICAN NAVY'S WORK WINS JAPAN'S PRAISE

Tokio Denies That Ships Ever Were Hampered — Friendship Pledged at Dinner to Woods.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Brigadier General Frank R. McCoy, directing American Red Cross work in Japan, declares in a cablegram to Secretary Weeks that the quick arrival of the American Navy was a "godsend to Americans and other foreign refugees."

General McCoy says the Navy cleaned up the American Consulate ashore, established it anew in camp, searched for and buried American dead, cracked safes and obtained valuables and securities for American and foreign firms, furnished water for all American ships touching Yokohama and for Americans and the army hospital ashore, fought a fire on one American ship, succored two others broken down and repaired their machinery to enable them to proceed, furnished medical aid and supplies to Tokio, Yokohama and Kobe, and also supplies and food to the American Embassy and relief organization at Tokio until the arrival of army transports, and assisted them in unloading and establishing field hospitals ashore.

The Japanese Embassy this evening denied published reports that the Japanese authorities had forbidden American warships to enter the Tokio and Kamakura districts immediately after the earthquake disaster in order to rescue foreigners.

Denial was also authorized by the Embassy of reports that the Japanese military authorities had commandeered the Imperial Hotel and ordered all foreigners who had taken refuge there to evacuate within a few hours.

On the contrary, the Embassy reports that, "deeply appreciative of the spirit which prompted the commanders of the American ships to offer their services, the Japanese authorities naturally extended to them every facility for carrying out their plan of relief."

TOKIO, Oct. 2 (Associated Press).—A month after Japan's greatest earthquake finds funeral pyres still burning in Honjo and Fukagawa wards and in other districts of Tokio, where bodies are being taken from the ruins. Besides these pyres are many shrines where relatives of the dead flock to worship and pray for the spirits of the departed.

The American Japanese Society today gave a luncheon to Cyrus E. Woods, American Ambassador; Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy and other members of the American relief organization here. Baron Kentaro Kaneko presided. Baron Ijuin, Foreign Minister, expressed the gratitude of the Japanese people for "the greatest act of philanthropy in the world's history." Baron Kaneko said that even California, a "hotbed of anti-Japaneseism" forgot the feeling when Japan's hour of need arrived. The Baron said the assistance given to Japan after the earthquake had wiped out all misunderstandings between the two countries.

EX-DRY CHIEF CLEARED.

Jury Finds Samille H. Cone Not Guilty of Bribery.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 3.—A jury in the United States District Court today returned a verdict of not guilty in the bribery charge against Samille H. Cone, formerly Chief of Prohibition Agents in New Jersey. The jury was charged by Federal Judge Joseph L. Bodine, and was out but a short time.

The specific charge was that on April 28 last Cone, with David Wolfson, a saloonkeeper of Perth Amboy, and Edwin Scully, a government truck driver of South Amboy, gave $25 to two dry agents as an inducement not to report a liquor seizure at Wolfson's establishment. Four witnesses testified they saw Cone in Newark the day the deal was alleged to have been transacted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—The Irish Free State has had a great inauguration day in which subjects of all creeds and classes have participated.

The Catholic Archbishop of Dublin presided over high mass at the Cathedral, where he was attended by the highest dignitaries of the diocese, and President Cosgrave accompanied by his Ministers of that faith and by many Deputies and supported by hundreds of Free Staters, was a humble worshipper.

At the other side of the city, in the historic St. Patrick's Cathedral, where Dean Swift once officiated, the Protestant Archbishop occupied the throne, and among his congregation were Lord Glenavy, Chairman of the Senate, and many Senators and Deputies. The Protestant Archbishop reminded them all that just as the elaborators of the American Constitution had given direction to all succeeding political life in the United States, so the men who molded the policy of the Irish Free State in these days, when precedent and tradition were in the making, were entrusted with a double responsibility in that they were working for the present and in a peculiar way for future generations.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—Governor General Healy's address before the joint session of the Irish Free State Parliament today embodied the large legislative program already announced by the Ministers. No reference was made to the Ulster boundary question, but early in the speech the Governor General emphasized that he was acting for King George.

Definite announcement was made of the Government's intention to redeem the bonds issued in America and Ireland in support of the republican movement which led to the establishment of the Free State, and it was implied that the Governor General would give his assent to that course.

Hope was expressed for the ultimate release of the "majority" of the republicans held prisoners, and this was interpreted as indication that the leaders would still be held, the rank and file being liberated.

On the unemployment question, now the most urgent of the Irish problems, the address indicated no definite policy, but hope was held out for submission of proposals to the Dail Eireann, for constructional work of a relief nature. The gravity of the situation was indicated by an announcement from President Cosgrave that the Dail should adjourn for a week to enable the Ministers to attend the conference on the labor question now being held in Dublin.

Governor General Healy said the development of the agricultural industries claimed consideration and that bills for their encouragement would be introduced. Legislation to insure the effective working of local governments, several administration bills and temperance legislation also were foreshadowed.

The address concluded with an appeal for economy in public and private expenditures.

Before the assembling of the Parliament religious services for the Senators and Deputies were held in the Protestant and Catholic cathedrals.

It was officially announced today that 230 prisoners had been released in June, 300 in July, 700 in August and 900 in September.

HITLER STORMS AT FOES.

Declares Germans Should Have Destroyed All Ruhr Plants.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A two-hour visit at the headquarters of Adolph Hitler is described by The Daily Mail's Munich correspondent, who received a rather poor impression of the Bavarian Nationalist leader and his following.

The correspondent says that all he heard from the Hitlerites was a denunciation of other people and diatribes against the parliamentary system. They denounced Communists, Socialists and capitalists equally in unrestrained terms, some of them giving the writer the impression that they were dangerous fanatics.

The correspondent asserts that the Hitlerites have plenty of rifles and machine guns. He describes their leader as a good-looking, smartly dressed man of 35, who fixed upon him a penetrating glance and then, in reply to a question, said the form of government in Germany was of small consequence.

"It is not a question of republic or monarchy, but of delivering Germany from the men who betrayed her," Hitler is quoted as saying. He violently denounced the termination of passive resistance, adding that every factory and furnace in the Ruhr should have been destroyed.

MORGAN IN POLISH FINANCE.

Part of Note-Issue Security to Be Deposited Here.

WARSAW, Oct. 3.—Commander Hilton Young of London has been appointed financial adviser of the Polish Government under an agreement between M. Kucharski, Polish Minister of Finance, and the Bank of England. He is to arrive here Oct. 7 with H. A. Trotter and E. Benson of the British Treasury. Their first work will be to draw up a detailed plan for the new Polish State Bank of issue.

The general agreement already made between the Bank of England and Poland provides that gold and American money in the hands of the Polish Treasury shall be deposited with the Bank of England and with J. P. Morgan & Co. of New York, as security for the new note issue, the understanding being, however, that no loans shall be floated in the United States.

The capital of the new bank probably will be $40,000,000, subscribed in part by the Polish Government and the remainder by the public, the expectation being that many of the Poles in America will desire to take shares.

The Polish Diet will meet Oct. 9, with the principal bills on the calendar relating to a reorganization of finances, including the balancing of the budget and the cessation of additions to the unsecured paper currency. It is with the latter object that Finance Minister Kucharski is negotiating with London financiers for a loan of £10,000,000.

ADMITS KILLING STRANGER.

Kels Burned Body and Fled to Let Wife Get Insurance.

EUREKA, Cal., Oct. 3.—Alex Kels, a wealthy butcher of Lodi, confessed to the authorities early today that he killed a stranger on his ranch near Lodi on Sept. 12, set fire to a haystack near his automobile to burn the body and disappeared to enable his wife to collect insurance amounting to $100,000.

Kels told the officers, they said, that his action was taken because he was in financial distress. Who the man was he killed, he declared, he did not know. He picked up the stranger at a Lodi free employment agency, he said, and took him to his ranch, where he shot him. He then put the body into the automobile, heaped hay around the machine, set fire to it and fled.

For nearly three weeks the body has been believed to be that of Kels. It was buried after one of the most elaborate funeral services ever held in San Joaquin County, at which 3,000 persons were present.

Kels said he had not expected to realize on the insurance money, but to assure his wife of getting it and enabling her to discharge business obligations he had contracted. Mrs. Kels is in a serious condition at her home in Lodi and has not been told that Kels is alive and under arrest. Kels was arrested here Monday night. He said he had been traveling throughout the Southwest since his disappearance from Lodi.

A former resident of Lodi recently notified the authorities that he had seen Kels in Reno, Nev., and the latter finally was traced to Eureka.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 3.—Some time back a desire was expressed for approximation of the currency of the West Indies to that of Canada and the United States and the Secretary of State for the Colonies appointed a commission to examine the question which has reported. Lord Devonshire has sent a dispatch to the Governors in which he concludes that there are many difficulties in the way and that the matter should be publicly ventilated as fully as possible. No change will be made unless there is substantial agreement among the colonies.

OUST 2 EMPLOYES OF CANAL BUREAU

signed my own audits. This year I was informed that the people who would transact business would be designated. I believe that Miss Connor told me that."

Miss Connor is secretary to the present head of the Canal Department, Edward S. Walsh.

Told to Patronize Swasey Firm.

Either Mr. Grady or Mr. Doyle had told him to patronize the Swasey firm, he testified, on the ground that the company was ideally situated to take care of the bureau's canal machinery requirements. He had heard that Swasey dined with employes of the department but did not know Grady's brother was identified with Swasey's firm until the last few days.

Judge Kellogg asked about the purchase of the electric generator for $900 which it was charged by Colonel Greene, the Albany firm purchased from the Fairbanks-Morse Company for $435.

"Why did you make the requisition on the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company?" he asked.

"I was told to," replied Castor, "the order came from Mr. Doyle."

"Did you know anything about the price of it?"

"I was told that this year the persons from whom supplies were to be purchased and the prices to be paid were none of my business."

"Whose business was it?"

"Miss Connor, Mr. Doyle and Mr. Grady."

Castor was asked specifically about an order for an air compressor. The witness was not certain whether Mr. Doyle or Mr. Grady had counseled the purchase. On reflection, he was inclined to think that he had telephoned to the supply company's office himself and asked the price.

Castor was asked about the fourteen lengths of 60-foot chain which a witness yesterday remarked "seemed to have been made of precious metals."

"I think that Mr. Doyle told me to place that order with the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company," said Castor. He had been told, he added, that prices were none of his business.

Hints at Wider Inquiry.

Digressing and giving the inference that the investigation will branch out, Judge Kellogg asked about the purchase of nine cranes during the administration of Charles L. Cadle, former Superintendent of Public Works. So far as the witness knew, only one of the cranes had been used, that in operation at Troy. The price of the nine cranes had been $31,000.

Miss Connor testified that part of her job was to open the mail at the bureau and she had been impressed by the number of bills that came from the Albany firm. She seldom opened the mail without encountering bills for $800 and $900 from the company. Her curiosity had been aroused and she had made inquiries.

"I asked Mr. Castor," she said, "why the purchases were centralized in the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company. I asked him why the business was not spread around among other firms. I was told that Mr. Swazey had the special equipment that we needed, but I changed an order and sent it to another firm and we got the goods. Since then Mr. Castor has never come to me with a requisition on the Supply Company.

"All of the equipment seemed to come from one company. I maintained that there should be competitive bidding as it was only fair that some other firms should be given some of the business. I told Mr. Walsh about it. He dictated a memorandum which he was to give to Mr. Doyle, the Deputy, on his return from a vacation.

"The memorandum stated that goods were not to be purchased from the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company. On Mr. Doyle's return Mr. Walsh did not give him the memorandum but he spoke to him about it. I don't know Mr. Swazey, but I understood that all of the purchases were made through him. I spoke to Mr. Doyle also. He said that Mr. Castor told him that the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company was the only firm with the special equipment needed by the department."

"But materials were purchased after that and in the same volume?" asked Judge Kellogg.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

Brother a Salesman, Grady Admits.

When Grady was called he admitted that his brother had been a salesman for the supply company, but said he had resigned last month. He denied that he had had anything to do with the purchase of supplies.

One of Judge Kellogg's questions brought out that it is and has been the custom of the Canal Bureau to pay for dredging by the day and not, as is customary, by the cubic yard dredged. Grady said the bureau had felt that the contractors should be reimbursed for their time spent in moving from one bar to another.

"Well," remarked Judge Kellogg, "it means that the longer a man works the more he gets."

Hulsapple testified that on several occasions he had borrowed $50 from Swazey.

"You knew that he was a big dealer with the State—how did you come to borrow money from him?" was asked.

There was no answer to this. Judge Kellogg then asked if a Superintendent in the western division of the canal system had not returned a bill for manila rope with the notation that the price was unreasonably higher than the price in the open market. The witness said that he had shown the protest to Doyle.

"Mr. Doyle said that the rope had been bought in good faith and that he'd like to have it passed," said Hulsapple, who then added that the bill had been passed by him.

ZR-1 FLIGHT SHOWS SMALL FUEL COST

AVERAGED MILE A MINUTE

Engineers Point Out Commercial Possibilities of Dirigible as a Carrier.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 3.—The safe return of the ZR-1 to Lakehurst at sunrise yesterday from its successful 2,200-mile flight to St. Louis via Chicago established new commercial possibilities for sky liners, experts were saying at the hangar tonight. The Zeppelin engineers predicted that liners, airplanes and limited trains eventually would be relegated to second place by first-class travelers who pay for safety, speed and comfort.

Rear Admiral W. A. Moffatt, Chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, and Commander Frank R. McCrary contented themselves with pointing out that the ZR-1 had made an economy record on the Chicago-Lakehurst leg, a distance of 725 miles as the crow flies, which was covered in twelve hours flat and on a fuel rate of about five-sixths of a gallon of gasoline per mile.

Admiral Moffett, whose presence as a passenger on the homeward beat from St. Louis gave the ZR-1 the distinction of being the first airship to fly a Rear Admiral's burgee, expressed himself in the best terms of the ship's performance, and contrasted the $150 fuel cost from Chicago with the similar bill on any Chicago-New York railway limited. Commander McCrary, the skipper, said: "All plans were more than carried out. The feature of the trip, of course, was its commercial significance. The ship could easily have carried five to ten tons of cargo or passengers in addition to the forty-two officers and men. Transportation technique in this country is in for something, wait and see."

Commander McCrary said that the ZR-1 had reached a maximum speed of seventy-six miles an hour during one spurt returning from Chicago. He hailed this a record for lighter-than-air craft. The designated maximum speed of the air vessel called for in the contract was sixty miles, an average it pretty well maintained throughout, he said. The entire trip, according to the log, consumed 47 hours and 49 minutes, of which 46 hours were spent in the air.

No definite plans for future flights of the ZR-1 have yet been announced. The dirigible will be christened the Shenandoah, an Indian word meaning "Daughter of the Stars," next Wednesday by Mrs. Edwin Denby, wife of the Secretary of the Navy.

FOUR ATTACK YOUNG WOMAN

All Held at Hackensack—Victim Sends Plea to Husband in Brooklyn.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Dina Vasgues, 18 years old, of 139 Sands Street, Brooklyn, was attacked in East Rutherford this afternoon by four young men with whom she was taking an auto ride. Her screams attracted men working in the Standard Bleachery. They called the police, and Pasquale Mirola, Anton Ammureato, Joseph Russo and Vincent Fortirella, all of Brooklyn, were arrested.

Mrs. Vasgues told Justice John C. Weaver that she knew Ammureato and accepted his invitation to take a ride. She said that all five of them drove to Paterson and that on the return she was ordered out of the car and the men attacked her.

The men were committed to jail and the young woman was held as a material witness. She pleaded to be allowed to go to her husband who, she said, cannot understand English, permission to write to him in Spanish having been denied. She said his name is Angelo Vahgues, employed in the Robert Gair Chocolate Plant, in Washington Street, Brooklyn.

"Won't some one please let him know where I am, for I am afraid he will go back to Spain and leave me all alone?" she cried.

County Detective Dawson promised to help her.

DICKSON GIRL HAD A SECRET

Murder Victim Was Melancholy Shortly Before Her Death.

Special to The New York Times.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Oct. 3.—This, the twelfth day of the search for the murderer of Emma Dickson, the Bricksboro high school girl, was uneventful.

"Until we have direct evidence," said County Detective Lore, "there will be no arrest made."

According to some of the sworn statements obtained by Lore today, the murdered girl had told her father and a number of friends that she was going to be married at Elkton, Md.

Several days before she disappeared, the investigators learned, she became melancholy and had crying spells, but to none of her chums did she tell the cause of her sorrow.

Thompson Dickson, father of the slain girl, returned to his work today on the Bricksboro wharf.

No Rolls-Royce has ever worn out.

In Rolls-Royce, motor car design has reached its greatest perfection. Its beauty is the perfect union of strength and grace. It is not subject to the whim of transient style. The quiet dignity of the Rolls-Royce that passes you to-day probably was created years ago—years hence, it still will be a motor car of unapproachable distinction.

But the greatest superiority of the Rolls-Royce must be learned through use. To ride in it and to drive it is to enter a new world of automobile comfort. To experience its simplicity of operation, its incomparable riding quality, is to understand the results of perfect building. . . . . Announcing the addition to this establishment of an elaborate, spacious, and modern

MEZZANINE FLOOR

Wherein our Book Department is now located

SINCE it is our constant policy to improve the service of this establishment in any manner that will add to the comfort of our patrons, this change has been made in order to facilitate accessibility to our Main Floor Executive Offices which we have now moved to a more central position.

Customers seeking information from these offices will thus find any lengthy or tiresome trip through our crowded Main Floor aisles happily eliminated.

An added advantage of this change is the fact that our Personal Shopping Bureau, formerly located on the Fifth Floor, will now assume its rightful and far more convenient position on the Main Floor, in the immediate vicinity of the new Mezzanine.

This addition is typical of our constant aim to bring the convenience of our establishment to absolute perfection, thereby uniting to our standard of QUALITY MERCHANDISE the equally important standard of QUALITY SERVICE.

ONE PAIR DIVORCED OF SEVEN MARRIED

Federal Census Survey for 1922 Shows a Marked Increase Since That of 1916.

MARRIAGE RATE DECLINES

One-fiftieth Fewer Weddings Per 100,000 Than in 1916 Are Recorded.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—There was one divorce to every 7.6 marriages in the United States last year, according to the record disclosed today by the Census Bureau's marriage and divorce survey, the first since 1916, when there was only one divorce to almost 9.3 marriages. There were one-fifth more divorces and about one-fiftieth fewer marriage per 100,000 of population last year than in 1916. The statistics, which include figures for every State, were issued without comment.

There were 1,126,418 marriages recorded last year, while in 1916 there were 1,040,684, showing a numerical increase of 85,734. To every 100,000 of population, however, there were only 1,033 marriages in 1922 as compared with 1,055 in 1916, a decrease of 2.08 per cent.

Maryland led in the marriage rate with 1,539 per 100,000 of population. Arkansas was second with 1,497, Florida third with 1,463, and Mississippi fourth with 1,454. North Dakota, with 575, had the lowest rate.

The divorces granted last year were 148,554 for the whole country, against 112,036 in 1916, an increase of 36,518. To each 100,000 of population there were 136 divorces last year as compared with 113 in 1916, an increase of 21.4 per cent.

Texas led the country in the number of divorces in 1922, with a total of 13,-399, which was one-fifth of the number of marriages in that State. Illinois was second in the number of divorces, with 10,895; Ohio third, with 10,152, and California fourth, with 9,227.

South Carolina reported no divorces, as its laws permit none. The District of Columbia had the smallest number, 161, and the lowest rate per 100,000 population, with thirty-seven. New York had the next lowest number, with forty per 100,000; North Carolina the third lowest, with fifty, and North Dakota the fourth, with fifty-one.

Nevada had the largest number of divorces per 100,000 poulation, with 1,336, and the number of marriages in that State was less than the number of divorces, being 1,208 per 100,000 population. Oregon had the second largest number of divorces per 100,000 population, with 811, Oklahoma was third, with 262, and Texas fourth, with 259.

There was one divorce to 35.3 marriages in the District of Columbia, to 22.6 marriages in New York, to 19.4 in Georgia and to 16.6 in North Carolina.

Coolidge Calls Governors to Confer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Invitations were sent from the White House today to the Governors of all the States for a conference with President Coolidge Oct. 20 to discuss law enforcement, particularly as applied to the prohibition, immigration and anti-narcotic statutes. The plan for the conference provides that the heads of the Departments of Justice, the Treasury and Labor, which are particularly concerned with the enforcement of this legislation, shall present the views of the Federal Government with respect to co-operation in enforcement.

WOULD INDICT HILL FOR MAKING WINES

District Attorney at Baltimore Will Ask Jury Action on Homemade Beverage.

HAYNES RULES AGAINST IT

Notifies Maryland Representative His Manufacture Violates the Dry Law.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 3.—The United States District Attorney announced tonight that he would ask the Grand Jury to indict Representative John Philip Hill tomorrow on the charge of violating the Volstead act.

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has notified Mr. Hill that his experiments in making fruit juices in his home are in violation of the law, which prohibits the manufacture and possession of alcoholic liquor for beverage purposes.

Mr. Hill has stated that he started the manufacture of fruit juices in his cellar for home use exclusively, first advising Commissioner Haynes and requesting that prohibition inspectors visit his home to ascertain at what time the beverage passed the legal limit.

Commissioner Haynes declared that under the official chemical test made by his office there was an alcoholic development ranging from 6.32 per cent. by volume to 23.23 per cent. by volume.

"In my letter of Sept. 7 the Commissioner said, 'I made it clear that while cider and non-intoxicating fruit juices, when made exclusively for use in the home, do not come fully within the purview of Title II. of the National prohibition act, as relates to definition, permissive requirements, &c., they do nevertheless come within its scope when intoxicating alcoholic strength is developed, and are obnoxious to the inhibition that intoxicating liquor shall not be manufactured, sold, transported or possessed for beverage purposes.

"You request to be advised as to whether these developments of alcohol in non-intoxicating fruit juices and similar developments generally are lawful, and I have no hesitancy in holding that they are in violation of the provisions of the national prohibition act, which prohibit the manufacture and possession of alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes, and I therefore feel it my duty to bring the matter to the attention of the United States District Attorney for the District of Maryland for such action as he may deem proper in the premises."

When informed that United States District Attorney Woodcock of Baltimore might not prosecute him, despite Commissioner Haynes's charge that he was violating the law, Mr. Hill said in a message from Southampton, L. I.:

"If the District Attorney refuses to act, I shall request the Attorney General to appoint a special assistant to prosecute me. The American people are entitled to an honest declaration of what the law is—and I intend to get it."

The New Fall Overcoats

ONE of the largest and most important collections of light Fall overcoats ever assembled by this store is now on display.

Many desirable varieties are represented; the fabrics come from England as well as America. Some of these coats were tailored in England, the others by some of the best makers in this country.

Many Colors, Shades, and Patterns Are Here

Light grays, dark grays, browns, tans, plaids, overplaids, checks, herringbones—a remarkable assortment.

The weaves and patterns here presented are those esteemed by Park Avenue in New York and by Old Bond Street in London; the tailoring is careful and in conservative taste. Cheviots—those soft-finished, woolly-feeling fabrics; tweeds—so long wearing and comfortable. Raglan sleeves, or set in sleeves; either are correct, and both are here. The cut is full and roomy, as it should be.

$27.50 to $49.75

At these prices we believe there are no values in New York City which compare. Old Macy customers know this thoroughly; new Macy customers have a surprise in store for them.

2 FIFTH AV. STORES PUT IN RECEIVERSHIP

J. M. Gidding & Co. and Bennat & Co. Are the Firms Involved.

NEITHER PLACE TO CLOSE

Assets Are More Than Sufficient to Meet All Liabilities, It Is Announced.

Receivers in equity were appointed in the United States District Court yesterday for J. M. Gidding & Co. and Bennat & Co., both widely known dealers in women's apparel, with stores on Fifth Avenue. The Bennat receivership followed the appointment of a receiver for the Gidding firm and was based on the claim of the Gidding receiver for rent due on 564 Fifth Avenue, now occupied by Bennat & Co.

The lack of cash to meet maturing obligations was the reason assigned for the conditions leading to the receiverships. It was said that the adjustment of the affairs of the companies through a court of equity would conserve the interests of the creditors. It was understood that neither of the stores would close.

Following the filing of the bill against J. M. Gidding & Co., Judge Learned Hand appointed Leo A. Price receiver for the firm and fixed his bond at $30,000. The estimate of liabilities made in the bill was $1,500,000, of which it was believed that $500,000 was held by banks.

The complainant was Charles H. Mears of Pennsylvania, who has a claim of $10,000 on a promissory note. Rosenberg & Ball of 74 Broadway appeared as counsel for the complainant.

The Gidding firm is described as "an importer and dealer in fashionable women's apparel," with a store at 724 Fifth Avenue and branches in Cincinnati, Duluth, Philadelphia and Washington. The bill alleged that defendant is now without sufficient funds with which to meet its pressing obligations, that actions at law for the recovery of claims are threatened and that the affairs of the defendant are therefore imperiled.

The bill adds that the defendant has a large stock of merchandise of great value, which if sold and liquidated in the regular course of business would prove to be largely in excess of all of the liabilities of the defendant. The slow assets, including real estate and other items, are estimated at $1,000,000 in addition.

Rose & Paskus, counsel for J. M. Gidding & Co., filed an answer consenting to the receivership. Mr. Rose said that except for the shortage of cash the business is such as to enable it to continue uninterruptedly and to effect a reorganization of its affairs in such a manner as to retain its position in the trade.

One of Mr. Price's first acts as receiver was to file another bill in equity directed against Bennat & Co., Inc. He alleged that the Bennat firm owed J. M. Gidding & Co. $20,000 for rent on 564 Fifth Avenue, occupied by the Gidding firm before it moved to 724 Fifth Avenue. The complaint lists the liabilities at $154,000 and the assets at $400,000.

Judge Hand appointed Samuel D. Leidesdorf receiver in equity for Bennat & Co and fixed his bond at $20,000. Rosenberg & Ball represent the complainant and Rose & Paskus the defendant in this action. The answer filed consented to the receivership.

The Gidding Company in January, 1922, opened a beautiful new store at 724 Fifth Avenue, near Fifty-sixth Street. The Bennat Company moved into the store at 564 Fifth Avenue which Gidding vacated.

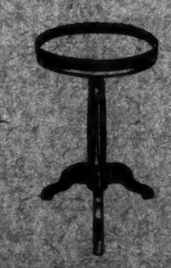
You cannot afford to overlook Lightolier when making your selection

Varied in their design and beautiful in their effects are the Lightolier candle shades and shields in exquisite colors. They are here awaiting your inspection—and their prices will appeal to your sense of economy.

Unexpectedly good values are included in the noteworthy group of lamps at Lightolier, marked to sell special at $24.

Good-looking andirons enhance the charm of the fireplace, and at Lightolier you will see andirons in great profusion. Though there is a wide variety, they all have three things in common—they are handsome, of finest quality and inexpensive.



Another of many real inducements for coming to Lightolier is this unique French table of solid walnut with genuine marble top. Its price is only $12.50, and it is typical of many unusually fine values in unusually fine furniture.

Lightolier sounds the newest note in mirrors, and you will see them displayed here in all shapes and sizes. In the hall, in the dining-room over the buffet, or over the serving table, in the living-room—in any part of your home, Lightolier mirrors will add their charm. The piece illustrated is of imported French plate, is hand-engraved, and measures 20 inches by 36 inches; only $62.50.

Home, Sweet Home—with Lightoliers

IN THE splendid Lightolier Galleries you will find an infinite variety of beautiful lamps, together with unique pieces of occasional furniture, fashioned to adorn gracefully the nook, the corner and the big open spaces of every room.

The discerning shopper has also discovered that at Lightolier prices are so low that the usual special sale prices quoted around the town seem high in comparison.

This porcelain vase lamp is decidedly individual, yet entirely characteristic of Lightolier quality and value. Its price complete is but $28.50—and there are many more lamps, of all sizes and shapes, and all moderately priced.

MAGNUS JOHNSON TALKS TO COOLIDGE

President Discusses the Farm Situation in the Northwestern States With New Senator.

PLAN FOR WHEAT GROWERS

Arrival of the Minnesotan at the White House Offices Causes an Unusual Stir.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Magnus Johnson, the new Farmer-Labor Senator from Minnesota, conferred for twenty minutes today with President Coolidge, and his visit to the White House offices caused a stir that seldom has been equalled by the calls of Ambassadors, or even Princes and potentates.

Long before the new Senator arrived a small army of photographers encamped about the White House, and a host of newspaper men gathered in the corridors of the Executive offices. Accompanied by former Representative Baer of North Dakota, George D. Brewer, Senator Johnson's political adviser, and Miss Josephine Loftus, his secretary, the Minnesotan arrived a few minutes before the time of his appointment and was ushered into the office of Secretary Slemp.

While waiting to see the President Mr. Johnson talked with Mr. Slemp, who remarked that the new Senator was much different in appearance from photographs, which had always portrayed him with a pitchfork or some other farm implement. He was introduced by Mr. Slemp to Secretaries Work and Wallace, and Senator Harreld, Republican, of Oklahoma, who also were waiting to see the President.

Emerging from his conference with Mr. Coolidge, which incidentally consumed more time than the President allotted to any of the more than a dozen callers today, Senator Johnson was besieged by newspaper men with inquiries as to his impression of the Chief Executive.

"The President made a very nice impression on me," he said, and then in true Senatorial style warded off other question with replies that he was not privileged to discuss a Presidential conference. He admitted, however, that most of the time had been devoted to a discussion of the farm situation in the Northwestern States, and said he had presented a plan for alleviating distress among the wheat growers of that section.

Outside the doors of the White House offices the new Senator encountered the photographers and after protesting that "it seems to me that I gave you fellows all the pictures you ever can get printed on yesterday," he posed with the members of his party and then with Secretary Wallace. While posing with the latter Mr. Wallace mentioned something about "we farmers," and Senator Johnson with a chuckle exclaimed:

"'We farmers.' What do you think of that!"

Before leaving Washington this afternoon for Chicago, where he will make several speeches, the new Senator conferred with Secretary Wallace at the Department of Agriculture, discussing the farm situation and means by which the Government can assist in remedying it.

DETECTIVES' TRIAL TODAY.

Sergeants Morrison and Lambert Accused of Accepting a Bribe.

Detective Sergeants William Morrison and David Lambert are to go on trial at Police Headquarters today on departmental charges of accepting a bribe, neglect of duty and testifying falsely. The trial will be held before First Deputy Police Commissioner John A. Leach, the regular trial deputy.

All of the charges grew out of the so-called Petrucci case, which has figured largely in the libel proceedings before Judge Crain, initiated by Police Commissioner Enright against Magistrate Corrigan and Assemblyman Cuvillier. Morrison and Lambert were charged with accepting $2,500 to allow a load of liquor to pass on May 20, 1921.

BOXMAKERS ON STRIKE.

Employers Say No Demands Were Made or Notice Given.

A strike of 4,000 members of the Paper Box Makers' Union, Local 130, of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, began yesterday. Approximately 4,000 more have been ordered out today.

The strike involves 400 manufacturers who are members of the Paper Box Manufacturers' Association. According to the employers, the union served no notice of a strike and no formal demands have been made on the individual employers or the association.

The industry is said to be the largest open shop in New York.

Union officers have notified members that the strike is for the 44-hour week, union recognition, ten legal holidays with pay, a minimum wage of $25 a week for women and $38 for men.

ASK FOR A FUEL DICTATOR.

Flatbush Civic Association Directs Appeal to Governor Smith.

A fuel dictator, with full powers, was urged by the Flatbush Civic Association, members of which held their first Fall meeting at Public School 119, Avenue K and East Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, yesterday. A resolution was passed asking Governor Smith to appoint a coal commission to regulate prices and distribution.

Members declared the coal situation in Brooklyn was "disgraceful," and argued that it had been clearly shown Fuel Administrators heretofore have not had sufficient power to stop profiteering or regulate supplies.

Every Woman's Bright Visions Dawn Upon Her

as if she were endowed with perspience and her eyes were suddenly opened to see what others never thought of.

Women were the first button-makers and suggested the sewing machine and a thousand other devices of ingenuity and labor saving, as one may find out at the Patent Office in Washington.

Any man with but one eye will realise almost without an hour's thought that no others have done so much for the world as women.

Every one has his day, and at last the woman's day has come when she shall rise to her noblest mission.

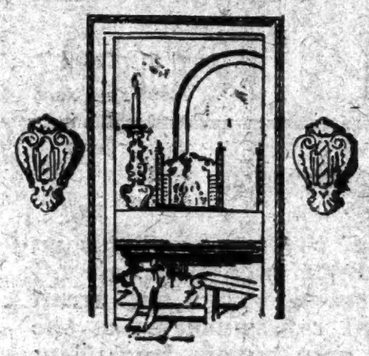
AU QUATRIEME



The Spanish Dining Room

The dining room in the Spanish House, Au Quatrieme, is a room of delightful proportions—forty by twenty feet—with rough plaster walls and four doorways, three of which are arched.

Interesting Wall Cupboards

The walls are whitewashed, so the color in the room is contributed entirely by the furniture and the accessories. On one wall, for instance, at either side of the doorway, are two embrasured wall cupboards, of unusual design, painted a deep faded rose, and filled with old Talavera pottery.

Four brilliant flower paintings, a set of six high-backed chairs covered in crimson brocade, old ecclesiastical embroideries in gold on red velvet, wrought iron appliques, carved and gilded torcheres, have all been used with brilliant effect against the plain white walls.

Carved Chairs with Crimson Cushions

Two magnificent walnut tables have been placed together to make a dining table ten feet long and four feet wide. Six arm chairs, the backs of which are carved with a typically Spanish design of three flowers in a tall jar, have been used with this table. They have loose cushions covered in old crimson brocade, and the six crimson high backed chairs that stand against the wall could, of course, be used to supplement them.

PRESENTING
The Cambodian Silhouette
In Women's Suits

The straight, rather closely fitting jacket with sharply flaring short godets just above the hipline—this is the newest of silhouettes. It is sponsored in Paris principally by Cheruit, and she lays great emphasis on it in her newest tailleurs. She found it, of course, in the brilliant and most exotic costumes of Cambodia—a French province in the Far East. It took a master's imagination to translate this silhouette from gorgeous brocades to the simple twills and woolens of today.

We are now presenting smart versions of this silhouette in two-piece suits.

Fur-collared at $69.50

The suit illustrated is of veldyne with Viatka squirrel collar. Another model has one circular tier edging the jacket, in place of the two at the sides. This has a collar of either black or taupe-dyed fox.

At $98—one may have moleskin collar, cuffs and deep fur tier, or Viatka squirrel, with the tier edged with the fur.

In soft gray, taupe, brown, dark blue, black and an exquisite Venetian blue.

"The Perfect Cloth Frock!"
A Reproduction of Premet's Newest "Petite Robe"

A little price, indeed, for these exquisite copies of Premet's delightful tailored frock—a frock that is even more effective and newer in silhouette than the now famous two-piece one which Mme. Charlotte, of Premet's, made such a success by wearing it everywhere in Paris last summer. This, we are sure, will be quite as successful. We have reproduced it carefully following the very subtle cutting of the slender bodice, for this must be what the French amusingly call "La Robe Collante"—a frock that looks pasted on.

In Juina cloth—in Domergue blue or soft beige; black silk alpaca, or in fine twill in several colors. It may be had with narrow American ermine, or summer ermine collar and cuffs, with lingerie collar and cuffs, or finished with narrow silk binding.

REDLEAF-LONDON CLOTHES and Accessories

The London-New York clothes are a perfect blend of London ease with New York energy. They are made after London fashions, often of British fabrics, but they are tailored the Wanamaker way, mainly in special Wanamaker tailor shops installed for us by some of the leading clothing makers of America.

For this London-New York clothing we select our own models, our own woolens, and then lay down tailoring specifications which will produce the highest type of ready-to-wear clothing—in style, fit, wear-of-the-fit-and-fabric, and general satisfaction.

London-New York Clothes
Business Suits from $30 to $75

The Clothes from London

include lounge suits, golf suits, topcoats, ulsters, ties, waistcoats, sweaters, lounge robes, and the various little accessories that help to make the well-groomed man.

They are shown in the quietness and seclusion of THE LONDON SHOP, and adjoining, located in the rotunda of the New Building, on the Street Floor, easily accessible—no elevators, no distraction of crowds, no waiting for service.

This REDLEAF-LONDON clothing is imported direct from Great Britain, where it is made, and chosen with the counsel of the LONDON HOUSE of John Wanamaker, located on Pall Mall opposite the Carlton Club, in the very center of the men's social life in London. Inspiration to choose the right fashion is always present.

REDLEAF-LONDON Lounge Suits, $55
REDLEAF-LONDON Topcoats, $50
REDLEAF-LONDON Overcoats, $55

Nowhere in New York is there offered a service for men that can equal this DOUBLE SERVICE offered in the Men's Shop at Wanamaker's.

SHOES, also

Smartness tempered with dignity is the characteristic of the shoes now on display. At $7.50, $8.50 and $10 are shoes for all occasions, in a wide range of leathers and lasts, to fit men in all walks of life.

And TIES

Ties for Fall wear are truly beautiful, with their soft, lustrous sheen, and warm colorings. Silk ties are 85c to $3; knitted ties are $1.50 to $3.50.

HATS, also

REDLEAF heads the group of hats—the price is $8. There are plenty of good hats for as little as $3.75—while a fine velour is $15.

And SHIRTS

The fine madras shirt at $1.95 has proved very popular this Fall. Other shirts of cotton range up to $4.50. Silk shirts begin at $7.50—the top price is $13.50.

BIG AIRCRAFT REACH ST. LOUIS FOR RACES

Largest Rigid Dirigible, RN-1, Arrives After Its First Flight.

BARLING BOMBER A SUCCESS

Six-Motored Triplane, Piloted by General Patrick, Greeted by 12,000 on the Field.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—The army RN-1, the largest nonrigid dirigible in the world, made its first flight this afternoon from Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., to the St. Louis airport, arriving shortly after the Barling bomber, the largest airplane ever built, had landed from the same starting point.

Piloted part of the way by Major Gen. Mason M. Patrick, Chief of the Army Air Service, the huge six-motored Barling triplane made an impressive sight as it flew over the city. A dozen small pursuit planes acted as escort to the bomber, appearing from the ground like wasps darting in and around an eagle.

The anticipated arrival of the RN-1 and the Barling machine attracted a crowd of 12,000 to the field, although no events in connection with the international airplane races were scheduled for today. The events will begin tomorrow.

As the bomber glided to the field in a perfect landing, accomplished with ease by Lieutenant Harold R. Harris, Lawrence Sperry in his fourteen-foot wing spread Messenger plane, described as the smallest plane in this country, was caught in the propeller wash and turned upside down. The only damage to the Sperry machine was a broken propeller.

After congratulating W. H. Barling, builder of the airplane, who made the trip from Scott Field, General Patrick spoke enthusiastically of the maneuverability of the huge craft, which is designed to carry 10,000-pound bombs, each bomb being capable of destroying a whole city, according to the Air Service head.

"The Barling is a very easy ship to handle," he said. "We averaged ninety miles an hour on the trip, which took about thirty minutes."

Mr. Barling announced that he was prepared to construct a plane four times the size of the bomber. He said that the successful flights of the bomber had demonstrated the practicability and worth of ships of even larger size.

The RN-1, with its uniquely designed gondola, left Scott Field at 3:30 P. M., propelled into the air at a fast rate by the twin motors. Piloted by Major John A. Paegelow, commandant of the balloon school at Belleville, the ship accomplished its tests for climbing, maneuvering and buoyancy in a half hour and then started in this direction.

Mayor Kiel declared a school holiday in order that the children of St. Louis might inspect the 300 airplanes gathered at the field.

The winners of the St. Louis race, in which airplanes from all parts of the United States participated, were announced today. This race is judged on the basis of distance flown, number of passengers carried, weather encountered and efficiency of operation. The first prize of $500 was awarded to C. S. Jones, who flew from Lincoln, Neb. L. I. H. F. Cole of Pine Ridge, N. J., received the second prize of $250 and W. W. Meyer of Chicago, the third award of $150. Miss Bertha Horcom of Wichita, Kan., held sixth place.

Glenn Curtis, pioneer aeronautical engineer, predicted today that airplanes with a speed of 500 miles an hour would be seen in the sky in a few years.

Free Clinic for Gallstones.

A free clinic for gallstone sufferers will be held at the Good Samaritan Dispensary, Essex and Broome Streets, beginning Saturday, by Dr. Ulvi Goldenberg, Vienna specialist, who arrived on the Aquitania last Saturday. Dr. E. W. Lipschutz of 794 South Ninth Street, Brooklyn, who has charge of the stomach department at the dispensary, will assist Dr. Goldenberg. Dr. Goldenberg will introduce his new system of treatment which, it is said, eliminates surgery. The clinic will be conducted from 10 to noon.

Pledges $50,000 to Hospital.

A gift of $50,000 to the building fund of the new Beth Israel Hospital was pledged yesterday by I. L. Phillips of the Phillips, Jones Company, chairman of the Building Committee, as a memorial to his father, Moses Phillips. The building is approaching completion on Livingston Place, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. Directors said a drive would be launched shortly to raise the $1,950,000 needed to insure the opening of the $4,000,000 institution next April.

To Give Dinner for Judge Blau.

Judge William Blau, who has served in the Municipal Court for twenty-five years, will be the guest of honor tomorrow night at a dinner at the Hotel Astor. Among those present will be ex-Governor Charles Whitman, John Hedges, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Samuel S. Koenig. About 2,000 of the Judge's friends are expected.

House Gift to Girl Scouts.

Edwin Gould has presented to the Brooklyn Girl Scouts a four-story fully equipped building to be used as a Scout house. Mrs. Maude Canfield, Girl Scout Commissioner, announced yesterday.

Glove Novelties from France

Among the many new and intriguing ideas embodied in a recently received importation are embroidered gauntlet gloves, with dainty card case and mouchoir en suite; strap-wrist gloves, with embroidered strap and a mouchoir de gant to match; gauntlets with facings of soft velvet; and a host of quaintly luxurious conceits that might easily have been inspired by the Merry Monarch himself.

A new importation of Marvex Gloves, in the correct colors and lengths for men, women and children, has also been received.

On the floors of the Cotton Exchange

"Dealing in futures" may have its pitfalls for the trader, but not for the builders of the magnificent new Cotton Exchange Building, in New York. They believe in dealing in futures that are certainties. For only the best and worthiest materials went into the construction of the Exchange.

In floors, it was natural that BONDED FLOORS were selected. Guaranteed for satisfactory service, these resilient floors stand the grinding wear of thousands of busy feet every day and give them the maximum in comfort.

Throughout the building, private offices and spacious corridors are equipped with Gold-Seal Battleship Linoleum, Gold-Seal Treadlite Tile and Gold-Seal Rubber Tile—in all, over 100,000 square feet of permanent, beautiful and resilient floors. Gold-Seal Cork Tile was selected for the trading "floor" of the Cotton Exchange.

Many People Pass Your Store—

Do They Enter—and Buy?

THE number of people that pass your store does not matter. Crowds of potential buyers pass every store daily. Your profits depend on the number who stop, enter and buy.

No factor does more to attract attention to your store than good lighting. Nothing else makes merchandise so attractive and thus accentuates quality in goods. No other element adds so much to the hospitality and welcome of a store, or extends such a warm invitation for customers to return. And, most important of all perhaps, good store lighting practically guarantees customers' later satisfaction with the things they buy.

Is your store profitably lighted? Does your lighting give your merchandise a fair chance in a competitive market?

It will pay you to get the kind of lighting that will. Our lighting specialists will be glad to assist you in planning lighting improvements that will help your store produce larger sales and greater profits.

ELIZABETH OFFICIAL HELD AS EMBEZZLER

Councilman for Eight Years Accused by Bank of Which He Was Treasurer.

FATHER PUTS UP $50,000

Savings Institution in Jersey Says Restitution Plus Surety Covers Its Loss.

James J. Keating Jr., City Councilman of Elizabeth, N. J., for the past eight years, was brought into police court there yesterday and held to the Grand Jury on a charge of embezzlement.

The Union County Savings Bank, in which Keating rose from office boy to treasurer in eighteen years, brought complaint that Keating had converted bank funds fraudulently to his own use in a sum not less than $6,085.

James J. Keating, the suspect's father, a wealthy moving van and storage warehouse operator, it was learned had given a $50,000 mortgage to the bank, said to have been on his son's account. The bank announced that restitution already made plus the amount due from the surety company would leave the loss to the bank only nominal, if any.

Keating pleaded not guilty upon arraignment before Police Judge James F. Brown, and bail was fixed at $15,000. Bond was furnished by John J. McGrath, City Treasurer; Frank L. Travers, Board of Works Commissioner; City Plan Commissioner Dennis F. Hennessy and R. G. Rafferty.

The arrest was understood to have been made at the instance of the State Banking Department and the directorate of the savings institution.

John J. Stamler, Keating's attorney, protested that the bank had failed to live up to an agreement made by its counsel whereby it had promised Keating immunity from prosecution in consideration of the mortgage given by Keating's father, and the transfer to the bank by Keating himself of all his property.

President Harry C. Hurt of the bank said that Keating had been dismissed as bank treasurer about three weeks ago, when the alleged shortage had been discovered and had not been arrested until given opportunity to make full restitution, a requirement he had failed to fulfill.

Keating, who is 37 years old, was made treasurer of the institution on Feb. 1 last after a long and respected service in its employ which began in 1905. He was widely known in Elizabeth, a member of various lodges, and as Chairman of the Finance Committee of the City Council was frequently consulted in civic affairs.

ACQUITS MAN-WIFE OF MURDER CHARGE

Chicago Jury Finds Thompson Did Not Kill Tesmer—'Husband's' Testimony Barred.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Fred G. Thompson, who admitted being the husband of a woman while he lived as the wife of a man, was found not guilty of the murder of Richard C. Tesmer, shot in a hold-up, by a jury here today. The verdict was returned after about two hours' deliberation.

Thompson, whose alias was "Mrs. Frances Carrick," took the witness stand and denied the charge. He spoke in the low tones a woman might use, nervously clasped and unclasped his hands, and sobbed as he told of his double life.

After his marriage to Carrick, he testified, he married Marie Clark, but did not live with her.

When asked by his attorney if he killed Tesmer while garbed as a woman, Thompson answered:

"No, gentlemen; I could not kill a cat or a dog."

The witness then covered his face with his hands and sobbed.

After a brief cross-examination Thompson was excused by Justice Cavarly, who remarked: "That will be all, lady."

The defense then suddenly announced that its case was closed.

Thompson has posed for twenty years as a woman, and for fourteen years as the wife of Frank Carrick.

Carrick took the witness stand to testify in behalf of Thompson. When he admitted that he had been married to Thompson, Justice Caverly sustained an objection by the State that Carrick's husband and wife could not testify in behalf of each other.

Suicide Tested Poison on Cat.

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 3.—After trying poison on his cat to find if it caused a quiet death Joseph Decker, 66 years old, of Barberton, took a dose of it himself and was found dead a few minutes later by his wife, with whom he had quarreled. The cat's lifeless body was at his feet.

MASSIVE CANDELABRA

THE TALL and richly wrought candelabrum to the left has nine great candles to illumine its beauty. Only in certain places in certain homes could it be used to good advantage. But regard it, please, as a representative of many others, some of them tiny, some of them small enough for a mantel, others the right size for a table, and others the size for your living room or entrance hall. Two things they all have in common, however; one of them is a high plane of beauty, and the other is a low plane of price.

Candlesticks, too, of many new kinds.

How to Know
Good Clothes

The outside chest pocket of a good coat never sags nor bulges out, as illustrated—

Point No. 7
To avoid this happening, the ends of chest pocket are securely fastened BY HAND with invisible stitches of linen thread to canvas foundation.

In a good coat the lapel never stretches where it rolls, causing it to bulge away from the neck when the garment is buttoned or causing the coat to swing away toward the hips when left unbuttoned, as in drawing—

Point No. 8
To prevent these faults, the stay tape just under natural roll of lapel is basted on tightly BY HAND and HAND SEWN to front of coat foundation.

Point No. 9
As a preventive, both ends of all flap pockets are reinforced BY HAND by strands of heavy silk thread.

The front edges of good clothes never pucker or gather in unsightly wrinkles like sketch—

Point No. 10
To avoid these puckers and wrinkles and give a smooth edge, the invisible reinforcing tape on edge of coat front is HAND SEWN to canvas foundation.

The front edges of a good coat never curl out, as shown in sketch—

Point No. 11
To permanently prevent edge from curling the facing at front edge of coat is HAND SEWN to reinforcing tape with small invisible stitches.

Point No. 12
To keep edge flat and prevent curling, the seam in edge of lapel of a Goodman & Suss coat is invisibly HAND SEWN to correctly tailored front foundation.

(To be continued)

A booklet "How to Know Good Clothes" explaining in detail the "23 points of hand tailoring," including the above points, will be sent on request.

Whom Do You Want To Dress Like?

Every man has a standard of taste and style he wants to dress up to.

Often the clothes of some other man—of a friend or acquaintance—or of a certain type of man, suggests this standard—

The man for example, coming within the general class of professional and business men, whose clothes are called smartly conservative—

Or an upper classman at the university, who dresses in conformity with the type of men, both in and out of college, affecting the collegiate, free-and-easy sort of clothes—

Or a national favorite of the screen whose form-fitting smartness and taste in clothes is adopted by men seeking slenderizing lines.

As the direct result of an analytical study of the style leaders of these three types of men, Goodman & Suss Clothes, with models adapted to meet the tastes of ALL men, offer you the opportunity to make your OWN choice, no matter whom you want to dress like.

Not only this, but Goodman & Suss Clothes also offer you the "23 Point Hand-Tailored" quality which compares with everything in fine custom tailoring except price.

APPONYI SEES AIMS OF WAR UNATTAINED

Declares That Peace Which Was Intended to End War Did Not Do It.

FINDS CURE IN REVISION

Fears a Social Upheaval—Says That Vanquished States Suffered Most.

Count Albert Apponyi of Hungary, speaking last night at a dinner in his honor in the Metropolitan Club, said that, while most of the evils afflicting Europe today could be traced to the outcome of the war, "many of them can be traced directly to the failure of the peace work, which was meant to conclude it and did not."

The dinner was given to the Hungarian statesman by H. J. Caldwell on behalf of the All-American Committee of the Institute of International Education, which invited Count Apponyi to come to this country and deliver a series of lectures on foreign affairs before several universities. Mr. Caldwell was appointed United States Commissioner in Europe by President Wilson in 1919. About 100 persons prominent in education, art and finance listened attentively to Count Apponyi's utterances.

"You kindly asked me to deliver a series of lectures of the stressed state of Europe and of my own country, which, on account of its smallness, has more to dread neglect than hostility," Count Apponyi began. "It is a vast and complex subject I have to deal with, and I must indeed despair of being able to present it in all its aspects, because the evils that afflict Europe are manifold and intertwined with each other. The best-known feature of our present situation, speaking as a European, is economic and financial distress, chiefly located in the vanquished States, though the victors are in no satisfactory condition either. But economic distress of the deep-set kind which afflicts almost all of Europe has its consequences in every field of economic activity. It implies an imminent danger to cultural progress whose possibilities are diminished by the financial difficulties which scientific production is beset with; it contains the direct menace of a social upheaval which would throw Europe into confusion like Russia's, and which, should one country collapse, could easily prove contagious all over the world.

"I then told the gathering that it was his understanding that America made sacrifices in the war "to put an end to war" and that the war, although to be fought to the bitter end," should be followed by a peace just, fair and permanent.

"Now, if you look on the state of Europe," he continued, "and if you put before yourself the question, 'Have we attained the noble aim for which so many of our best sons bled?' and if you are prepared to look facts in the face you get a melancholy answer to that question. The sort of peace that has been concluded and from the making of which America withdrew when she saw her ideals disregarded, which she has not ratified, and of which, therefore, I can speak freely before you, has not really put an end to war and warlike dispositions. It contains seeds of new conflicts because it was concluded in the heat of a persisting warlike spirit, with entire disregard of facts and feelings which affect our natural laws and which will assert themselves whether we wish it or not.

"It is only natural and perfectly legitimate that after a war which called them so enormous sacrifices the victor States should secure some advantages—great advantages even—at the expense of the vanquished party, but there is a limit to this and a limit is laid down by the natural law of political construction and by those of national psychology.

"Nothing which is unnatural, nothing which contradicts the principles on which the making of nations is based, can permanently last; nothing which is unbearable to permanent and indestructible feelings of great or small nations can last, and if such is the structure of the world as to disregard these natural laws, that structure implies the constant menace of a collapse and a constant danger of war.

"Leading up to a plea for a revision of the peace treaty, Count Apponyi said:

"Some of the constructions of the Trianon Treaty are set up in direct defiance of ethnological principles, since of the 10,000,000 souls which we have lose 3,500,000 are Magyars, quite a third part of the total number of Magyars, and 1,200,000 Germans, who have no racial connections with the neighbors to whom they have been given.

"Such is the Trianon treaty, which really looks as if it had been set up as a sort of melancholy practical joke in defiance of every law of political construction: Geography, history, ethnology, economic interdependence, unity of fluvial system and natural leadership of the most cultivated race.

"What, then, is my conclusion? What else can it be but this: that the ultimate remedy to the evils that afflict Europe can be found only in a whole-sale revision of the Peace Treaty inspired by a proper regret for the nature of things, for the wars which every nation represents as the producer and keeper of some of mankind's resources and treasures. Only then can militarism be expiated which now exists to a frightful extent, but in some States only.

"But, though I frankly own that a radical cure over world evils is unthinkable without revision of the peace treaties, I am perfectly aware of the fact that the times are not yet ripe and probably for many a year to follow will not be ripe. It would be absolutely impossible to get anything like a general agreement as to the question of revision on principle and still less in its details.

"The melancholy part of it is that there is a cure for all these evils, that it would not even be so very difficult to carry out if economic questions were dealt with on economic and not on political lines, but if I am to characterise the distracted state of Europe in its economic aspect, I should say the common characteristic of all difficulties that beset Europe is the adulteration of economic activity and economic problems by political hatreds, misgivings and aspirations.

"We look in Europe for somebody or some one who can lift the rulers of nations up to a higher standard of wisdom, whose influence can disentangle them from the prejudices and diffidences in which their better judgment is still implicated, who can lead them from the realm of a persistent warlike spirit into the regions of peace mentality; who can explain to them the lesson which we are told by present distressing circumstances, if we contrive to open our eyes to them, the lesson which reminds us of the great law of solidity of nations as of a law common to every-day material needs and other highest purposes of moral excellence."

A Most Attractive New Model

AEOLIAN-VOCALION

"The Phonograph Supreme"

At a Remarkable Price

A FEW months ago this did not seem possible. To produce a phonograph of our high standard of tone and appearance at such a low price, presented a problem that even The Aeolian Company with its great manufacturing resources found difficult to solve.

$150

It is impossible with any newspaper illustration to do justice to the beauty of this dainty Queen Anne Vocalion with its satin finish in two-tone effect. To appreciate to the full the actual charm of this latest Aeolian achievement one must not only see it but must listen to its rich, full tone—such a tone as is found in no other phonograph. It is equipped with the Graduola, a fascinating tone control feature belonging only to the Vocalion.

This charming instrument delivered to you for a small down payment. Monthly terms as low as $7

FAIR WARNING

To Infringers Upon "Gropperknit" Patent Rights

WE HAVE INFORMED YOU BEFORE THAT the United States Patent Office has granted to the Gropper Knitting Mills, Inc., a patent on the rib stitch construction employed in the manufacture of Gropperknit Neckwear. We have advised you, and you know, that this rib stitch construction is widely advertised and well known by the name of "SERGEKNIT"—a name that is registered at the United States Patent Office by the Gropper Knitting Mills, Inc.

BUT INFRINGEMENT GOES ON

So we are compelled to warn manufacturers who are infringing on this patent—and jobbers who are selling "infringement merchandise"—that we intend to protect our rights in full . . You manufacturers, who know the heartaches and troubles and tribulations of a manufacturer before he perfects an invention so helpful to mankind that the United States Government grants him a patent—and the exclusive rights of manufacture that go with it—you cannot blame us for wanting to enjoy the fruits of our inventiveness, our pains and our labor.

AND PROTECT OUR RIGHTS WE SHALL

We know of 105 manufacturers and 500 jobbers who are infringing on the "SERGEKNIT" patent, and we have engaged Col. Thomas B. Felder and his firm of attorneys to prosecute those violators of our patent rights who continue to disregard our continual warnings.

TO THE RETAIL MERCHANT

Our fight for our rights is not against you . . However, we do have confidence in the retailer's fairmindedness and sense of justice; and we do trust that merchants will not encourage the infringing, imitating and misrepresenting element of manufacturer or jobber.

TO THE PUBLIC

We say—if you want the original and genuine article in "SERGEKNIT" Neckwear and all the benefits thereof see that the ties bear the Gropperknit Label . . . See that you get it. Accept no excuse. The best stores in town sell the genuine Gropperknits.

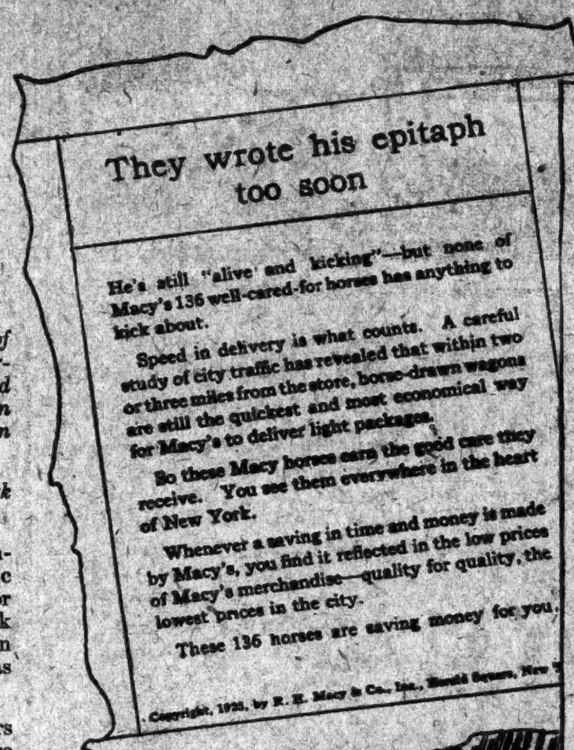
Dear R. H. Macy & Co., Inc.

In reply to yours of recent date—

In your series of interesting editorials about your institution, you recently used the editorial reproduced herewith entitled "They Wrote His Epitaph Too Soon." While it may not have been intended as a reply to our "Goodbye Dobbin" advertisements, we have been busily engaged in writing Dobbin's Obituary and therefore take the liberty of publicly answering your public statement.



They wrote his epitaph too soon

He's still "alive and kicking"—but none of Macy's 136 well-cared-for horses has anything to kick about.

Speed in delivery is what counts. A careful study of city traffic has revealed that within two or three miles from the store, horse-drawn wagons are still the quickest and most economical way for Macy's to deliver light packages.

So these Macy horses earn the good care they receive. You see them everywhere in the heart of New York.

Whenever a saving in time and money is made by Macy's, you find it reflected in the low prices of Macy's merchandise—quality for quality, the lowest prices in the city.

These 136 horses are saving money for you.

Copyright, 1923, by R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., Herald Square, New York

"Good-bye Dobbin!"

ANYBODY who thinks it is cheaper to make deliveries with horses and wagons cuts more than a little corner. He's penny wise and pound foolish.

Today the Budd Dairy Company has 17 Ward Electrics and are saying "Good-bye, Dobbin!"

The Hydrox Ice Cream Co. having said "Good-bye, Dobbin!" has bought 19 Ward Electrics in the last 18 months.

You know the small profit on such things as a loaf of bread, a package of laundry, a quart of milk or ice cream, and you know that the entire output of a bakery, for instance, has to be moved every 24 hours or it's a dead loss.

Isn't it reasonable to suppose that the vehicle that has made good in these difficult fields can make good for you?

Out of every dollar taken in by the average user of horses and wagons in the bakery, laundry, dairy, ice cream and trucking fields, from 10% to 25% and in many cases 30% to 40% goes directly into the 40 separate items you have to figure if you want to find out the total cost of horse-and-wagon delivery.

You can save 20% to 35% of your vehicle costs by using Ward Electrics in place of "Dobbin".

Your Ward Electric driver can do more work—make more calls—every day for you—because Ward Electrics never tire under the reins.

You can store and charge Ward Electrics right at your loading platform—there is no odor, no dirt, no fire risk—greatly decreasing stable expense or doing away with it.

"Dobbin's" average life in frequent-stop city service is 6½ to 8 years. Ward Electrics are built to last more than 10 years and to run almost as economically in the 10th or 15th year as in the first and second.

Hand "Dobbin" for his share of your high overhead and look into Ward Electrics. The saving may be equivalent to 15%, 0% or 0% of your gross business. Quien sabe?

Ward Electric Trucks are made right here in New York, saving you freight, and insuring your factory service by telephone. Six chassis sizes from 750 lbs. to 5 tons.

Our book "Facts to the Facts is Delivery," our unusual prices, our 21 months' payment plan and what Macy's think (the will be sent on request.

You state, among other things, "Speed in delivery is what counts," and you go on to say that, "Two or three miles from the store, horse-drawn wagons are still the quickest and most economical way for Macy's to deliver light packages."

We have considerable respect for your institution and your ability. Yet in talking about delivery you are talking about something in which we have had considerable experience—transportation is our business. Our transportation engineering department has made many surveys of actual routes with scientific recording instruments—stop-watch tests, cost analyses, etc.

As a result of this knowledge and experience, we are loathe to believe that thorough analysis will support your statement that horses are quicker and cheaper for frequent-stop light parcel deliveries two or three miles from the store.

Horses are cheaper than light gas trucks on such routes, because gas trucks are not built for frequent-stop service on short routes; are not sold for that service by intelligent manufacturers and dealers who have the interests of their customers at heart. The gas truck engine, cooling system, and transmission are too complicated for such service, resulting in high repair bills, high operating costs, a great many days out of service, and a loss of time in starting, stopping, shifting gears, etc. In its place—on long routes—the gas truck is ideal—the quickest and most economical delivery for long routes.

But on the work you refer to—frequent-stop parcel deliveries two or three miles from your store—Ward Electrics show a saving in time and a saving in money.

These modern electrics, equipped with modern and efficient storage batteries, are doing this for numerous others. Before the analyses, they were of the same opinion you are, but the facts proved the case for them—why not for you?

The Pilgrim Laundry, for instance, in Brooklyn, do not use horses today on a single route. They operate 41 Ward Electrics. The average mileage of all their Electrics is only 10 miles a day and many of their routes fall within the distance you specify—deliveries two or three miles from the plant. The Corby Baking Co., Washington, recently discontinued all of their horse routes and 11 of their short gas truck routes—they bought 90 Ward Electrics. Hydrox of Chicago, also wrote Dobbin's epitaph. And so on.

Any time that you care to stake the purchase of trucks on a saving in time against horses on frequent-stop deliveries to customers living two or three miles from the store, we will gladly place a truck and a competent engineer on your routes and ascertain the facts—prove the case.

As for the economy of Ward Electrics versus your horses and wagons on these routes, of course we do not know how you figure your horse costs, what items you consider under delivery expense and what items you leave out, if any. When we figure delivery costs there are 40-odd items to consider on all three types of delivery—horses, gas trucks and electrics—including interest, depreciation and upkeep on stable or garage buildings and land, ditto on the vehicles, and, of course, the operating and maintenance charges on the delivery equipment itself as well as insurance, taxes, stable and garage help, drivers' salaries, commissions, etc. In amortizing the investment in vehicles we figure on what experience has shown to be a safe basis. We do not attempt to figure on the probable maximum life of our trucks because they have run 15 years and longer.

If you are willing to have any recognized Certified Public Accountant ascertain your complete delivery costs, we will set up against your figures the Ward Electric costs for the same items. We are willing to pay half or all of the Certified Public Accountant's bill with the understanding that if Ward Electrics will save you time and money you will replace horses with Ward Electrics on such routes as the saving is clearly evident and within such time as it is reasonable to make the change.

We will guarantee that if our trucks cannot do the work on your routes they belong to us, not to you.

In making this offer, we do not ask that any consideration be given to the fact that Ward Electric trucks are a better advertisement than horses, nor that they take up less room in the streets and block traffic less than horses, nor that they are cleaner than horses and do not inflict work upon the City as horses do.

In confining this test to deliveries to customers living within two and three miles of your store, we are meeting the horse on the sole ground that is left to him, if he has any ground at all in New York City delivery—and you seemingly concede the slowness and extravagance of the horse on deliveries beyond a three-mile radius.

If it seems unbelievable to you that Ward Electrics can save you time and money on even these short, frequent-stop routes, then we take the liberty of pointing out that for some years we were almost alone, even among electric truck manufacturers, in advocating the use of electric trucks on horse routes under ten and even fifteen miles. In those days it was a common practice to divide the delivery problem into three parts—an inner circle with a diameter of about fifteen miles or a radius of seven-and-a-half miles was conceded to be horse territory. Another circle with a diameter of forty or fifty miles (or a radius of about twenty-five miles) was drawn and everything outside of that was conceded to the gas truck.

But things have changed. Today we have company in crowding the horse off the streets of our cities. One thing that has done considerable to bring this about has been the route and cost studies on house-to-house milk delivery, where the low mileage and the fact that the horses know the routes were considered insurmountable obstacles. In stop-watch tests on these routes, Ward Electrics saved 1¼ hours per day on long routes and from 15 minutes up on short trips. In addition they saved money.

Having proved the case on milk delivery, it is natural that we get the much easier business in the bakery field, laundry field, ice cream field, etc.

From this you can see why we are not hesitant about resting our case on a real survey of your conditions and costs on your remaining horse routes.

Another interesting indication on whether our viewpoint is correct is to be found from a study of the horse census figures:

In 1910 there were 128,224 horses in the 5 boroughs. In 1921 (1923 census figures not available yet) there were only 65,126 in the 5 boroughs.

The horse, because of his physical limitations, usually operated on routes with a daily mileage of 15 miles or less, which means to points within 7½ miles of the store at the most. If the horse were right for city delivery, and considering the growth of our city and its business, we should undoubtedly have twice as many horses today as we had 10 years ago, whereas there are but half as many horses as 10 years ago.

Therefore we do not think we wrote Dobbin's epitaph too soon. We feel we did not write it soon enough. And we firmly believe that whether you accept our proposal or not, it is a question of a very short time until R. H. Macy & Company will not have a horse left on frequent-stop delivery routes.

"Good-bye Dobbin" has been written on the walls of efficient, economical modern business, and nobody sees that handwriting more clearly than horse advocates, as is shown by the numerous defenses of the horse and the aggressive propaganda that is being used in a futile effort to hold back the rapidly rising tide of trucks.

As for Ward Electrics themselves—we believe we can show you without question that truck for truck we offer you more for your money, and what is more important a truck that will be lower in ultimate cost. That we give you back in actual materials a bigger percentage of your dollar. The simplest trucks made—the fewest moving parts. We believe that they consume the minimum power per average mile of travel winter and summer; that they are in service more days per year, and that they will last you longer.

They are standardized trucks—Sheldon Axles, General Electric and Westinghouse Motors, Edison, Exide, K-W or Philadelphia Batteries, Spicer Universal Joints, Firestone Tires, etc., and the efficient, economical, fool-proof Worm Drive that has won recognition as the best drive to the point where it is now used on more than 72% of all trucks.

Thanking you for your consideration and hoping that you—and perhaps other merchants—will see your way clear to accept this proposal, either as it is made or with any reasonable qualifications that may be necessary, we are respectfully

SALOONS IGNORE PINCHOT'S ORDER

Philadelphia Liquor Dealers Declare Attempt to Close Them Up Is "Meaningless."

NOTICES SERVED ALL DAY

Mayor of Chicago Plans a Shake-Up of Police in His War on Bootleggers.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Most of Philadelphia's 1,300 saloons and cafés remained open tonight despite notices warning them to strip their bars and cease business. The joint campaign of Governor Pinchot and the Federal Department of Justice continued without disorder. Traveling in pairs, State police and Government agents visited hundreds of places during the day, serving the closing order on the proprietors or their representatives. They expected to complete the work tonight.

The majority of the saloon keepers apparently paid but little attention to the order and continued their business as usual. Francis J. Maneely, chief counsel of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective Association, after a conference with officials of that organization, characterized the campaign as "meaningless," "preposterous" and "without sanction of law." He declared members of the association would ignore the order.

State officials said tonight they had obtained ample evidence of liquor selling and were prepared to go into the Federal courts for injunctions against saloon keepers who failed to comply with the order.

United States District Attorney Coles declared that the Government would force the matter to the limit. "You may depend upon it," he said, "that the Attorney General of the United States means business."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Convinced that he is being "double-crossed" by the police in virtually every district of the city in connection with his fight against bootleggers and beer-runners, Mayor Dever admitted today that he was planning one of the biggest shake-ups in the history of the department. It was intimated that numerous Police Captains were scheduled to walk the plank.

The Mayor, it developed, has had a force of private detectives working throughout the city and has first-hand information on conditions. Since starting his war on illegal beers nd liquor the executive has revoked hundreds of licenses and believes that 95 per cent. of the remaining saloons are violating the prohibition laws. The Mayor insists that the police "get the goods" on this 95 per cent. so that he can revoke licenses and make a clean sweep.

SATURDAY NIGHT GRAFT.

Ten Per Cent. of $20,000,000 Food Sales Stolen, Says Holwell.

Commissioner Joseph J. Holwell of the Mayor's Bureau of Weights and Measures told members of the Rainy Day Club yesterday at the Hotel Astor that of the $20,000,000 sales made by the grocers and butchers here every Saturday night $2,000,000 was graft. He was not specific as to the beneficiaries.

The Rainy Day Club has started a campaign for keeping the subway trains clean. Director of Public Health Education S. Dana Hubbard told them no work was more necessary and Mrs. Lella Thalens has prepared a pamphlet calling attention to Sanitary Code Section 213. Penalties for violation are set forth and the Rainy Day members will hand their pamphlet to every lawbreaker they meet.

Mrs. Louis Ralston, the President, presided at the meeting yesterday; Mrs. Frank Martin was Chairman of the day, Mrs. Abel Mishler, Chairman of Reception, and Mrs. J. Christopher Marks one of the guests of honor.

LIMITS BRANCHES OF NATIONAL BANKS

banks, and in the city of Detroit only three. This will enable the National banking system to really enter these two great cities, from which it has previously been excluded, perhaps not on equal terms, but at least on a living basis.

"It is my opinion that the major question of branch banking is not in any way affected by this differentiation of the functions of the tellers' windows, except to mitigate the handicaps that at present exist in some great cities and that it cannot by any possibility be used for the extension of the principle of branch banking. The banking arrangements of any individual city are distinctly a matter for local determination. When the extension of branches passes the city lines and becomes statewide, a condition such as I have previously described is created, under which the whole balance of the Federal Reserve and unit banking system of a larger section of the country is disturbed and the fire will, in my opinion, very quickly jump over State lines.

"If the branch banking movement cannot use the Federal Reserve system, as an instrumentality for its extension, it will probably never become a great menace, and with the national banks extended a reasonable measure of facilities for self-protection within the limits of the municipalities in which they operate the national banking system and the Federal Reserve system can be maintained in their present status."

Inducements to State Banks.

Charles S. Hamlin, former Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, said that 58 per cent. of the eligible banks of the country were not members of the Federal Reserve system, and that these banks, numbering 13,881, represented 25 per cent. of the country's resources. He said it was desirable that these banks should be members of the system, and that some inducement ought to be found to attract them.

Suggestions advanced to capture the State banks included:

Permitting banks to deduct outstanding checks in process of collection in making up their gross deposits.

Give member banks a larger share in the Federal Reserve Bank's profits over 6 per cent.

The imposition of a tax on uncovered Federal Reserve notes.

Senator Glass, who is a member of the committee, said that there appeared to be very little, if anything, that Congress might do to make it more attractive for State banks to associate themselves with the Federal Reserve.

New York banks with National Bank charters will be little effected by the new ruling of Attorney General Daugherty, according to opinions expressed yesterday by representative bankers.

"To the best of my knowledge and belief all of the New York national banks have acquired their branches under the National Bank Act and the Federal Reserve Act and not under the recent ruling of the Comptroller of Currency," Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Bank, said. "As a consequence they will not, I think, be affected in the slightest by the interpretation placed on Attoney General Daugherty's opinion.

"Under the bank act and the Federal Reserve Act, national banks were authorized to acquire properties of State banks and to operate those branches. Such is the process that has been followed by the national banks here. No brancheh, I believe, have been opened under the recent ruling which is the subject of Attorney General Daugherty's opinion."

Banks which will be most effected, it is believed by New York bankers, are those operating in California which, under a State law, permits branch banking not only in the special cities where the main institutions are located, but also throughout the State. An effect will also be felt by some banks in cities such as St. Louis and Washington, D. C., which utilized the Controller's recent ruling to establish branches.

Among the national banks here which have branches throughout the city are the National City Bank, the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, the Chase National Bank and the Chatham and Phenix National Bank.

More than the Finest Performer!

The $1365 Sedan also Combines Great Beauty with Room for Five

OF the hundreds who have already driven the 1924 Cleveland Sedan, many have pronounced it more than the most powerful car of its size they have ever been in.

Impressed as they were by its exhilarating pickup, and the marvelous way it goes up hills, they found much to praise in its appearance, its comfort and its obvious mechanical excellence.

One glance at the Fisher body will reveal great beauty, dignity, and style. One examination of its roomy interior, with its lounge seats, fine plush upholstery, and platinum finish fixtures will disclose why five ride with perfect comfort and relaxation.

If you are one of the thousands of people who want six cylinder performance and closed car convenience at its most moderate cost, do not fail to see the 1924 Cleveland sedan. For it is an outstanding example of fine construction, yet it sells for less than any other six cylinder sedan on the market—$1365 f. o. b. Cleveland.

NEW YORKERS KNOW WHITES

White Busses on cross-town routes in the Bronx carry thousands of passengers per bus each twenty-four hours.

Forty-three Electric Railway Companies are using White Busses to supplement the service of their trolley cars. Some of the more important lines, and the number of White Busses each operates, follow:

Newburgh (N. Y.) Public Service Corp.	10
Louisville Railway Co., Louisville, Ky.	12
Public Service Railway Co., Newark, N. J.	11

The motor vehicle is the first real improvement in highway transportation since wheels were put on the two shafts which used to drag on the ground behind pack animals.

The White Model 50 Bus is not an adaptation. It is not a truck. It is designed and built to carry passengers, combining many unique qualifications with the long established White standards of reliability, durability and economy. It meets every requirement for the finest coach work, sacrificing none of the sturdy qualities necessary for bus service.

Riverdale Country School, Riverdale-on-Hudson, has had one of its White Busses carrying boys back and forth between the school and their homes in the city since 1915.

White Busses are making more accessible the play spots and the scenic wonders of the Catskills, Berkshires, Adirondacks and Alleghenies. The White has been the standardized bus in the National Parks for years. This mountain service calls for a bus which is safe, dependable and economical.

Wherever you drive—in Northern New Jersey, up the Hudson, along the Sound, out on Long Island—you will meet White Busses bearing their share of the ever-increasing transportation burden. Look for them. Try riding in one.

Not so long ago the pioneers landmarking and charting the Boston Post Road painted a spot on one of the wheels of their buggy and gauged distance by the number of times that spot passed the whip socket. Today De Luxe White Coaches ply between Boston and New York carrying passengers who are not conscious of wheels at all, so comfortably do they ride. The Mohawks I, II, and III—De Luxe White Coaches operated by George E. Marsters, Inc.—take travelers from all over the world through the New York and New England playgrounds and to Montreal in summer. They run between Jacksonville and Miami, Florida, in winter.

Bus age is computed in miles—not years. Owners' records show more than 500 White Busses which have each exceeded 100,000 miles of service.

More than 100 have each exceeded 200,000 miles.

More than 50 have each exceeded 300,000 miles.

Two White Busses are running in Tacoma which have each passed the 500,000-mile mark.

Assuring continuous, sustained transportation everywhere

Millions need and want bus transportation

TO facilitate the movement of millions is a problem of deeper significance than the promotion of any one means. Transportation is one sympathetic system.

Railroads opened the way to all America. Added to them, street cars, subways and elevateds made it practical and convenient to live and work in crowded cities. And now, with increasing demands on these, modern motor bus transportation, carrying on over streets and highways where rails can't go, supplements, feeds and binds together our whole passenger transportation system—to make it adequate and enduring.

The motor bus that fits into this greater transportation system obviously is only a vehicle that can satisfy exacting requirements.

White Busses were pioneers. More than 5,000 are in use—more than of any other make. Their use is under conditions where a year's work means 365 days of running. Hundreds have been running for years—in some cases as much as 300 miles a day. Excepting certain types in New York and London, the largest bus fleets in the world are White. As time goes on, one White Bus after the other demonstrates its unusual utility with a record of 100,000, then 200,000, then 300,000, and even up to 500,000 and more miles.

Through the experience of such long and severe tests, the White Bus Model 50 was perfected—to give the speed, power, balance of chassis, low loading height, good looks and comfort which make it what a motor bus should be.

You see White Busses, flexible auxiliaries to rails, playing a big part in handling crowds in cities and in building up intercity travel. You see them standard equipment in the National Parks and a great convenience for visiting playgrounds and resorts. You see them serving communities not otherwise reached and carrying children to and from consolidated rural schools. Along organized routes you can set your watch by a White Bus through all weather.

Thus—where rails end, rubber carries on. Rails and highways are effectively joined together.

The White Bus is not an adaptation. It is not a truck. It is a modern passenger vehicle. White Busses, built in the same great plant as White Trucks, came to leadership because of kinship of two growing problems—to move people more comfortably and conveniently and to move materials more quickly and economically.

White Busses give the transportation millions need and want.

MAN KILLS BARBER WHEN CALLED NEGRO

Porto Rican Fired When Italian Refused to Shave Him.

CAPTURED AFTER CHASE

District Attorney Says Slayer Will Be Indicted Today and Put on Trial Soon.

James Formica, 28, a barber, was shot and killed in the barber shop at 1,873 Third Avenue yesterday morning when a fellow-barber refused to shave a Porto Rican in the belief that he was a negro. The slayer was Julio Rodriguez, 20 years old, who told the police that he had come to this city six weeks ago from Mexico, where he had been employed as a cowboy on a ranch.

Joseph Viviano, the barber who had refused to shave Rodriguez, was wounded in the left thigh by one of the two bullets fired by the Porto Rican. Rodriguez told the police that when he entered the shop and asked Viviano to shave him, the barber said: "We do not shave colored men here. Why don't you go to the colored man's barber shop, three blocks down the avenue?"

"I had been to two other barber shops before I entered that place," said Rodriguez, "and I needed a shave badly. I lost my head when the barber at the chair would not shave me, in the belief that I was a negro. I pulled out my pistol and began to shoot. I didn't mean to kill anybody. I just wanted to scare them."

After Rodriguez had fired the first shot at Viviano, who jumped into a closet, the Porto Rican then wheeled about on Formica, who had been standing near the window of the place, and fired a second shot at him. The bullet struck Formica in the right temple and he fell dead.

Rodriguez then ran out of the store. Passers-by who had heard the two shots and saw him stuffing a large pistol into his hip pocket started in pursuit down Third Avenue. Rodriguez pulled the pistol out of his pocket and threatened the crowd, but when a brick hit him on the shoulder at Second Avenue and 101st Street Policeman Maurice Harlow of the East 104th Street station seized the frightened fugitive and disarmed him. Rodriguez was taken back to the barber shop, where he was identified by Viviano, whose wound had been dressed by Dr. Turner of Harlem Hospital.

By order of District Attorney Banton the evidence obtained by Assistant District Attorney will be presented to the Grand Jury this morning. Mr. Banton said that he expected that an indictment for murder in the first degree would be returned against the Porto Rican during the day and that Rodriguez would be called for trial in General Sessions as soon as possible.

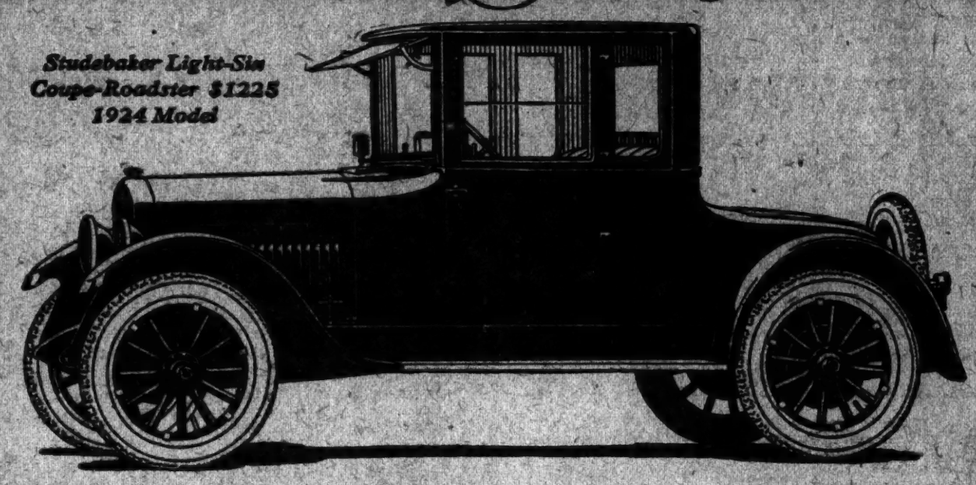
INTEGRITY Studebaker SERVICE



The Closed Car You Buy at the Show You'll Ride in Next Winter

Any owner who has felt winter's winds whistling through the ill-fitting doors and flimsy panels of a makeshift closed car knows there is no substitute for quality.

The Studebaker Light-Six Sedan you buy now will not only serve you admirably this fall and next winter, but will endure for years.

It is sturdily built for long, hard service, to ride comfortably, to look well and to operate at a moderate expense as long as you care to drive it.

And when you are ready to trade it in on a new car the depreciation will be reasonable.

The substantial hard wood and steel body with its broad windows and four wide doors, its rich mohair velvet plush upholstery and many refinements, is a model of Studebaker craftsmanship.

The chassis embodies many features of advanced design. Its construction is an achievement in the use of precision methods in large scale manufacture. Proof of this lies in the machining of all surfaces of the crankshaft and connecting rods, to which is largely due its virtual freedom from vibration. This is an exclusive Studebaker practice on cars at this price.

The smooth-running Light-Six motor has made friends everywhere for its durability, power and flexibility just as it has for its economy and reliability.

The Light-Six Sedan is low priced because it is built complete by Studebaker in large volume, but there isn't a cheap thing about it. It is above par in every particular.

Studebaker's reputation for producing high class transportation for 71 years is worth considering when you buy a car.

The 1924 Model Studebaker Cars are not equipped with Four-Wheel Brakes and will not be. Ask for a copy of our booklet on this subject

GOMPERS COMES OUT FOR ADEQUATE NAVY

Labor Chief Says That He Has Changed His Views on War and Unpreparedness.

ENDORSES NAVY DAY PLAN

Secretary Hoover Also Backs the Movement as an Aid to American Commerce.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, October 3.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, has written a letter strongly endorsing the observance of October 27 as Navy Day, and saying his views on war and unpreparedness have changed since the outbreak of the World War.

"My ideas of preparedness have changed," said Mr. Gompers in his letter to Assistant Secretary Roosevelt. "I really felt during my life that wars were unnecessary, that there could be some way to eliminate them. But nations are like individuals. There are times when a nation must defend her people and her institutions.

"It is the American hope, in which I share, that the American Navy shall be the envoy and messenger of peace not only of our own country but of the world, and, in any eventuality, defend the lives and the heritage of our citizenship."

Mr. Gompers says he was a great admirer of President Roosevelt, both as a civilian and in the various public positions he held.

"He was a fighter, a man who was never afraid of an enemy," said the letter. "Linking Navy Day with President Roosevelt's name brings to my mind the great qualities of our American people. In future, when Navy Day is mentioned, always before our people will arise the image of that great Secretary of the Navy as well as President, who was among the first to demand and obtain an adequate navy."

Secretary Hoover also has written to Secretary Denby, endorsing the Navy Day movement, in which he states, that, in addition to being the first line of national defense and an instrument to maintain peace, the navy has other functions to perform. Mr. Hoover points out that with our civilization Americans have come to be dependent to a considerable degree for national standards of living and comfort upon our foreign trade, through imports of commodities America cannot produce and the export of surplus products.

"The continuance of this service," Mr. Hoover says, "depends at once upon maintenance of order and protection upon the seas in peace as well as wartime. We, as a nation, must contribute to this sea policy. Beyond this, the enterprise and initiative of our merchants in establishing their trade and the launching of their ships rest in great measure in their confidence that this police power exists, that it acts and that it will continue. An efficient navy would be necessary even though we had no major problems of national defense."

V-63

A STATEMENT-

The new V-63 Cadillac is another achievement to the credit of the Automotive Industry—a worthy addition to its glowing record of accomplishment.

The V-63 establishes a new standard for fine motor cars—one that assures a continuance of Cadillac leadership. Its compact V-Type 90-degree HYDRO-CARBON MOTOR is a revelation in flexibility and smoothness.

My twenty-seven years of experience in the Automotive Industry serve only to deepen my appreciation of this fine new motor car. I believe a new sensation awaits even the most experienced motorists.

Buick Four-Wheel Brakes

Buick four-wheel brakes not only double the braking efficiency of the new 1924 Buicks by doubling the braking surface, but for the same reason lessen the wear on each brake mechanism in proportion. Buick four-wheel brakes last longer. They require less adjustment and the linings do not wear down as quickly.

Simple in construction and positive in action, Buick four-wheel brakes give added safety under all circumstances. They are of the Buick external contracting type and each brake has a three-quarter wrap or grip instead of the usual half-way grip.

Buick four-wheel brakes are operated with a slight pressure on the service brake pedal. They act quickly, smoothly and easily.

All 1924 Buicks (both fours and sixes) have these new four-wheel brakes. In addition, the 1924 Buicks embody further advancements in power, in construction and in beauty that make Buick more than ever "the Standard of Comparison".

DAY'S RUG AUCTION NETS $1,300,000

Smith & Sons Company in Two Days Sell 35,000 Bales for $2,840,000.

WILTON VELVETS DECLINE

Prices Obtained Below the Jobbers' List—Favorable Prices for the Tapestries.

Yesterday's sessions of the $5,000,000 carpet and rug auction being held by the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company were the most active since the opening of the sales. In both quantity and value the merchandise sold exceeded the amounts of the two previous days. The total received for the day was $1,300,000, covering 15,100 bales, bringing the results thus far to $2,840,000 for 35,000 bales sold. About 52,000 bales remain to be auctioned.

The bidding was strong on most of the goods offered, the exception being the decline in Wilton velvets, which was expected. In contrast to the previous sessions the buying of large lots was more in evidence and the bigger operators came out more prominently in bidding for "balances" which ran heavier. The offerings included Wilton velvets, Manor tapestries, Katonah velvets and Alpine and Ardsley Axminsters in large and small sizes.

The fringed Wilton velvets were the first goods offered and, as was indicated by the way the higher priced Axminsters were bid for on the preceding day, buyers were not disposed to take these at hitherto prevailing levels. The average decline from the jobbers' list in these goods was about 11 per cent. The high price for the standard 9 by 12 size in the Wiltons was $47.50 and the low $44.25, compared with the jobbers' list of $52, representing a drop of about 13 per cent.

The tapestries, however, were again well bid for and the prices obtained compared favorably with the list prices, in many instances premiums being paid. Dealers and retailers explained the eager bidding in the statement that this class of merchandise is moving best with the consumer and that stocks generally are low. The representative 9 by 12 size sold at a high of $17.50 and a low of $17, these figures showing up well as against the jobbers' price sheet. Practically all patterns in this merchandise were taken without hesitation.

The bidding for the Katonah velvets was also well sustained. This class of low end goods is next in retail demand to the "tapa," buyers said. The high price for the 9 by 12 size was $19 and the low $18.25. This is very close to even and retail price list, which quotes this number at $21.60.

The Alpine and Ardsley Axminsters farced better than did the Carlton and Yonkers grades on the preceding day and prices paid were about on the level of the jobbers' list.

The first offering today will be the Palisade carpets. W. H. Parkinson, sales executive of the concern, announced that the new price list for the coming season would be issued on Monday.

Following are the high and low prices obtained on the main offerings yesterday:

USING THE TOOLS IN HAND.

There is a sort of happy simplicity in the plan for the relief of the wheat farmers which, it is announced, President COOLIDGE has decided to adopt. He has been strongly urged to summon Congress in extra session. Incidental to this demand was one that the Government should fix the price of wheat at $1.75 or $2 a bushel. As an alternative, it was proposed that the railroads should be compelled to cut in two their charges for carrying wheat. Other fantastic or impossible suggestions rained upon the President. Evidently doubtful of the wisdom of any of them, and still more doubtful of the ability of Congress to legislate on the subject helpfully, he seemingly looked about to see what could be done with existing governmental facilities.

The scheme hit upon is reported to be to make use of the War Finance Corporation, and also of local banks, to help finance co-operative associations of farmers. The aim is not to raise the price of wheat necessarily, but to prevent it from being lowered through the compulsion on many farmers to sell their wheat even though the market is unfavorable. If there is a fund provided to "carry" a good part of the crop, so that the flow to market may be distributed over the whole year instead of being concentrated in a short season, the business could be better done to the general advantage. This would especially be the case with wheat designed for export.

The measure proposed is rational and feasible and ought to be of considerable benefit. Of course, it is to be thought of as only a temporary palliative. It does not go to the bottom of the wheat difficulty. As has frequently been pointed out by the experts of the Agricultural Department, the great boom in wheat-raising forced by the war was overdone and has persisted too long. Too much wheat has been grown on land too expensive. The doctrine of diversification of crops is the one which should now be preached to the farmers. It is, in fact, being sedulously preached in Kansas and other States, with the result that a substantial cut in the acreage of Winter wheat is already reported. In that direction lies the true and lasting remedy. Meanwhile, the President is to be commended for having put aside all the patent medicines urged upon him, and for sensibly turning to a promising even if only partial method of relief that lies ready to hand.

A NORDIC PRIMATE.

The first known white-faced visitor to come to this continent, LEIF ERICSON, being converted to Christianity, was so eager to carry the gospel to others that he brought a priest back with him from Scandinavia to Greenland, whence he himself went forth later in search of further shores. Nearly a thousand years later there has come to America a primate among Scandinavian priests, Dr. NATHAN SÖDERBLOM, the distinguished head of the Church in Sweden and Pro-Chancellor of the University of Upsala. Though his landing has been in the mute days of New York City, he has been welcomed by thousands of descendants of the lands of the North. And he will be welcomed by tens of thousands more as he makes his way into the hinterland, for out in some parts of the Middle West one person in three is of Scandinavian origin.

He will be welcomed, however, not merely as an ecclesiastical visitor and by those of his faith and racial origin, but as one of the great characters of the Old World, where he is popularly known, it is said, as "the best-loved man in Northern Europe." He has no temporal power of office, but he has a real temporal as well as spiritual power of personality and of scholarship which has been felt throughout a considerable stretch of the earth—almost as wide as the reach of his Viking forebears, who penetrated not only westward to the edges of America but eastward and southward to the further shores of the Euxine.

He has made a unique appeal for the League of Nations, which he characterized at a public meeting a few days ago as a child of "prodigious possibilities and a great soul," though "a cripple" that has been repudiated by its father. Will the father not recognize his duties, he asks, and help to bring up the child? He will find that the United States denies the imputed paternity. But he expresses suggestively and courageously a European attitude of which we ought to take note.

OKLAHOMA HAS SPOKEN.

There was nothing the matter with Oklahoma when balloting began in the special election on Tuesday morning. Her people had more important business to attend to than pronouncing judgment on the Ku Klux Klan. They regarded a Governor who threatened to destroy their liberties by an abuse of martial law as a greater danger. He might be unbalanced or a victim of delusions of power, but he had to be stopped short in a course of usurpation and violence that was plunging the community into chaos. If he could ride roughshod over decrees of the courts, there was an end of representative government and the safeguards of the Constitution. Fortunately, Governor WALTON had afforded the voters an opportunity to assert their sovereignty by calling a special election in which questions already before them were to be passed upon. The organic law gave them a right to initiate proposals to amend the Constitution, and availing themselves of it they added a provision authorizing the Legislature to assemble on its own call to hear charges against any elective State official and sit as a court of impeachment. Before the determination of the people to record themselves on this issue, in spite of technicalities raised at the eleventh hour, the Governor's opposition collapsed. He did not use the militia or his special deputies to prevent the election. A very large vote was cast in all but three counties and the constitutional amendment carried by an immense majority.

The result cannot be considered a Ku Klux Klan victory. What happened was that the people rose to rebuke Governor WALTON and provide the means of his impeachment. A great fall there has been from his popularity on the day he was elected on an anti-Ku Klux platform to his present state of disrepute. It has been the experience in previous controversies between Governors prone to use troops to carry out their purposes and State or local bodies that an appeal to the courts ultimately led to a settlement without bloodshed. When "Bloody Bridles" WAITE, the Governor of Colorado, in 1894 sought to put in office by armed force the Denver Fire and Police Commissioners, whom he had appointed after dismissing the previous incumbents, civil strife was averted by the Supreme Court assuming original jurisdiction and making a decision on the merits of the case.

In Oklahoma application to the courts sobered even the truculent WALTON, at least to the extent that he did not carry out his threats to interpose troops between the voters and the polling booths. He was not going to abide by the election, he blustered, but now that it has gone against him so heavily he turns to the courts to have it declared invalid. That is his right. But he has had his lesson. He is not likely to brandish martial law in the face of the people of Oklahoma again when no real emergency exists. It is conceivable that the special election may be upset on account of errors. But Oklahoma has spoken. The Governor cannot escape the final day of reckoning.

MORE HOOSIER HARMONY.

Governor MCCRAY of Indiana is "land-poor." Sprung of a family of bankers, he is a great holder of farm lands; to use the words in no disparaging sense, he is a land speculator. Many of "the Fathers" were of the same profession or avocation. He owns land in Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan and Saskatchewan. A long period of agricultural depression has forced him to put his assets, valued at considerably more than his debts, into a creditors' trust. He says that he has neglected his personal affairs for those of the State. Recalling the fact that he had the courage to veto a Soldiers' Bonus bill, we have no doubt that he awaits with courage the investigation which a Grand Jury is to begin tomorrow of some of his financial transactions.

The Republican State Committee was greatly fluttered by the Governor's misfortunes. The Indiana Republicans had so much trouble last year that they have gooseflesh at the notion of any more. They seem to have thought that the Governor's business embarrassments would "cast a stigma" on the party. There was talk of making him resign. Just how he could be made to doesn't appear. HARRY NEW, "JIM" WATSON and other grandees laid their sage heads together. A meeting of the Republican State Committee was called. The Governor wouldn't appear before it; and he won't resign. He is not responsible to the State Committee. For that matter, whatever political harm has been done is done and can't be mitigated. The injection of the Republican State Committee into the row has only made it worse.

Governor MCCRAY seems to be pretty level-headed, but a Republican friend of his has burst into one of those explosions of temperament that may be expected of a State of poets, novelists and artists. Indiana is a political Greenwich Village. The Temperamental One, after a conference with the Governor, emitted the romantic theory that "the nub of the whole "affort to remove Governor MCCRAY "from office is the fear of Republican leaders that they will be held "responsible for the depression of the "value of farms and farm products, "and they are alarmed over the "effects that may follow in the wake "of such a notable example as the "collapse of the Governor's fortune."

Former Governor GOODRICH, who has given a lot of time and money to pull Mr. MCCRAY through his difficulties, is to the Temperamental One the villain who told President COOLIDGE that "MCCRAY's failure as a farmer would "seriously hamper the prospects of "the Republican Party among the "farmer voters." Mr. NEW was dispatched to Indiana. The meeting of the State Committee was ordered by the President on Mr. GOODRICH's representation; and so on. It was unnecessary for Mr. GOODRICH to deny the fantastic tale, but he has denied it. The only way to keep Mr. NEW out of Indiana politics is to chain him to his desk in the Post Office Department. President COOLIDGE is able to mind his own business; and we may be sure that he knows enough about the sweet concord of Indiana Republicans not to have any great expectations of the Indiana electoral vote.

It must be admitted, however, that the story of the Goodrich-Coolidge intervention and the conception of the "farmer Governor," with 15,000 acres of land and estimated assets of three million-odd, as the typical martyr of rural distress are delightful, worthy of the Greenwich Village of poetry and politics. Yet a good many farmers have been land speculators. Speculation is all right so long as it isn't in securities listed on the Stock Exchange.

GREAT BRITAIN CULTIVATING HER GARDEN.

The Imperial Conference in London quickly got down to business. It had been expected to devote a great deal of time to high constitutional debates. What were to be the future relations of the Dominions to the Mother Country? How was the foreign policy of the British Empire hereafter to be directed? Would the self-governing colonies more and more insist upon their independence, until their allegiance to the British Commonwealth became a mere tradition? These and other questions like them were supposed to make up "The New Imperial Problem." A long article under this title was published by The Round Table in June, full of forebodings and warnings, and with nearly all the emphasis placed upon the proper distribution and co-ordination of power between the units of the empire and the British Government. But the practical-minded Prime Ministers gathered at London put all this aside, or at least adjourned its consideration, and plunged into discussions of population, undeveloped natural resources, transportation, commerce and trade relations within the empire.

It was a large and bold project which was laid before the Imperial Conference by the President of the Board of Trade. What he had in mind was the working out of plans for a studied and systematic development of the empire from within. He pointed out the increasing difficulty and cost of securing raw materials from the outside, along with the probability that British manufactures could not easily win back their old supremacy in European markets. The sole alternative seemed to be to fall back upon the unworked resources of the empire; to arrange for the migration of surplus population to imperial territories in need of it; to finance new and vast enterprises for the exploitation of the agricultural and mineral possibilities of the empire, and in all ways to work to make it more self-contained and prosperous.

An immediate echo came from General SMUTS, speaking in the name of the African Continent. It is now more largely than ever before British. It is capable of producing almost everything in the way of raw materials entering into British manufacture. Only a beginning has been made in the growing of African cotton, but its potentialities are great. There are said to be almost unlimited deposits of copper in Africa. In the vast stretches of African territory, General SMUTS asserted that the British Empire possessed an asset of which it has as yet made only fragmentary use. He pointed significantly to the tariff barriers which America had recently erected about herself and predicted that any loss which England might suffer in her trade with the United States could more than be made good by developing to their fullest capacity British possessions in Africa.

That there is a hint for Americans in all this need not be labored. Today it is not only our bankers and manufacturers, but our farmers, who are awake to the need of securing foreign markets. Only this week representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation went to the White House to recommend a great extension of American loans to foreign countries, so that they might be better able to buy the surplus of our agricultural production. Ten years ago this would have been unpatriotic and heretical. Now it is a commonplace. While Great Britain is preparing to cultivate her garden intensively, America must not neglect her own. Perhaps the richest part of it lies across the seas.

BIRD SANCTUARIES.

So vigorous are the protests which have been made by Dr. HORNADAY, Director of the Rockefeller Foundation, Mr. ROBERT W. DE FORREST and others against the proposal to establish a large shooting club near the big bird refuge in Southern Louisiana that the scheme may be halted. It is hard not to agree with these gentlemen that if 80,000 acres near the 164,000 acres of swamp and other land which constitute the Louisiana sanctuary are devoted to a hunting club, with numerous lodges and a large membership, the purpose of the refuge—to afford birds a shelter where they can breed free from the fear of shotguns—would be seriously impaired. The birds do not know the boundary of the refuge, and if in the neighboring region unusual facilities for hunters are afforded, the potential destruction will be enormous. Dr. HORNADAY points out that as the Louisiana season runs for three months and the daily bag limit is twenty-five ducks, eight geese and eight brant, a club with a membership of 4,000 might kill a number of millions in a season.

Fortunately, Governor JOHN M. PARKER of Louisiana is an ardent friend of conservation and was interested in the establishment of the bird sanctuary which was made possible through the generosity of the Sage and Rockefeller Foundations. He may be counted upon to make a thorough investigation. Inasmuch as one of those interested in the proposed club, EDWARD A. MCILHENNY, was also one of the principal movers in having the sanctuary established and has long been an ardent champion of game protection, friends of conservation are certain of having their pleas duly heard.

The importance of game refuges cannot be overestimated. The increasing population, the spread of highly developed farming and industrial areas, the drainage of swamps and ponds, the automobile, the pump-gun and countless other factors hasten the extermination of game. Happily, there are already many bird sanctuaries throughout the country. But these do not as yet afford sufficient shelter to compensate for the increasing annual destruction. The Game Refuge bill which was passed by the Senate last year but was defeated by a narrow majority in the House carried provisions for the purchase of further refuges as well as providing for the creation of public shooting grounds under special supervision in order to prevent the small area of good shooting country not yet absorbed by big clubs from passing out of the hands of the public.

Unless everything possible is done within the next two or three years to promote the conservation of wild life, the prophecies of those who have been crying "Remember the buffalo!" are likely to be fulfilled. Who would have said in 1870 that in ten years the buffalo would be practically extinct? Our wild life today is vanishing more rapidly than ever. If killing in the neighborhood of game refuges is facilitated, the last protection will be removed.

IGOROTE MARKSMEN.

The infantry teams of the United States Army have been making records for marksmanship at Camp Perry of late. Perhaps the best work done was by a team of eight officers and men, which scored 1,780 points out of a possible 1,800, at ranges of 800, 900 and 1,000 yards. In the match for the Wimbledon Cup Sergeant E. J. BLAIR of the Marine Corps won with a perfect score of twenty bullseyes. Lieutenant HINDS of the infantry made 146 points out of a possible 150 firing at 200 yards off-hand and at 600 yards prone. Such performances justify the belief that no other army in the world could hold its own in competition with ours. The British have made a good showing at the butts since the lesson of marksmanship was taught them in the Boer War. The Expeditionary Force that crossed over to France in August, 1914, contained many crack shots. But in what may be termed intensive target shooting the United States Army may be regarded as superior—perhaps, however, by not a very large margin.

The white man must not plume himself too much upon his skill with the rifle, because the Asiatic is learning to shoot well. On July 5, 1923, Governor General LEONARD WOOD wrote as follows to Captain J. C. MCGLOVERN of the Philippine Scouts: "Congratulations on the excellent shooting record of the Forty-fifth Infantry, Camp "John Hay. It is perfectly fine." The Forty-fifth Infantry is composed, like the Fifty-seventh, of Igorotes, and both regiments belong to the organization known as the Philippine Scouts. The commanders are white officers, some of whom use the rifle as well as Camp Perry's best. They have brought the Igorotes up to a high state of proficiency as marksmen. In a letter to The Army and Navy Journal Sergeant ROMUALDO ESTIMO says:

> The writer has noted in your columns the records made by various organizations of the regular army on the target range for this year, but as yet has seen nothing to equal the scores made by our detachment of Igorote Philippine Scouts at Camp Hay, P. I., composed of Companies A and B, Forty-fifth Infantry.
> It must be understood that Sergeant ESTIMO had in mind regimental practice at the butts, not match and cup competitions between all branches, as at Camp Perry. "Company A," he says, "qualified twelve experts and "thirteen sharpshooters with the auto-"matic rifle, which, I believe, is a rec-"ord for the entire army." The percentage of men of the Forty-fifth who failed to qualify for the third class of marksmen was negligible. Out of 800 men shooting only six had to be recorded as unqualified. The Fifty-seventh Infantry did even better in that respect, every man qualifying. Sergeant ESTIMO did not report upon the number of experts and sharpshooters developed in any companies but A and B of the Forty-fifth. The detachment with which he is connected was organized in 1914. Recruits still come in for enlistment wearing the native clout and nothing else. Evidently these people of Malay origin have the keen sight of the Red Indian. F. W. ATKINSON, the first General Superintendent of Education in the Philippines, said of the Igorotes that they were "a strong, "splendid people, among the most in-"teresting and important savage races "of the world." The Philippine Scouts should be invited to send their best shots to Camp Perry next year.

THE COBRA CURE.

Somebody tried to steal two of Dr. HORNADAY's cobras out of the Bronx Zoo the other night, and there has been much futile speculation about his purpose. The market for cobras is limited, and the selling price accordingly; and, as our serious contemporary The Tribune observes, "as pets they are practically worthless." Hence the suspicion that it is all a device of a movie press agent, or perhaps of the publicity counselor for that very ably press-agented institution, the Bronx Zoo.

These assumptions seem unnecessary. Nearly everybody is dissatisfied with the present state of the world, and nearly everybody has his own favorite remedy for its troubles. It may easily have occurred to some thinker with a preference for drastic cures that society in general could be improved by a great zoo delivery, a release of the cobras. Each of us has in mind one or two persons to whom a cobra could profitably be applied, and it is arguable that even if cobras were allowed to run loose they might do more good than harm.

The theory, after all, is no more inhuman than some others that receive a good deal of respectable support. The gentlemen who reinvented the Ku Klux Klan have turned loose emotions and ideas that are more destructive than many cobras.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Who Will Explain That Cat?

London's celebration with elaborate ceremonies of the day which ended the fifth century since the death of RICHARD WHITTINGTON should prompt at least one of the British scholars to find out, if he can, why this particular Lord Mayor should have been transferred from serious history into the domain of legend, where, for some 500 years, now, he has wandered happily enough, accompanied by his marvelously wise cat.

There was nothing at all in WHITTINGTON's real career that seems to suggest making him the hero of a nursery tale full of impossibilities. That he was a man out of the common in several respects is true, but it was not from poverty that he rose to wealth and office, for his start in life was excellent, and seemingly he never had any hardships or obstacles to overcome, with or without feline aid. Well-to-do in the beginning, he made in the cloth business what was an enormous fortune for his time. He was unusual only in what he did with his money. Much of it he used while alive in the building or repair of churches and other public structures, and, having no family, his whole estate was left by will for the continuance of this sort of work. Perhaps he might be called the John D. Rockefeller or the Andrew Carnegie of his day.

Among other good deeds credited to him was the renovation of Newgate prison, but either his improvements did not go far or they did not last long, judging from later accounts by the great English novelists of succeeding centuries. What must its conditions have been when they were worse, and bad enough to shock even one man in the fifteenth century?

He Did What as Others Want to Do.

Utterly unveracious is the story of DICK WHITTINGTON and his cat, it is not without value. Of less than no worth to the historians, it yet has itself a history, as does every legend and myth; and, while it tells little or nothing true about its hero, it tells much about those who invented it and more about those who accepted it either as accurate or as a pleasing narrative.

The Freudians would rank the tale with dreams as a form of wish-fulfillment. Innumerable novels have won favor, and not a few do so still, by telling how the son of poverty struggles up to riches and greatness, or how the penniless girl, after a due number of villainous persecutions, wins a wealthy or titled husband, and thenceforth moves gracefully in the highest social circles, their noblest and most beautiful figure. WHITTINGTON's glory is that to which aspires the tradesman of all nations and especially, perhaps, the British tradesman.

That, presumably, is why the story of his achievements, laden and distorted with absurdities as it was, received a sort of credence and became a childhood's treasure. Its hearers knew that there once was a RICHARD WHITTINGTON who became Lord Mayor of London and that gave credibility even to the cat.

To explain that efficient animal, certain folk have suggested that she somehow was, or may have been, a personification of certain small boats called "cats," which WHITTINGTON used, or might have used, in the conduct of his cloth business with the Continent. That explanation probably is the product of minds like those which, themselves destitute of humor, and denying it to others, declare that "Welsh rabbit" must be a corruption of "Welsh rarebite."

Either Way It Is Really Grand.

From the sick room of our happily recovering Mayor comes the report that when Governor SMITH visited it, this week, the patient joyfully exclaimed to him, "I'm going back to Brooklyn! Won't that be grand?"

One could pretend to wonder whether his Honor meant that the grandness was for himself or for Brooklyn, and a cynic could express amusement at the idea, on the one hand, of pleasure in getting back to that city after once getting out of it, and, on the other hand, of the city rejoicing over the recovery of this particular son. But cynics are always wrong.

Many jokes have been made about Brooklyn, and it often has been treated with something like scorn. Really, however, it is, and always has been, a place that offered many advantages to its residents, and life there is by no means so destitute either of consolations or of excitements as is asserted by those who affect to pity them.

And it would not be unreasonable for Brooklynites to welcome the home-coming of Mayor HYLAN as an increment to their city's charm and distinction. He has his critics, but he also has his admirers. That opinions as to his merits as an official are divided only groups him with every other Mayor the metropolis ever had, and it is not a small thing that in his several private capacities none names him but to praise.

Censorship Up in Far Monroe.

Just in time, probably, to revive the public's waning interest, the Mayor of Rochester, this State, acting at the earnest request of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in county convention there, has ordered removed from the city's public libraries every copy of GERTRUDE ATHERTON's novel of rejuvenation, "Black Oxen."

The charge made against the book is that "it was unfit for young minds." This is a vague accusation, for honest opinions are widely at odds as to what is and what is not fit for young minds; but, assuming that the indictment lies, does the decree of banishment inevitably find justification? To say so is to say that public libraries shall contain only books which, in the judgment of one group of citizens, the young can read with profit or without harm. That certainly is to say a good deal—more, possibly, than could be maintained in an argumentative joust open to all comers.

Nobody is under any obligation to like "Black Oxen," and, as a matter of fact, a good many people for one or another reason dislike it, but the majority of its readers must have questioned its science rather than its morals. Those whom it shocks must be notably sensitive to concussion, and it is to be feared that Rochester has made itself just a little ridiculous.

Anyhow, it has given the book an excellent advertisement, and for that Mrs. ATHERTON and her publishers doubtless will be duly grateful.

SULZER ON OKLAHOMA.

Former Governor Says He Took the Opposite Course From Gov. Walton.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As several newspapers have called attention to the supposed analogy of Governor Walton's case, in Oklahoma, and my case in New York, will you be good enough to say for me that there is no analogy.

At a conference at the Executive Mansion, in Albany, the evening of Aug. 9, 1913, my friends advised me to sign a proclamation declaring martial law in Albany County, and instruct the militia to disperse the Assembly because it was about to meet in violation of the Constitution of the State.

Suffice it to say that I refused to sign such a proclamation, and said to them, and repeat now: "No man is a greater believer than I am in the supremacy of the law. No man, high or low, rich or poor, is above the law, no matter what he thinks are his rights, or what he believes to be his grievances. No man must take the law in his own hands. Sooner than sign that proclamation declaring martial law to save my office I will sacrifice the Governorship on the principle that the law is supreme, and every man must bow to its supremacy."

The fact that I was advised the Assembly was to do an unlawful act was no reason why I should take the law in my own hands. If I had to go through now what I did go through in 1913, I would do today just what I did then—submit to the civil authorities.

WILLIAM SULZER.

A JUNGLE GRAVE.

The mighty branches lock in a struggle to death;
Here never passes
Light wind to thrill to song with its laughing breath
Coarse jungle grasses.

Here where pale orchids bloom
'Mid grisly moss,
A spark of white in emerald gloom,
A wooden cross.

A bird awakens leafy avenues from sleep
With liquid note,
A crash of brush, a scream as ocelots leap
At tapir's throat.

A wooden cross,
No name,
Whose loss,
Whence came?

The silence trembles with bells, then
From a swinging creeper
A troupe of grimacing monkeys howl
but cannot wake
The unknown sleeper.

A treasure seeker of old?
Fate's toss
Gave him instead of gold
A wooden cross?

JOHN HANLON MITCHELL.

AFTER THE LEAGUE CRISIS.

A New Principle in International Relations Demonstrated.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been an observer of the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations during the period when the Italo-Greek crisis has been under discussion and I am anxious that the part played by the League in the settlement should not be misunderstood or misrepresented or obscured by the part played by the Conference of Ambassadors at Paris. The action of the League was not dramatic but it has nevertheless been effective. The crisis is passed and the League has shown its usefulness. It is noteworthy that the terms of settlement adopted by the Conference of Ambassadors are almost identical with the proposals of the Council of the League—in other words, the way out of the mess was found here at Geneva and not at Paris. All of the important proposals of the League were adopted, some were amplified and only one was changed.

Two things about the results already obtained should be emphasized: first the demands of Italy have been greatly reduced and modified in form; and second, the more reasonable terms have been obtained by public opinion acting through the League of Nations. The reasonableness of the settlement as compared with the original Italian demands is especially marked, and the difference is due to the existence and machinery of the League.

Italy's challenge of the competency of the Council has solidified public opinion and has shown the vitality of the League. The way in which the small nations have rallied to the support of the Council has been most impressive. In spite of French pressure the representatives of Belgium and the Little Entente have spoken out in no uncertain terms. Switzerland, Holland, the Scandinavian and South American countries have asserted themselves with equal vigor. It has been an open secret that Italy and her French supporters have dreaded discussion in the Assembly because they knew that their isolated position would be only too evident. The Swiss press has strongly supported the League, and the English Labor press has valiantly upheld the Council's competency to act. The French press has been divided; some have favored the League, while others, with the Northcliffe press which is outdoing the most chauvinistic French papers, have scoffed at the League as an organization of idealistic fools.

The value of the League can be appreciated when one considers what happened in such cases before the League was formed and what would or might have happened if there were no League now. Italy could have done as she liked with Greece. With a vast number of precedents behind her for summary action without reference to what other nations thought or believed right, Italy could have demanded and taken whatever she saw fit. It is when these facts are recalled that the work of the League appears in its true light. Not only has it settled the difficulties but it has settled them in spite of the precedents which stood in the way. The Greek obligations have been determined and accepted by all parties and Italian aggression has been stopped. Before the war, if Italy had seized Corfu, England would probably have protested and Austria might have made a fuss, not because of any desire to protect Greece, but because their own interests were affected. Now fifty of the fifty-two nations of the League protest strongly against the extreme demands of Italy and against the bombardment and occupation of Corfu—not because their own private interests are imperilled, but because the covenant and international peace are affected. This new attitude of the nations involves a fundamental change in the point of view. What affects one affects all. In this crisis through which the League has just passed the strength of that principle has been brought out. It has been shown that even the stronger nations cannot go their own way without regard to world opinion as reflected by the League of Nations. It has been demonstrated that the new principle of international interdependence is not just an idealistic theory but is now, and hereafter will be, current practice.

Hungary's Neighbors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A statement published in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Sept. 20 has been brought to my notice. In it Count Apponyi declares that Hungary is "the furthest outpost of civilisation" in Europe. And he adds, "At our back door lies semi-barbarism."

The American public is too well informed not to remember that the "furthest outpost of civilization" was one of the initiators of the war which tried to crush Belgium and Serbia and, after all, set back the real civilization of the world and its progress toward freedom.

Nobody wishes an understanding between Hungary and its neighbors more than I do, but it can only be reached by accepting facts instead of distorting them. The heavy amounts which have to be spent by the Succession States for new schools in the territories that were formerly under Hungarian rule, the liberal institutions of Czechoslovakia and Serbia, the democratic land reform in Rumania, are outstanding factors in the history of the Near East which show among other things where civilization really lies today.

In Defense of Bobbed Hair.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Let us hope that the efforts of the hairdressers to eliminate the vogue of bobbed hair will not be successful. It seems inconceivable to most of us men that women should revert to the discarded custom of wearing their hair long. There is everything to be said in favor of bobbed hair and nothing against it. It becomes nearly every woman, and what should insure its popularity is that it makes a woman look younger. Why, then, would the fair sex return to a manner of head-dress that makes them look older? Bobbed hair, too, is an honest fashion. There is no deception about it, no false padding, no wearing of somebody else's hair. Men have always regarded the woman who wears her hair as these coiffeurs would have her wear it with a feeling of disapproval, knowing that much on her hair is not her own. Women should realize that bobbed hair is healthful, suitable to the age and that it makes her appear younger. She could not sacrifice these advantages in order to make money for the hairdressers with their pads and wigs.

Five Months' Daylight Saving.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is no woman who rises early to get her men folks off for business who does not say "Thank Heaven" when the time changes Oct. 1. She must rise at least three months in the dark chill before dawn, and to begin that in September under daylight saving time and continue all Winter as would be the case had we seven months of it would be a real hardship, not to mention the drain on vitality.

Five months is enough and all right. If you think the farmers are the only ones it hits hard you have another guess.

Governor Pinchot's Settlement.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Governor Pinchot, by his settlement of the coal strike, has taken about $30,000,000 from the people who buy coal in other States of the country and given it to 150,000 voters in his own State of Pennsylvania. S. J. T.

COOLIDGE BACKS UP PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Asserts Its "Obvious Necessity" in Face of Industrial Conditions After War.

SEES NATIONAL SOLIDARITY

Western Tariff Congress Hears the President's Message at Opening of Denver Meeting.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 2.—President Coolidge, in a message read at the opening session of the Western Tariff Congress here today, declared "the obvious necessity for maintaining a proper measure of protection to American industry and production in the face of chaotic industrial conditions following the war has unquestionably brought us nearer to a national solidarity on this issue."

The President's message follows:

"To the Western Tariff Association: My greetings and sincerest good wishes to the Western Tariff Association at the opening of its conference. I have been much pleased to learn of the fine prospect for a representative gathering and the helpful consideration of the subjects that may come before it.

"I wish it were possible to accept the cordial invitation to be present at the conference, which, to my regret, it is not. I wish to extend to those who will be gathered at this time the assurance of my most sympathetic interest in the vigorous effort they are putting forth to bring about a broad and thorough understanding of the problems involved in the tariff question as it is presented to the country at this time.

"I think it can fairly be said that there has never been a period in our country's history when so little of sectional interest entered into the consideration of this question. The obvious necessity for maintaining a proper measure of protection to American industry and production in the face of chaotic industrial conditions following the war has unquestionably brought us nearer to a national solidarity on this issue.

"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

Discussion of public tariff policies as they affect the progress and prosperity of the West; adoption of a plan to remove the tariff from partisan party politics; expression of opposition to revision of the present tariff act at this time, and organization of a permanent Western Tariff Association are objects of the meeting.

Former Governor E. M. Ammons of Colorado presided at the opening meeting. Addresses were made by Frank J. Hagenbarth of Salt Lake City, President of the association; John M. Parker, Governor of Louisiana; John H. Kirby, President of the Southern Tariff Association, and others.

Mr. Hagenbarth declared that "present tariff schedules affecting business should not be disturbed unless there is some compelling reason for such action."

"No one industry in the producing West is strong enough to withstand the organized and well-manufacturing interests in the East," said Mr. Hagenbarth. "It is for the purpose of giving voice to this thought that we are met here together. Our motto must be that of Alexander Dumas' 'Three Musketeers'—'One for all and all for one.'"

Governor Parker declared that "the tariff question is more important than ever before in our history, and should not be made a football for designing politicians." He charged that "our lawmakers overlook the fact that the greatest assets today in America are our farmers and our farming people," and declared himself in favor of a tariff that would protect the American producers.

WEST POINT OPENINGS.

Vacancies for 1924 Number 44, Most in Recent Years.

Allotment of cadetships at West Point for 1924 shows the largest number of vacancies to occur at the Military Academy in recent years, with forty-four appointments for this corps area, it was announced at Governors Island yesterday. New York leads, having thirty-two vacancies; New Jersey has nine openings and Delaware, the third State of the Second Army Corps Area, three.

Senators and Representatives have been requested to nominate candidates and alternates for appointment from their Congressional districts. The young men selected will be admitted to the general examinations, which are to be held on the first Tuesday in March. Successful candidates will enter West Point on July 1.

Vacancies for New York have been assigned to the Third, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth, Eleventh, Thirteenth (two), Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth (two), Twenty-first (two), Twenty-third, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth (two), Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-eighth, Thirty-Ninth, Forty-first, Forty-second and Forty-third Congressional Districts. New Jersey's quota is divided among Senator Edge (two), the Second, Fifth, Sixth (two), Seventh, Tenth and Twelfth Districts.

ERROR IN HIGH SCHOOL BID.

Board Rescinds James Monroe Building Award—Approves Another

At a special meeting of the Board of Education at 500 Park Avenue yesterday it was voted to rescind the contract for the construction of the James Monroe High School, the Bronx, recently awarded to the Willetts Construction Company. This company requested that its bid be withdrawn on account of an error in the estimate. The correct figure, it says, is $160,641 greater than the bid submitted.

The board approved a proposal for a new high school building on a part of the old Jerome Park Reservoir tract. It will be known as the De Witt Clinton High School and will have a capacity of 5,000 pupils. The contract for Public School, 107, Upper Flushing, Queens, was awarded to the James for Public School 107, Upper Flushing. A contract for a new power house, master's house and other improvements for the new parental school at Flushing, involving $690,000, was awarded to Thomas Dwyer.

CHILD'S FAREWELL TO ITALY

Will Report "a Year of Progress Under Strong Leadership."

ROME, Oct. 2.—An interview with the American Ambassador, Richard Washburn Child, is printed in the newspapers of the capital today on the eve of the Ambassador's departure for the United States on leave.

"As soon as I arrive in America," Mr. Child is quoted as saying, "I shall consult with President Coolidge concerning various means of preserving and increasing the political understanding between our two Governments and peoples and concerning all possible aids to economic co-operation.

"My entire sojourn in America will be taken up with official errands. It is pleasant to carry back to the United States the news that Italy is at work, that her crops are good and that her people are completing a year of progress under strong leadership and under a fine spirit of national unity. I hope and expect to bring back to Italy the same news from America.

"I cannot leave without expressing my utmost hope for the restoration to health of Princess Giovanna."

DR. MERLE-SMITH DIES AT 67 YEARS

President of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions Was Long Ill.

HIS SERVICES IN CHINA

He Was Formerly Pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church for 31 Years.

The Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle-Smith, President of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, and until three years ago pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Madison Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, died early yesterday morning at his home, 300 Park Avenue.

For the last few years Dr. Merle-Smith's health had been seriously impaired and he gave this as his reason for resigning from the church whose pastor he had been for thirty-one years. He stated at that time that "the church needs more efficient handling than a man sixty-four years of age and with impaired strength can give it."

One of his outstanding accomplishments, according to the Rev. Dr. Dwight Witherspoon Wylie, his successor, was the establishment of a large and successful missionary station at Hwaiyuen, China, in 1892. Here thirteen missionaries are at work and the church membership has increased to about 1,800 persons, approximately the same number as at the Central Presbyterian Church. The Hwaiyuen mission also has two hospitals and two schools.

His interest in missions also led him to establish one in the Kentucky mountains at Hyden, where a large number of mountaineers have been taught the doctrines of Christianity.

Dr. Merle-Smith was born in Elmira, N. Y., April 18, 1856, the son of Supreme Court Justice H. Boardman and Ellen Hays Smith. At 21 he received the A. B. degree from Princeton. From Princeton also he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Immediately after his graduation from Auburn Theological Seminary, in 1881, Dr. Merle-Smith became pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Cazenovia, N. Y. He remained there until 1884, when he was called to the First Presbyterian Church at Cleveland, Ohio, remaining there until 1889. From that year until July, 1920, Dr. Merle-Smith was his only New York pulpit.

During a long absence that year the minister and his wife, who was Zeldee Van Santvoord before he married her Nov. 30, 1882, went to Egypt. There he contracted smyosa and shortly after his return to the city was operated on at St. Luke's Hospital. He found difficulty in walking during the last few months.

Dr. Merle-Smith was a Director of the Union Theological Seminary and Auburn Theological Seminary and Chairman of the Church Extension Committee. He was also Director of the Hudson River Line. His clubs were the University, Century, Princeton, Automobile of America, Sleepy Hollow and Ridgeway. He belonged to the New England Society.

Besides his widow, he left two daughters, Mrs. David H. Pyle and Mrs. James McAlpin Pyle, and one son, Captain Van Santvoord Merle-Smith, formerly of the 165th Infantry, who was wounded in France.

Dr. Merle-Smith's funeral will be held at the Central Presbyterian Church Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The Presbytery will attend in a body.

AIDS BIRD SANCTUARIES.

Governor Parker Will Fight Proposed Hunting Club.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Oct. 3.—Governor Parker of Louisiana, who arrived here yesterday to attend the Western Tariff Congress, is opposed to any effort toward commercializing hunting or permitting a hunting club to be established between the Sage Marsh Island Bird Reservation and the Rockefeller Reservation in his State and will place the entire matter before the State Legislature for action.

Governor Parker said he already had answered letters of protest from the Russell Sage Foundation and the Rockefeller Foundation, which provided means for establishing these bird sanctuaries, after Edward McIlhenny, owner with the late Paul Rainey, African explorer, of 80,000 acres between the two preserves, had proposed locating on his property a duck shooting club under the name of the Louisiana Gulf Coast Club.

"The entire matter is now being looked into," Governor Parker said. "There is a question of courses whether many can be prevented from temporarily hunting on his own property if he abides by the State game laws. I am not a lawyer and have not made any attempt to pass on that question. A hunting club between these sanctuaries, however, would be harmful to the preservation of our bird life in Louisiana.

"I am hopeful that an amicable adjustment will be reached whereby the proposal for a club will be dropped and our Louisiana bird life will continue to be fully protected."

SENDS OUT AID TO FARMERS.

Coolidge Starts Move to Form Co-operative Association.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—President Coolidge set in motion today a plan designed to ameliorate agricultural depression. He designated Managing Director Meyer and Director Mondell of the War Finance Corporation to go to the Northwest immediately and help in the formation of co-operative marketing associations, the promotion of which the President believes will result in direct benefit.

Directors of the Finance Corporation began at once the formulation of a program for their tour. With a representative of the Department of Agriculture, they will visit the Dakotas, Minnesota, Montana and probably Nebraska and other wheat-growing districts.

Mr. Meyer feels that the co-operative movement is the solution for the agricultural problem, and frequently has urged organization of the producers.

Rev. Ira Cottrell Found.

The Rev. Ira Cottrell, 77, who had been missing since Tuesday morning from the home of his son, Royal Cottrell, 360 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, was found last night at the Erie Railway station at Jersey City. A special policeman there telephoned to the son that a man assembling the reported description of his father had been loitering about the station all day, and that when questioned he seemed unable to give any information about himself. In response to this message the son identified his father and took him home. There he spent the night his son could learn. It was said that he was afflicted by a nervous attack.

Speeds School Building Program.

In line with the Board of Education's building program, it was announced yesterday, Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert during September approved petitions for the acquisition of thirteen new school sites. They are apportioned as follows: Brooklyn, three; Bronx, six; Queens, four. Additions to three existing schools in Brooklyn and two in the Bronx have also been provided for. The Acting Mayor said he intended to do everything in his power to speed up the entire building program.

TRAVELERS' AID SWAMPED.

Landing of Immigrants at Boston Increases Work Here.

The detouring of boats from New York to Boston with immigrants arriving under this month's quotas is doubling and tripling the work of the Traveler's Aid Society, and friends are saying that a street drive for finances should be made for the organization.

The immigrants, not meeting friends who were looking for them at the New York docks, came on by trains as well as boats from New Bedford and Fall River, and yesterday the society's headquarters at 405 Lexington Avenue were swamped with Armenians, Greeks, Czechs, Russians, Turks, Englishmen, Scotch and Irish.

The society's representatives detailed to the docks and trains work eighteen to twenty hours on rush days.

It is expected he will be met at the pier by a committee headed by Louis Marshall.

A.S.FREIDUS DIES SUDDENLY

Head of Jewish Literature Division, Public Library, for 26 Years.

A. S. Freidus, for twenty-six years head of the Jewish Literature Division of the New York Public Library, Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street, died suddenly Tuesday morning at Second Avenue and Forty-second Street of hardening of the arteries. Feeling ill, Mr. Freidus left his home at 901 Second Avenue for a little air and was stricken before he could return. He was 56 years old.

Known throughout the country as a great Hebrew scholar and linguist, Mr. Freidus, however, made his greatest impression through his retentive memory. He seldom looked through the index to find any of the 22,000 Hebrew and Yiddish books in his care, neither more Mr. Freidus took personal interest in every one that entered his department and clipped and filed all material he knew a visitor to be interested in. He kept these clippings for months, if necessary, until he again saw his friends. His bibliographical knowledge was said to have been remarkable. Scholars often depended upon Mr. Freidus's knowledge.

It is with deepest sorrow that we record here the death of our friend and associate, James Edgar Bull.

His long and active career has been one of honored service and of high distinction.

We who have fought with him and against him have felt our Profession to be soundest of his judgments, to the keenness of his strategy, to the fervor of his attack, to the generosity and courtesy of his defense, to the devotion and disinterestedness of all his service for his clients and to his fair dealing and honor.

We who have known him and have had the privilege of calling him friend pay this our tribute to his gentleness and courtesy and consideration, to his unfailing humor and charm and cheer, to his high gift for friendship.

We who record here the great respect and admiration and warm affection that we feel and feel for him, as with bitterness realize he found the ways of ruthless fate.

We put on record here our sense of the great loss that has befallen Mrs. and Miss Bull and his clients alike.

To them we extend with him in his home and in his office our deepest and sympathy in their bereavement.

Resolved, That the Secretary of Governors and Chairman of Committees and members of the association attend the funeral service in a body, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and to his office and to all the members of his association and to all his kindred associations.

THE STORY OF REVILLON FURS

Game in the Distance

The hunting grounds of the Arctic are not a smooth snow-covered expanse on which game can be seen for many miles, but a rough and rugged surface broken with innumerable drifts and icy humps. This Eskimo hunter has climbed to one of the taller ridges to look for caribou and is signalling his success to his companions.

SOMEONE MAY WILL DRIVE PARTY TO SEEK OIL POLLUTION ACTION BY COOLIDGE

Conference Delegates Urge Him to Call International Parley Already Authorized.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

System Used in England to Keep Waters Clear Explained in Paper.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 3.—The National Coast Anti-Pollution League, before adjournment today, urged President Coolidge to carry out the terms of the Appleby joint resolution, passed a year ago last March, authorizing the calling of an international conference on oil pollution in ocean waters.

During the discussion, attention was called to the fact that more than a year had passed since the adoption of the resolution, which has since been reposing in the Department of State.

Defending the State Department in the matter, Dr. Van H. Manning, former chief of the Bureau of Mines and now Director of Research for the American Petroleum Institute, said that the matter of calling an international conference had been referred by the late President Harding to Secretary of State Hughes, and that the latter had hesitated to recommend the calling of such a conference until the United States was in a position to make some constructive suggestions.

A paper from J. H. Clemenson of London, General Manager of the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom, related in detail how the problem of oil pollution has been met in the harbors of London and Glasgow. Since the enactment of legislation, Mr. Clemenson reported, there have been no complaints. In Great Britain, it was explained, the harbors furnish barges for receiving the oil-polluted water pumped from ships.

The league adopted a resolution urging each State to pass uniform legislation creating a State sanitary and economic water board, with fact-finding authority, to submit recommendations covering any form of water pollution which may arise.

A resolution to change the name of the league in order to show its extended activity with regard to the pollution of inland waters was referred to the Executive Committee.

Officers were elected as follows: President, David M. Neuberger, New York; First Vice President, Mayor J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia; Second Vice President, City Commissioner Charles P. Gillen, Newark; Third Vice President, President of the Board of Aldermen Murray Hulbert, New York; Fourth Vice President, Mayor Clarence J. Houseman, Long Branch; Treasurer, John C. Motter, President Mechanics Trust Company, Harrisburg; Secretary, Hedley Hopkins Phinney, Trenton.

Among the State Vice Presidents selected were the following: Connecticut, Dr. Stanley H. Osborne, State Commissioner of Health, Hartford; New York, Alexander Macdonald, State Conservation Commission, Albany; New Jersey, J. Spencer Smith, President State Board of Commerce and Navigation, Tenafly.

MISSING JEWELER FOUND.

Not Sure of His Name When Questioned in Ferryhouse.

Fred Banker, a jeweler, of 237 St. Nicholas Avenue, Port Richmond, Staten Island, who disappeared Sunday, the fourth time in the last month, was found in the waiting room of the South Ferry, early yesterday morning. When he remained there after the departure of several boats he was questioned but appeared to be in doubt as to his name and address. He said he thought he was Fred Banker, of Port Richmond, but wasn't sure.

He was taken to Bellevue Hospital for observation and soon afterward he was identified by his son, Fred Jr.

The Sign of Musical Prestige in this community
Where you will find it—and why

There are two vital questions every purchaser of a musical instrument should ask before coming to a definite decision:

"What is the standing of the merchant with whom I am dealing as a local institution?"

"What is the standing of the manufacturer whose name the instrument bears as a national institution?"

A satisfactory answer to both should be obtained, irrespective of any other consideration—price, terms, claims or promises. Music for the home is so important a consideration that greatest caution in choosing is deserved.

Your Musical Mentor

Today, in every city and community there are certain shops devoted to that which is best in music. There you will find commercialism, the mere selling of musical instruments, taking second place to a superlative musical service, built upon real desire to serve you wisely and truthfully.

He Is The Brunswick Dealer

We trust him with our good name, for 70 years the synonym of quality manufacturing.

World's greatest living artists of the New Hall of Fame, virtually all of whom make records exclusively for Brunswick, trust him to do justice to their achievements, as engraved on Brunswick Records.

A Brunswick Phonograph from an authorized Brunswick dealer marks the ultimate in good music for the home. "I have a Brunswick" speaks a volume.

Hear Brunswick Records—100% clearer than old-time records. Hear the Brunswick Phonograph, embodying the exclusive Brunswick Method of Reproduction—the famed Ultona and the sweet-toned Oval Amplifier of moulded wood—by which life reproductions of the heretofore "difficult tones" are attained. Then you will know why all the world is turning to Brunswick.

ASSAILS DAUGHERTY IN DYE PATENT CASE

Chemical Foundation Files a Brief at Wilmington Attacking Conspiracy Charges.

ASSERTS WILSON KNEW ALL

And That He Approved All Conditions of the Sale—Denies His Acts Can Be Reviewed.

SEES GERMAN HAND IN FIGHT

Herman A. Metz Is Declared to Be a German Agent and Unworthy of Credence.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 3.—In a 538-page brief, filed here today in the Federal District Court, the Chemical Foundation, Inc., attacked the Attorney General for the charges contained in his complaint and in his trial case in the equity suit to compel the Foundation to restore to the Government some 4,800 former German dye and chemical patents, obtained from the Alien Property Custodian in 1919 for $250,000.

The defense's brief, resuming the charges and trial at length, assailed the allegation that President Wilson and Acting Secretary of State Polk were duped into making the transfer by alleged conspirators of the dye industry. The brief emphasized that President Wilson and Secretary Polk were aware in full of every step and purpose of the transaction, and that the President ratified the final consummation of the sale by Francis P. Garvan as successor to Alien Property Custodian A. Mitchell Palmer, and as President of the Foundation.

In attacking the credibility of certain Government witnesses, the brief described Herman A. Metz as instigator of the action, charging that he financed the acquisition of affidavits for Government use in the case, and declaring him to be a falsifier, corrupter and agent of the Germans in attempting to get back the patents for the Germans.

The brief was signed by William D. Guthrie, Isidor J. Kresel, William G. Mahaffy, Bernard Hershkopf, Lucien H. Boggs and George A. Stellwagen as counsel for the Foundation. Final argument, expected to occupy a week, will begin before Judge Hugh M. Morris next Monday in this city.

The brief pointed out that although the bill of complaint named the Textile Alliance, Inc., as one of the alleged conspirators, "ten minutes' conversation with President Albert M. Patterson of the Alliance was sufficient to convince Government counsel that the aspersions made upon the Alliance were unwarranted that it would be the part of prudence to strike its name from the bill."

Pointing out that "with denunciation" Polk had been described in the complaint as having been deceived and defrauded, the Government developed an unwillingness to elicit his testimony after calling him to the stand and finally was compelled to hear him "repudiate every suggestion that he had been deceived by anybody at any time in the whole transaction." The brief went on:

Declares President Knew All.

"Equally preposterous has the trial disclosed to be the charge that the President was deceived and defrauded. The President acted with full knowledge in all he did in this matter. The bill is singularly indefinite. Who deceived the President and Mr. Polk is nowhere disclosed. Who the alleged conspirators were is nowhere set forth definitely and specifically and the long trial has not yet cleared up this strange mystery; the charges remain as nebulous as at the beginning."

The brief deplored that Morris R. Foucher, a du Pont director, the only individual named as a conspirator was accused. It declared him to be a determined patriot who cut off his thirty-year association with the Badische Company "when he discovered that the German sympathizers therein were jubilating over the wanton destruction of the Lusitania and the murder of her crew and passengers."

The brief went on to say that the Government maintained that consideration of the future welfare of the United States and its national defense had no place in the matter, "even though the independence of the United States were at stake, and that if the Custodian considered this at all in selling enemy-owned property he was acting illegally. The defendant's position, on the other hand, was equally clear that these considerations were paramount."

The brief argued that "the courts have no jurisdiction to review the determination of the President; that it was in the public interest that particular enemy-owned property should be disposed of otherwise than at public sale to the highest bidder, on the terms and conditions of the disposition directed by him."

This was in reply to the complaint that the sale was private. The defense maintained that a public sale to the highest bidder might have evantuated in the resale of the patents to the Germans.

The brief said that Garvan merely carried out the plans of Palmer, his predecessor as Custodian, "with the knowledge and approval of the President and what the President in the public interest had determined should be done and had directed to be done."

Eventually, said the brief, these acts were confirmed by the President and ratified by the Peace Treaty. Garvan, said the brief, acted as the President's "obedient servant and "it was the President who did the vital acts." The President, it was contended, acted in pursuance of "his governmental policy in respect to the German control of the organic chemical industry. The vicious consequences of this control, which the war had revealed, were thoroughly known to and appreciated by him. He desired that the patents be sold to an American corporation so organized and under such conditions as in his judgment would assure their permanent severance from hostile influence and control and make them available in the American people."

Opposing the Government's charge that the $250,000 sales price was inadequate, the brief pointed out testimony that the lack of essential data in the German patents, the required expenditure of large funds and much time in supplying the missing data, and the chartered compulsion on the Foundation to issue licenses to all American applicants and to restrict its profits to 6 per cent. made the price abundantly sufficient

Assail the Witness Metz.

Of the testimony of Metz, the brief said:

"It is difficult to observe the bounds of propriety in discussing the credibility of such a witness as Metz. He was revealed to the court not only as an untruthful and deceitful witness, evasive and falsifying to such a degree as to call forth the court's threat of summary discipline and punishment, but as a force of corruption tainting whatever he touched. When Metz no longer dared face cross-examination, he dispatched Freedman to court to serve his ends; but, unfortunately for both of them, circumstances which their cunning had not foreseen exposed the whole attempted deception.

"Metz appeared as a witness for the Government. Cross-examination proved him to be a direct representative of the Germans, ever working for Germany and against the United States. In Congress and out, before the war, during it, and since. Metz's financial interest is clear. If the enemy-owned patents should pass back into the hands of the Germans, his exclusive agency thereunder in the United States, which he has under his contracts with the Hoechst Company, would again become immensely valuable. He would again have a salvarsan monopoly in the United States. He would again be able to dispose of his principal's dyes and undermine the new American dye industry."

USES PISTOL TO GET WALLFLOWER A DANCE

Woman Manager of Chicago Ballroom Is Rebuked by Judge, but Allowed to Go.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Her baby in her arms, Mrs. Josie Caccavalo, who owns a dance hall, told Judge H. M. Wells in Municipal Court today that she had a right to extend her solicitude to "wallflower" patrons of her ballroom, even at the point of a pistol.

Mrs. Caccavalo told how Philip Larose, 21 years old, admitted that he liked to dance only with the "swell lookers," and rejecting the "wallflowers," fox trotted with another male. Then it was, she testified, that she seized her revolver, pointed it at Larose and gave the following order:

"Dance with that red head over there or I'll kill you."

The command brought dancing to a stop and a mean punch from Larose, who then disappeared, breaking a window in a graceless exit.

Judge Wells agreed that Mrs. Caccavalo had the right to regulate conduct in her dance hall, but postponed his decision on the case to ascertain the minimum fine he might impose for carrying deadly weapons. He issued a warrant for Larose on a charge of disorderly conduct.

IGNORE NEW VOTING LAW.

Election Board Will Apply Repealed Literacy Test This Registration.

Although the old literacy test law under which new voters were qualified has been repealed, the Board of Elections yesterday decided to retain the old test during next week's registration, because otherwise too many voters would be disfranchised.

Under the law enacted this year new voters would be required to present certificates of literacy from educational authorities. The old law merely required a new voter to demonstrate his ability to read fifty words from the State Constitution and to write ten words in English.

The Board of Election anticipates possible trouble over the continued application of the old law because Attorney General Carl Sherman has ruled that a new voter can qualify only with a certificate; but since so many prospective voters have failed to qualify in that way, they saw no alternative than resort to the old method.

The board threw out the Socialist Labor Party's judiciary ticket on the ground that the petitions contained an insufficient number of signatures.

CONVICTED OF MURDER.

Colantone, War Veteran, Is Sentenced to 30 Years to Life.

Pasquale Colantone, 29 years old, World War veteran, was found guilty of murder in the second degree last night by a jury before County Judge J. Harry Tiernan at St. George, S. I. He shot to death August Santora, also a war veteran, on July 22, in an altercation over a cigarette

The jury was out four and a half hours. Judge Tiernan immediately sentenced the convicted man to Sing Sing to from thirty years to life. He told the prisoner that he was fortunate in escaping a first degree verdict and that his war record probably saved him.

The Court permitted Colantone to return to Richmond County jail until Saturday, so that he might see his wife before starting for Sing Sing.

ASSAILS ELEVATED SPUR.

Borough President Miller Would Tear Down Sixth Av. Extension.

The removal of the Sixth Avenue Elevated Railway spur, which runs from Fifty-third to Fifty-ninth Street and which is used as a shuttle, is recommended to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by Borough President Julius Miller who proposes to tear the structure down because it is an obstruction to traffic. The Borough President's proposal is contained in a letter to the Board of Estimate which he made public yesterday. The letter reads, in part:

"This section of the elevated structure is not a part of a through line and is of no value as a unit in the transportation system of the city. That still greater freedom may be given of the borough necessary legislation should be obtained for its removal."

BACK PENSION TO OLD NEGRO

Washington Sends Him $3,230 on Application of Ten Years Ago.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Cynics would have difficulty in convincing Alfred Pettis, 73-year-old negro rag-picker, who lives here, of the "ingratitude of the Republic."

A Treasury warrant for $3,230 reached him today in a mail with a note from the Pension Bureau that it represented back pension at the rate of $50 a month.

Pettis filed an application for a pension ten years ago but failed to follow it up. The Government mills continued to grind, however, the final grist confirming his claim that he enlisted in the Second Colored Infantry at Key West, Fla., in 1864 at the age of 16.

Special Earthquake Supplement

A special Japanese earthquake supplement of eight pages printed in halftone and containing exclusively the latest and most striking photographs of the appalling earthquake and fire which destroyed Tokio and Yokohama will be part of the New York Times next Sunday.

Order The New York Times for next Sunday in advance.

Smokes in Court, Won't Quit; Fined $5, Won't Pay; Jailed

"Take that cigarette out of your mouth," ordered Court Attendant John Blazer in the Jamaica Magistrate's Court, yesterday.

"I won't," responded Rudolph Sheeler, a baker. "I'm here to see Judge Miller. "I can smoke in Philadelphia courts, so I don't see why I can't smoke here."

The case was put up to Judge Miller.

"It'll cost you $5 to learn that you can't smoke in my court, no matter what you do in Philadelphia," said the Judge.

"I won't pay it," said Sheeler, still smoking.

"Very well. Five days," said the Judge.

INTERNATIONAL GETS PRESSMEN'S OFFICES

With Its Books and Records and Treasurer's Cash Will Be Turned Over Today.

LOCAL 25 NOW WIPED OUT

District Attorney's Inquiry Into Its Finances Halts Pending an International Audit.

Officials of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union obtained possession yesterday of the offices of the defunct New York Web Pressmen's Union No. 25 in the Pulitzer Building, including all books and records of the organization. The cash in the treasury of the dissolved local will be turned over to the international union today.

The key of the office in the Pulitzer Building was placed in the hands of an officer of the international union yesterday and the door was locked. With this act the local union, which was dissolved when a contract was signed by the New York Newspaper Publishers' Association and the international union, passed out of existence and the officers of the former local were left without quarters. All business affecting New York web pressmen will hereafter be transacted from Room 614, 150 Nassau Street, headquarters of the international union.

Joseph C. Orr, Secretary-Treasurer of the international union, took charge of the offices of the defunct local late yesterday afternoon following an examination of David Simons and Isaac Rosenthal, respectively President and Secretary-Treasurer of the dissolved local, by Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora. Acting on complaints of local pressmen, Mr. Pecora is making a preliminary inquiry into the finances of the former local union. At the end of the afternoon, Mr. Pecora said:

"The allegations originally made by the complainants were such as primarily involved moneys collected by the local union for the account of the international union. It appears to me from my examination of Mr. Rosenthal that an audit of the local books will be necessary in order to determine whether or not a crime has been committed in the handling of these funds. This afternoon I examined both Mr. Rosenthal and Mr. Simons. They consented that the books be audited by the international union for the purpose already specified. As soon as the audit has been made a report will be given to me. If it indicates that a crime has been committed this office will take appropriate steps to prosecute those responsible for it. Pending the completion of such an audit I have adjourned the inquiry."

Union auditors from Cincinnati are due in New York a day or two, according to Mr. Orr. They may take several weeks to go over the books carefully. It will be the first audit of the books of the local union by the International union since 1906, when the local was formed.

Approximately 200 international union cards remain to be distributed to local pressmen, Mr. Orr said. The work will be finished today.

CARTER GOES TO LUXOR TO REOPEN THE TOMB

Plans to Unseal Tut-ankh-Amen's Sarcophagus at Once—Scoffs at Supposed Curse.

LONDON, Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—Howard Carter, the American Egyptologist, left for Luxor and the Valley of the Kings today to resume his excavations at the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen. He said he had not the slightest belief that any occult influence was responsible for the death of the Earl of Carnarvon and that he had no fears for himself in that direction.

"It is rather too much to ask me to believe that some spook is keeping watch and ward over the dead Pharoah, ready to wreak vengeance on any one who goes too near," Carter said.

At Trieste he will be joined by the American experts who are to assist him in the unsealing of the sarcophagus, and this task will be started soon after their arrival at Luxor. Mr. Carter expects this season's work to last about four months. He reiterated his intention of leaving the mummy of the Pharaoh in his present resting place.

"If we disturbed the body, he said, "we would be no better than the tomb robbers of other days. All we shall do is to examine the body and the manner in which it was laid, and from our findings we shall probably be able to solve much about this young King of the Nile which is at present unknown. After our investigations are finished we shall leave Tut-ankh-Amen to his eternity."

TO FIGHT BONUS BILL.

League President Says Only a Minority of Veterans Favor It.

Charging that "only a minority, and a mighty small one at that, of the membership of the American Legion and other veteran organizations are in favor of a cash bonus for able-bodied ex-service men," Knowlton Durham, recently elected President of the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League, declared yesterday that his organization was starting a countrywide campaign to defeat the bonus bill.

"There is not a single word or provision in the entire bill, Mr. Durham said, "for the disabled veteran nor for the dependents of those who were killed. It is primarily a measure for the benefit of able-bodied survivors of the war, providing for an unwarranted drain of almost $5,000,000,000 on the Treasury."

The league plans before the next meeting of Congress to place in the hands of the voters of the country 20,000,000 pamphlets carrying Government figures to show that a $128,000,000,000 will be needed to care for disabled veterans and their dependents during the next fifty years without counting the bonus. Mr. Durham, who said he spoke as an organizer and member of the Squadron A Post of the American Legion, said the league would take a poll of every veteran of the nation and would place the result before Congress.

Appeals for Hospital Fund.

William Fellowes Morgan, President of the United Hospital Fund, appealed yesterday for a wider interest in its institutions, "especially at this season when weather conditions have such a decided reaction on the health of the individual and the community." Of the fifty-six hospital members of the fund last year, he said, thirty reported deficits amounting to $552,754. The funds institutions cared for a daily average of 3,438 patients and a yearl total of 201,271.

Court Commission Organizes.

Governor Alfred E. Smith's commission for the reorganization of the municipal courts organized at the City Hall yesterday. Aaron J. Levy, presiding justice of the lower court, is chairman and Alfred Gregory secretary. Justice John R. Davies explained some of the difficulties confronting justices. The commission will reconvene at the Bar Association on Oct. 17. Following that session public hearings will be held.

Report 14 Hulton Papers Sold to Rothermere For a Price of £3,500,000 to £5,000,000

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Lord Rothermere, according to a rumor published in The Yorkshire Post and reprinted in The Star and Pall Mall Gazette tonight, has bought up the Hulton newspapers for a sum estimated as between £3,500,000 and £5,000,000. The Hulton press consists of five dailies, including The London Evening Standard, The Manchester Daily Despatch, The London Daily Sketch, three Sunday newspapers and half dozen other weeklies. Sir Edward Hulton, it is explained, has been in poor health and has therefore not been unwilling to retire from the active newspaper field in which he has been for sometime one of the most important proprietors after Lord Rothermere.

Inquiries by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent as to the truth of the rumor at the London office of the Hulton press were met with the reply that no statement was to be made about it and similar reticence is observed at Lord Rothermere's newspapers.

Fleet Street, in the circumstances, is receiving the rumor with a good deal of reserve. If it proves true, it would mean that Lord Rothermere had obtained control of newspapers in such active competition as The Evening News and Evening Standard and Daily Sketch and Daily Mirror. Moreover, it has been understood that Hulton has been planning developments and has been considering bringing The Manchester Daily Despatch to London to enter the field of metropolitan morning journalism.

AUTO KILLS BOY; TWIN SISTERS HURT

Four Others Injured When Car Plunges Into Gully and Overturns.

SKATER DIES UNDER TRUCK

Rabbi's Son Fatally Hurt When Father's Machine Rolls Against a Tree.

When a light touring car turned turtle on the outskirts of Peekskill, N. Y., John R. Morley, 13 years old, of Adams Corners, six miles from Peekskill, was killed and his twin sisters, Mabel and Mildred, and four other young persons in the car were injured. William Gilbert, a youth whose home is in Lake Mohegan, had invited the children for a ride in his new car late Tuesday night.

It was reported to Chief of Police Burke of Peekskill that the boy lost control of the automobile when it was making a sharp turn on a road and that the car plunged into a gully and overturned. Young Morley was crushed under the car and his sisters were cut and bruised. William Streicher, 16, of Adams Corners, and Henry Losee, 15, of Lake Mohegan, were seriously hurt. Gilbert, owner of the car, was severely bruised. Streicher and Losee were taken in passing automobiles to the Peekskill Hospital and the others to their homes.

Isadore Blau, 6, of 85 Goerck Street, was killed yesterday at Lewis and Rivington Streets when he and a companion, skating hand in hand, were knocked down by a motor truck. Blau fell under one of the wheels. His companion escaped injury. The driver of the truck, Aaron Jacobs of 65 Mangin Street, employed by N. Semegrad of 22 Jones Street, was arrested on a technical charge of homicide.

Max Rosen, 9, son of Rabbi Morris M. Rosen of Newton, N. J., was fatally injured yesterday when the brake on his father's automobile, in which the boy was seated, was released in some unexplained manner and the car crashed into a tree. The boy was thrown out of the car and his skull fractured.

Dominick Cotignalo, 10, of 157 Withers Street, died in the Greenpoint Hospital yesterday from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile the night before in front of his home. Rafalo Talms, operator of the automobile, was arrested on a technical homicide charge.

Magistrate Frederick B. House announced in the Traffic Court that during last month 769 of the 3,813 persons arraigned in court on traffic charges, drivers, sixteen of whose licenses were revoked. Fines imposed during September on violators of the traffic laws totaled $29,777. There were 807 first-offense speeders, 43 second offenders and 4 third offenders.

Jail terms running from three to fifty days were meted out to 120 offenders, 31 of whom had been found guilty of operating automobiles while intoxicated. Convictions also were recorded against 76 reckless drivers, 118 chauffeurs charged with operating cars with defective brakes, and 101 drivers for violating the law against operating vehicles within eight feet of a standing street car.

A bevy of pretty girls from the Follies chorus were in court yesterday when Magistrate Marsh fined Sue Bradshaw, 20, of 627 West 164th Street, a member of the chorus, $25 for speeding in Riverside Drive on Sept. 18.

Magistrate House sentenced Nicholas Diorio, 20, of 19 Grand Street to twenty days in the Workhouse for speeding and fined him $25 for operating an automobile without a license.

Thirteen other chauffeurs were sentenced to fines or serve jail terms of from three to ten days. Ten were unable to pay the fines.

Killed When Train Hits Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 3.—George W. Biggs of Pleasantville died in the Atlantic City Hospital this afternoon from injuries received when his car was struck by a train this morning at Doughty Road, in Pleasantville. Biggs was road foreman for the Atlantic County Board of Freeholders.

MAYOR OF LYONS SAILS.

Good Health of American People Impresses M. Herriot.

Before sailing yesterday for Havre on the French liner Paris, Edouard Herriot, Mayor of Lyons, and leader of the French Liberals, who visited Washington, Detroit, Chicago, Montreal, Quebec and other cities in this country and Canada, said America had been a profound surprise to him. He thought the United States reflected an enormous strength, the people healthy, and expressing themselves in a simple, direct manner, which makes their voice in world affairs decisive.

The purpose of his visit was to interest American manufacturers in the annual fair of Lyons, at which several large firms would be represented at the next fair in 1924.

Another passenger on the Paris was Edward J. Nalley, of the Radio Corporation of America, who said he would remain abroad until Christmas. He said the Polish Transatlantic Radio Service will commence tomorrow.

WIN POINT IN WILL FIGHT.

Fletcher's Ex-Valet to Testify in Paris for Cousins.

Surrogate Foley yesterday granted the petition of the five cousins who are contesting the will of Austin B. Fletcher, that a commission be issued to United States Consul General A. M. Thackara at Paris, directing him to take the testimony of Louis Viger, who was Mr. Fletcher's valet at the time of his death, July 5 last.

Mr. Fletcher left the bulk of his $4,000,000 estate to Tufts College, disregarding the contestants. They expect to prove by Viger's testimony their allegation of undue influence, and that another will may be in existence making a different disposal of the estate.

A few days ago, at the Surrogate's suggestion, Viger was invited by cablegram to come here to testify. Viger replied it would be impossible to leave his business. Hence the issuance of the commission.

NON-PARTISAN MOVE TO GET CONVENTION

Republicans Join Campaign to Bring 1924 Democratic Gathering Here.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

One, Headed by Joseph P. Day, Will Bid for 1928 Republican Meeting Also.

Plans to bring the Democratic National Convention to New York City in 1924 were formulated by a non-partisan group of citizens meeting yesterday at the Hotel Biltmore. Committees were appointed and the actual work will proceed rapidly. The general committee, headed by Joseph P. Day, will also try to bring the Republican National Convention here in 1928.

Former Judge Morgan J. O'Brien presided and in a short address told of the many advantages the city would reap from having a national convention. He estimated that a quarter of a million dollars will be needed to obtain the Democratic convention. The money will be spent for the entertainment of delegates, and none of it will go to the Democratic organization. Whatever is left over will be returned to the donors. A resolution to this effect was adopted at the meeting.

Mr. O'Brien congratulated Ralph Pulitzer of The New York World for starting the movement. He pointed out that New York has all the advantages for such events. The convention, he said, would bring more than 400,000 visitors. He declared that, since New York City has would accrue to the city. On an investment of $250,000, he said, it would mean that visitors would spend about $25,000,000.

Frank A. Munsey, the publisher, declared that since New York City has furnished the money for the Democratic and Republican campaigns for the last fifty years, "it would be little short of impudence to deny the city the 1924 Democratic convention or the Republican convention in 1928."

Mr. Munsey said that the precedent of holding the Democratic convention in San Francisco wiped out the argument of distance. It would be easier, he said, for the Far Western delegates to come to New York than it was for the delegates from his native State, Maine, to go to San Francisco.

Mr. Day, in accepting the chairmanship of the movement, declared it would be a splendid opportunity for the people of the nation to know the people of New York.

George B. Smith of the Royal Typewriter Company, speaking on behalf of the Merchants' Association said that that body heartily endorsed the project and would set its convention bureau machinery in motion to help.

These are the committees appointed—General Committee: Joseph P. Day, Chairman; Alvin W. Krech, Treasurer; John R. Young, Secretary; Finance Committee; Morgan J. O'Brien, Chairman; Thomas R. Chadbourne, Michael Friedsam, Will H. Hays, Frank A. Munsey, William Church Osborn, Lewis E. Pierson, Ralph Pulitzer and Frank D. Waterman. Executive Committee: A. C. Pearson, Chairman; Stanley J. Quinn, Vice Chairman; Edward P. Adee, Phillip Berolheimer, Charles E. Gehring, Dr. John A. Harriss, George E. Smith and Herbert Bayard Swope.

Among others who attended the meeting were: William H. English, George G. Foster, Robert H. Fuller, James W. Gerard, Percival S. Hill, W. H. Labey, Frank J. Parry, C. Carter, Hugh Pitch, Alfred E. Marling, Henry Morgenthau, Dwight W. Morrow, S. C. Mead, E. H. Outerbridge, William Church Osborn, Stanley Reqor, George L. Rickard, Charles Rohe, Charles Strauss, E. Van Raalte, Arthur Williams, E. L. Winchell and Frank D. Waterman.

FEDERATION OF LABOR HOOTS SOVIET APPEAL

Administers Overwhelming Defeat to Effort to Bring Up Recognition Resolution.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 3 (Associated Press).—Hoots greeted efforts today of Max J. Sillensky of Cleveland, Ohio, to bring a resolution on recognition of Soviet Russia before the American Federation of Labor Convention, with a request that it be transferred to the Committee on International Relations from the Resolutions Committee, to which it had been assigned.

Sillensky's appeal to the committee from an adverse ruling of President Samuel Gompers was lost by an overwhelming vote.

Greetings to the Federation from organized labor of Great Britain were delivered formally today by W. C. Robinson, M. P., and R. B. Walker, General Secretary of the Union of Agricultural Workers of England. James A. Sullivan of Hamilton, Ont., brought a fraternal message from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Pardon for Thomas J. Mooney by Governor Richardson of California, is asked in a resolution submitted by the International Molders' Union of North America, which urged the convention to reaffirm a resolution to that effect adopted by the molders in convention at Cleveland. The resolution was supplemented by another presented by a delegate from the Gardeners' and Florists' Union, which asks immediate action in freeing Mooney and also W. K. Billings.

Policeman in Jail; Late at Trial.

Because Policeman Felix McKenna stopped to have his shoes repaired, he was late in appearing for trial yesterday before County Judge McLaughlin and a jury in Brooklyn, and the delay cost him his liberty. The Court increased his bail and, in default he was sent to the Raymond Street Jail and the trial postponed to October 9. He is charged with assault by George R. Robins.

Thief Escapes With $325 Ring.

After examining diamond rings on the counter yesterday, a man who had posed as a customer ran from the jewelry store of Morris Brooks at 2,329 Third Avenue, the Bronx, clutching a $325 ring. Brooks and his clerk gave chase, but the thief, who was about 35, tall, and weighing about 150 pounds, escaped in the rush hour crowd at 149th Street, a block away.

HYLAN BUSES GET REPUBLICAN HELP

Assemblyman Jesse Promises to Help Support Plan if Public Is Properly Protected.

MAKES TWO CONDITIONS

Explains His Position in Letter to Gluckman—Koenig Expresses Similar Views.

Some assurance of Republican support for Mayor Hylan's proposal for municipally owned and operated buses has been received by friends of the Mayor who are eager to see his project quickly realized even to the point of advocating a special session of the Legislature to enact the necessary legislation.

Assemblyman George N. Jesse of the Twenty-third Manhattan District, who has opposed the Hylan plan, has written a letter to Joseph Gluckman, Chairman of the Executive Board of the Inwood Public Library, in which he declares that with proper safeguards he would vote in support of municipal buses. In his letter Mr. Jesse says:

"I am pleased to repeat what I said to you personally, that is that I would vote and use my influence for the establishment of municipal buses for the convenience of the people of the City of New York. I would, however, insist, first, that all legislation relating to this matter be entirely removed from the legislation affecting the general transportation problem, and second, that the establishment and operation of a municipal bus system should be under proper regulations and safeguards for the protection of the public.

"I have always insisted that buses were a necessity for the convenience of the people in the matter of short hauls and for cross-town traffic, likewise as feeders to the main arteries of transportation, subways and elevated lines.

"The thing, however, which we most need it seems to me is an additional subway the full length of Manhattan. I am confident that I will be successful in having the proposed extension of the B-M. T. line continued beyond 162d Street, as now contemplated, on up Broadway to the city line. This would provide two subway lines the entire length of the city, on into Brooklyn and all the way to Coney Island, and all for the one fare of five cents. I am using my best efforts to accomplish this result."

The letter was written in reply to a communication from Mr. Gluckman, who has addressed similar letters to other Republican Assemblymen.

At the headquarters of the Republican County Committee, Samuel H. Koenig, said that Assemblyman Jesse's letter was in consonance with the attitude of the Republican Assemblymen from this city at the regular session.

"While I do not propose to speak for the Republican Assemblymen, I do not think that any one consistently could raise objections to municipally owned and operated buses where they are needed, as long as they are not supported out of taxes," Mr. Koenig said. "If they can be made self-sustaining and with a fare not in excess of 5 cents, I think they would be a good thing."

While Governor Smith has declined to discuss the matter, it is the general opinion in political circles that the extraordinary session demanded by Mayor Hylan to deal with the bus situation will not be called.

HOOVER HELPS JAPAN ON PRICES OF LUMBER

He Obtains Anti-Profiteering Pledges and Rebukes Pine Association Official.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—American producers of building and other materials necessary for reconstruction in Japan have been asked by Secretary Hoover, at the instance of the Japanese Government, to protect the sufferers from the earthquake disaster from profiteering.

The Government's action, which had been kept in semi-secrecy to prevent unnecessary market price movements, became known today through the Southern Pine Association, one of the organizations with which Mr. Hoover has been in communication. H. G. Berckes, manager of the association, to which Mr. Hoover addressed a message saying that 260,000,000 feet of lumber would be required by Japan during the next few months, and that no price advance over pre-disaster levels would be allowed in its supply, replied that it "could not legally participate in any price-fixing understanding."

"You are misstating the nature of my inquiry," Secretary Hoover replied to Mr. Berckes. "There is no intention to suggest the fixing of prices. In order to secure the Japanese business for our market they should be assured of fair treatment. For that reason I desired to be certain that it would not be the policy of your members to profiteer out of this disaster."

Mr. Hoover said later that nearly all producers of reconstruction materials in the United States had promised to co-operate in the price policy.

"The Southern Pine Association," he said, "is the only group of several different lines of manufacture which did not otherwise than to respond at once with the fullest measure of co-operation."

The Pine Association reiterated in its communication to Mr. Hoover an offer made to Ambassador Hanihara to place all of its facilities at the disposal of Japan to assist her in obtaining supplies of Southern pine. Mr. Berckes said he felt confident that if Japan would enter the open market in this country she would be able to buy lumber at fair prices and that there would be no disposition on the part of manufacturers to attempt to take advantage of her misfortune.

HONOR SCHUMANN-HEINK.

Disabled Veterans Present Her With Pendant for Singing to Wounded.

In recognition of her work in behalf of wounded soldiers, Mme. Schumann-Heink was presented with a platinum pendant bearing the insignia of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday afternoon. Commander George M. Calvert, who made the presentation, recalled Mme. Schumann-Heink's trip from San Francisco to Minneapolis last Spring in order to sing for the veterans at their convention and stressed the fact that she has visited and given concerts at more than 40 per cent. of the soldier hospitals in this country.

Mme. Schumann-Heink said "My work among the wounded has made a better woman of me, seeing how these boys bear their burdens with never a complaint and always a smile. Their only fear is that they are being forgotten. We must not forget them and I shall work for them and sing for them as long as I breathe. They know I am their mother and that mothers don't have to be thanked for anything they do."

Rat Trap Made by Ward in Jail Declared to Be a Success

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 3.—A large rattrap made by Walter S. Ward, recently acquitted of the killing of Clarence Peters, while he was confined in the White Plains County Jail, has been kept as the only exhibit of Ward's stay in the jail for six weeks.

The trap is considered a fine piece of carpenter work. It is two feet high, and contains a runway from an opening in one side of the top, where a piece of cheese is hung. The rat enters the spiral stairway, makes a jump for the cheese, falls through the trapdoor into a pail of water and drowns. Sheriff George Werner declares it is the most successful rat-trap he has ever seen.

4 NEW INDICTMENTS IN $100,000 THEFT

Robert A. Franks Jr., Princeton Club Member, One of Those Named in Bond Case.

IDENTITY OF 2 KEPT SECRET

One Reported to Be Employe of National City Bank, Now in West on Vacation.

Four new indictments were returned yesterday by the Grand Jury in connection with the alleged conspiracy to sell in this city part of the $100,000 bonds stolen November last from a safe in the office of the Southern and Western Life Insurance Company in Cincinnati.

Robert A. Franks, Jr., son of the Vice President and Treasurer of the Carnegie Foundation, was one of those named in the indictments, which charged criminally receiving stolen property.

Franks, soon after the indictments were handed up, appeared in the Criminal Courts Building with his counsel, Emory R. Buckner, and was arrested on a bench warrant. He had been arrested about ten days ago in connection with the Grand Jury's investigation and released in $10,000 bail in the Tombs Court. He was taken before Judge Mulqueen and released in $5,000 bail for pleading to the indictment. He refused to discuss the Grand Jury's action.

Another man named in the indictments was Clayton E. Merwin, said to be the son of a physician at Youngstown, Ohio. Merwin was arrested about a week ago in Windham, N. Y., and is now in the Tombs. He will be arraigned in General Sessions this morning.

The identity of the other two men named in the indictments was kept secret by Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings, who presented the evidence to the Grand Jury. It was admitted, however, that one of them was an employe of the National City Bank, now on vacation in Los Angeles, and that a bench warrant would be sent to the police of that city.

The Grand Jury about three weeks ago returned indictments against four other men in connection with the plot to sell the stolen bonds here. William H. McAvoy, step-brother of Justice John V. McAvoy of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, and son of Thomas by McAvoy, Tammany leader of the Washington Heights district, was accused in one of the indictments of having part of the loot in his possession when $14,000 worth of the stolen bonds were sold to a brokerage firm in the financial district in the early part of September. Two of the others named in these indictments were John and Hugh H. MacEwan, brothers.

All three were held in $10,000 bail when they were arraigned on the indictments in General Sessions, after they were alleged to have made statements to Assistant District Attorney Hastings. McAvoy and Hugh H. MacEwan were released on bail from the Tombs several days later, but John MacEwan is still a prisoner there.

WAR CAMP INDICTMENTS CALLED POLITICAL MOVE

Crowell and Others Victims of Harding Administration, Their Counsel Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Charges that the Harding Administration played a questionable political game in obtaining indictments charging conspiracy against Benedict Crowell, former Assistant Secretary of War, and others in relation to the letting of contracts for army cantonments, marked the first day of arguments in Criminal Court before Justice Adolph A. Hoehling on the demurrer of the defendants.

Frank J. Hogan, their counsel, declared that the Government was guilty of cowardice in not following its policy to a logical end and, beginning at the White House, indict the whole wartime Administration.

The indictments were returned by a special war frauds Grand Jury and charge conspiracy to defraud the Government under the letting of the plus contracts for army camps, warehouses, fortifications, &c., by the Emergency Construction Committee of the War Department.

Besides Mr. Crowell, the other defendants are his six associates, Clemens W. Lundoff of Cleveland, William A. Starrett of New York, who is also Mayor of South Orange, N. J.; Morton C. Tuttle of Boston, Major Clair Foster and James A. Mears of New York and John H. McGibbons of Chicago.

Assisting Mr. Hogan is Colonel Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War under the Taft Administration, and Door, Spence & Searls of New York, Pillsbury, Dana, & Young of Boston, and others.

Former Representative Roscoe E. McCullough of Ohio, who was a member of the Congressional investigating committee and resigned to become a special assistant to Mr. Daugherty, is assisting District Attorney Peyton Gordon, who appears for the Government.

Princess Giovanna Holds Her Own.

TURIN, Oct. 3.—The condition of Princess Giovanna, who is ill of typhoid fever and peritonitis at Racconigi, continues about stationary, but with a "tendency to improvement," it was announced by her physicians today. The doctors express hope that her youth and healthy constitution will enable her to recover.

HECKSCHER ASSAILS S. P. C. C. OFFICIALS

Urges Estimate Board to Hold Up 1924 Appropriation—Calls Home a Jail.

ASKS INQUIRY BY GOVERNOR

Philanthropist Who Gave $3,000,000 Building to Organization Seeks an Accounting.

CRAIG PROMISES TO ACT

Controller Says City Will Not Allow Work Longer If Moneys Have Been Misused.

Continued wrangling between the directors of the Heckscher Foundation and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children came to a head yesterday when August Heckscher, who in 1920 gave $3,000,000 for the new home of the society at Fifth Avenue and 104th Street, asked the Board of Estimate Budget Committee to hold up the society's 1924 appropriation until an investigation is made of the society's use of public funds in the past. Mr. Heckscher announced that he had requested Governor Smith to order a State investigation of the society, which for the last year has shared the new Fifth Avenue building with the Heckscher Foundation.

Mr. Heckscher charged that the society had shrouded its affairs in mystery for forty years and that it was run by three men—Colonel Ernest K. Coulter, the General Manager; former Lieutenant Governor and Supreme Court Justice M. Linn Bruce, President, and Arthur M. Crane, Secretary—with a dummy Board of Directors. He declared that the building he had given to the society had been turned into a jail and that the children had been harmed instead of helped.

When Mr. Heckscher completed his denunciation of the society Controller Craig told him the appropriation would be discontinued if it was shown that past appropriations had been improperly spent.

The annual appropriation sought by the society is $155,000.

ARREST 6 OFFICIALS OF A TORONTO BANK

Authorities Charge That False Returns Were Made for Home Bank of Canada.

DEFICIT PUT AT $5,259,376

Curator's Report Indicates That Depositors Will Not Receive More Than 40 Per Cent.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 3.—H. J. Daly, President; R. F. Gough, Vice President; F. J. B. Russell, J. F. M. Stewart and Casey Wood, Directors, and O. G. Smith, Chief Accountant, of the suspended Home Bank of Canada, were arrested this afternoon on charges preferred by the Federal and Provincial authorities in connection with the collapse of the Toronto institution on Aug. 27.

Daly was placed under detention at his summer home on Lake Simcoe. Gough, who is also a Director of the Canadian National Railways, surrendered in Toronto this afternoon and was taken to the police station. The bail in each of these cases is $100,000. Bail for Russell, Wood and Smith is $50,000, and the bonds have been given.

It is understood that other arrests are contemplated.

The warrant against H. J. Daly, the President, was taken out on behalf of the Dominion Department of Finance by E. J. Scott, K. C. The information was sworn to by Bennett John Roberts of the Department of Finance, the charge being the making of false returns to the Department concerning the affairs of the Home Bank for the months of May and June. On this information the warrants were immediately issued.

Daly's physician declared that he was in no condition to endure the consequences of arrest.

The Curator submits a preliminary statement of the assets and liabilities of the bank as of the date of suspension, which shows total liabilities of $18,436,-870, of which $2,925,434 are preferred claims, and $15,511,402 owed to depositors and other creditors.

The assets are $13,845,400, and are divided into three classifications, viz.: Quick assets, other assets and bank premises. Quick assets amount to $8,642,053; other "special" assets, the value of which is substantial, but the definite worth of which cannot be determined except upon realization, aggregate $2,220,501; while bank premises, real estate &c., amount to approximately $100,000.

The difference between assets and liabilities amounts, so far as creditors only are concerned, to $2,089,518; but to this must be added the paid-up capital of $1,940,922, the general reserve fund of $650,000, and the contingent fund, profit and loss balances and other reserves amounting to $110,200, leaving guaranteed losses and depreciations to be accounted for to the total amount of $5,259,376.

The 99th sale was when you bought

The last time you bought a pair of shoes, the cash register rang up a single sale. It was the ultimate sale of your retailer to an ultimate consumer. But—

Behind that sale were nearly a hundred other sales. The echoes of the register's bell go back to manufacturer, to tannery, to packing house, and to the cattle ranch.

Those echoes go to cotton fields, where fabric for shoe lace and lining grows out of the ground—to copper, zinc and iron mines, where metal for eyelets and nails originates—to smelters, to machine shops, to enamel plants.

Those echoes go to distant bee-hives, whence the wax for thread and polish comes, to rubber plantations in South America.

The family tree of that one sale extends to many lands and many shops.

This great flow of goods from industry to industry goes on quickly and inexpensively because of the constant service of Business Papers.

Through Business Papers (too often inadequately termed "Trade Papers") buyers and sellers scattered in all parts of the country are brought together.

The Business Paper reduces the cost of selling. It also reduces the cost of production. It does these things by spreading the news of methods which raise quality and lower costs by increasing volume—whether those methods originate in Maine or California.

If you are a business man, what could take the place of your own Business Paper? Business Papers which attach great importance to the character of their illustrations require a printing paper which does justice to fine engravings.

better paper — better printing

Not a few of these Business Publications are printed on Warren's Standard Printing Papers. A vast amount of direct advertising is also printed on these papers. From time to time S. D. Warren Company publish interesting and instructive books on direct mail and other forms of advertising. These books you may secure as issued from distributers of Warren's Standard Printing Papers.

House warm as toast at getting-up time

No need to get up in icy rooms to speed up the heating plant where there is a Minneapolis Heat Regulator. Let it suffer that hardship for you. You just set the indicator. And the Minneapolis Heat Regulator does the rest.

For example, it keeps the house at 70° all day; automatically lowers it to 60° for the night; automatically raises it to 70° again at getting-up time.

No need to worry about unhealthful over-heating or under-heating. You don't have to touch dampers, checks, drafts or valves during the day. The "Minneapolis" thinks and acts for you. It does all you could do.

If a blizzard comes and more heat is needed it advances your fires to maintain the temperature desired. Sensitive to less than 1° of change in room temperature. Thus it gives you not only heat control, but real temperature control. Used on any type of heating plant, new or old, with any fuel. Installed in a few hours by our service experts. Soon pays for itself, as it saves 1/5 to 1/3 on the fuel bill. Don't be a slave to your heating plant. Enjoy the comforts, conveniences and economies of the "Minneapolis" this winter. Our monthly payment plan makes the purchase an easy matter. Telephone, call or write for information.

CONCERT MANAGERS TO ABOLISH PASSES

Pledge Themselves Under Penalties—Plan May Extend to Theatres and Athletics.

Artists, musicians and theatre folk, even athletes in baseball and boxing, are among those ultimately concerned in a plan announced yesterday by the National Musical Managers' Association, designed to abolish free tickets to all amusements in New York. The promoters of musical artists already have pledged themselves, under penalties of fines of $250 to $500, to discontinue the "free pass" nuisance and all the attending riots of unprofitable customers at Carnegie, Aeolian and Town Hall. If their agreement to that effect works out, it is to be the forerunner of a more general proposal taking in the Producing Managers' Association, Vaudeville Managers' Association, New York's two major baseball clubs and the athletic clubs holding boxing matches in large arenas.

Every recognized manager in the local musical field signed the agreement, as announced yesterday, and the members were enthusiastic in attempting here, as has been done in some cities of the West, to wipe out a tradition of many years as to "professional" passes. Such courtesies were long issued to the very profession for which concerts are given, as well as to hundreds of persons not in the least interested, but invited merely to fill up seats.

Tickets to a nominal value of $175,000 weekly, or $25,000 a day, it was declared, have been broadcast in this manner by musicians alone. It is that practice which is to be kept within rigid limits hereafter.

The "teeth" in the concert managers' agreement lies in a paragraph, ratified by all concerned, to the effect "That from this day forth we do pledge ourselves not to issue any more passes or complimentary orders for tickets to any of our concerts, and that for debut concerts we are to use our own judgment as to the number of tickets we will give without charge to students and our clients, but in no case must anything but the actual punched ticket be given."

The managers agreed that they themselves had "just about killed the business" except for the more exceptional attractions. The public had been educated to wait for the "cut rate" or to "crash the gate."

Executive officers of the association include George Engles, R. E. Johnston, Fortune Gallo, Milton Aborn and Miss Catherine Bamman. Other members are Loudon Charlton, Charles L. Wagner, Mrs. Antonia Sawyer, Daniel Mayer, FitzHugh Haensel, the Music League of America and many more.

BALLETS SUEDOIS SEASON.

Company to Open at Ambassador Theatre Week of Nov. 19.

The New York season of the Ballets Suedois will be given at the Ambassador Theatre, according to an announcement yesterday by Richard Herndon, its American sponsor. The first public performance will be given by the company early in the week of Nov. 19. This performance will be preceded by a special invitation performance for the press.

Four different programs will be presented during the first four weeks of the New York season and a subscription sale of seats for this period will open on Monday, Oct. 15. The organization's leading number, "L'Homme et son Desir," and "Skating Rink," an impressionistic ballet, will be included in these programs, full details of which are to be announced later.

Following a supplemental Parisian season which opens on Oct. 15 at the Théâtre des Champs Elysées, the company will sail for this country on the President Roosevelt.

Louvain Honor for Police.

The New York Police Department will be represented by a memorial column in the new library of the University of Louvain when that edifice, America's gift to Belgium, is dedicated in 1925. Annapolis and West Point have contributed similar memorials.

The memorial column will bear the cost of arms of the department and a bronze tablet with an inscription and the names of police officers who served overseas.

Agricultural Institute Opens.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., Oct. 3.—H. A. Knapp, the new permanent Director of the State Institute of Applied Agriculture on Long Island, which opened its eighth year monday with eighty students, will begin his duties on Nov. 1, it was said today. Mr. Knapp has been Director of the State School of Agriculture at Cobleskill, N. Y. He succeeds C. A. Bricker, who resigned during the Summer.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Hammerstein's "Nine O'Clock Revue" will open at the Century Roof Theatre tonight.

"The Devil's Disciple" at the Garrick and "Peter Weston" at the Sam H. Harris will close on Saturday night.

The Grand Guignol Players, to be seen here at the Frolic Theatre, starting Oct. 15, will open in Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, tonight.

"The Nervous Wreck" will open at the Sam H. Harris Theatre next Tuesday night, instead of Monday as announced.

The Shuberts announced yesterday that Mistinguet of the Casino de Paris has signed a contract calling for her New York appearance in a revue scheduled to open late this year.

Louis O. Macloon will produce "White Collars," a new play by Edith Ellis, author of "Mary Jane's Pa."

Richard Bennett will open next Monday night at the Capitol Theatre in Albany in Gerald Du Maurier's "The Dancers," which will have its New York premiere the week following.

A performance of "In Love With Love" will be given at Sing Sing on Sunday evening, Oct. 28, under the auspices of the Entertainment Committee of the Mutual Welfare League.

Paulette Duval, a Parisian beauty, has been engaged by Florenz Ziegfeld for the next Ziegfeld Follies, scheduled to open at the New Amsterdam Theatre on Oct. 15.

"Columbus," a motion picture and the first of the "Chronicles of America" produced by the Yale University Press for release by Pathe, will be given a preliminary showing at the Yale Club tonight before an invited audience.

MUSIC NOTES.

Operas at the Century next week, the last but one of the San Carlo Company's stay here, will include, on Monday night, "La Gioconda"; Tuesday, "Aida"; Wednesday, "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci"; Thursday, "Lucia"; Friday holiday matinee, "Carmen"; Friday evening, "Barber of Seville"; Saturday matinee, "La Boheme," and Saturday night, "Otello."

Schumann's "Abendlied" and "Traumerei" are on next week's bill at the Capitol, the first sung by Gladys Rice and the other played by Yasha Bunchuk on 'cello.

The Zuro Opera Company is soon to open at the Rivoli a tour of America's motion picture theatres, its repertory ranging from "Faust" to Gilbert and Sullivan.

MOTION PICTURES.

PERFECT
"Charles Chaplin has made the perfect motion picture. It is the sort of thing we have always wondered why some one did not do. There is nothing in it that even vaguely resembles anything that has ever been done on the screen before. Words are inadequate. We can only say that it is more humanly done than anything we have ever seen on the screen and that no one should miss it."
—HARRIETTE UNDERHILL, TRIBUNE.

ENTERTAINING

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Oct. 3.—There ought to be action aplenty at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club tomorrow morning when the eight survivors, every one a tried and tested golfer, tee off for the third round matches in the national women's championship. Today was devoted largely to the elimination of practically all of the lesser lights, leaving the stars to fight it out among them for the championship trophy. But among those who fell today were a few notables, including the Western champion, a former metropolitan titleholder and a former national semi-finalist.

As the luck of the draw would have it there were only two matches of outstanding importance in today's second round. A third started out to develop into a complete rout, tightened up and ended with about as pretty an ending as one could wish to see. The other five were complete romp-aways.

The lower half of the championship draw provided only one contest worthy of the name. That was the one in which Mrs. Jack Renwick of Bedford, one of the budding stars of metropolitan district, proved herself a golfer of capabilities. She was pitted against a veteran tournament player, Mrs. Clarence H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia, and for the first nine holes allowed herself to be overawed by her illustrious opponent. But beginning at the tenth hole, she rallied and fought a fine uphill fight, earning the match to the sixteenth green. The other three matches in the lower division were won by comparatively wide margins. Miss Glenna Collett, the defending champion, ended her match with Miss Dorothy Higbie of Chicago at the eleventh hole, 6 and 5. Miss Edith Leitch, the last surviving foreign peril in the tournament, smothered Mrs. H. D. Blumenthal of Fairview, 7 and 6, and Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago did almost the same thing to Miss Audrey Faust of St. Louis, the margin being 7 and 6.

It was the upper half of the draw that provided such thrills as were in evidence today. As one, the youthful Miss Burns, the Western women's standard-bearer, carried Miss Alexa Stirling, former national champion and present holder of the metropolitan championship, to the home green. The other brought together two topnotch players, Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago, former Western champion, and Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia, who has been an important factor in women's golf for several years. This match also went to the home green, with the Western women winning by 1 up, the same margin as Miss Stirling won by. Some of the other matches in the same division was an intra-district affair between Miss Elizabeth Hardin Goss of Baltusrol and Miss Georgianna Bishop of Brooklawn, former metropolitan leader. Miss Goss was the winner by 6 and 5. Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, another Philadelphian, was the fourth victor in the upper half, winning from Mrs. Norman K. Toerge of Nassau by 6 and 4.

Miss Burns Stars on Greens.

Seldom has there been a match to hold interest to such a pitch as that between Miss Stirling and Miss Burns. The latter, outdriven all the way from fifteen to forty yards at almost every hole, proved herself one of the greatest exponents of the short game in the tournament, and certainly one of the greatest putters, if not actually the greatest. Time and again she saved herself by deadly chip-ups and accurate putting. In fact no dexterous was she with the putting implement that she almost brought about the downfall of the woman who, up to now, has ranked as an outstanding favorite. On the eighteen greens her sum total of putts was just twenty-nine, six less than Miss Stirling. Not once did she have more than two putts on a green, while Miss Stirling had two three-putt greens and several more that verged on the three-putt order. And it was the latter's deficiency in putting, especially her mastery of a two-footer on the fourteenth green, that almost brought about her elimination.

Many who witnessed the match declare that had it not been for a flubbed approach shot at the sixth hole Miss Burns would be among the survivors. By missing her shot there she gave Miss Stirling a half which the champion deserved. A win there, followed by the one at the seventh hole, would have made Miss Burns 2 up at that point.

Miss Burns had from the third hole to the ninth and the former national champion was never more than one up at any time. Leading by that margin going to the sixteenth, Miss Stirling secured a rather fortunate break there to get a half. Miss Burns displayed her fighting qualities by negotiating a stymie to square the match at the seventh and it was only a superb approach from the rough that gave Miss Stirling her victory.

Deprived of the medal honors in the qualifying round Miss Collett showed that she is still America's leading card and pencil player by taking only 40 strokes for the first ten holes against Miss Higbie. She was out in 37, including a 6 at the fourth hole, and was 6 up at that point. So fast was the pace she set that Miss Higbie failed to win a single hole. Mrs. Blumenthal gave Miss Leitch practically no opposition, the English woman taking a 43 for the first nine and being 5 up at that point. Mrs. Hurd took a 40 for her outgoing round against Mrs. Toerge, who was then 7 down, with only four holes in less than 5s.

Miss Cummings an Easy Winner.

Miss Cummings was 4 up on Miss Faust at the end of the first nine and won the next three holes. She was not playing quite as well as yesterday but had nothing worse than 5s for the first ten holes, going out in 41.

The Mrs. Jones-Mrs. Barlow match was closely contested for the greater part of the distance, but the Philadelphia player weakened toward the close and lost her Western rival to square the match at the fourteenth hole. Mrs. Barlow led for the first nine, being 2 up at the turn. She was out in 42 against Mrs. Jones's 44. The latter won the twelfth and fourteenth holes and clinched the victory by winning the sixteenth, 5 to 6. Mrs. Barlow was unable to get better than halves on the last two.

The interest of the gallery centred on the match between Miss Stirling and the little Western star, Miss Burns. After almost driving to the first green, Miss Stirling lost the hole 4 to 5, but squared the match at the second hole which she won, 3 to 4. After Miss Burne failed to get the green, Miss Stirling drove to within four yards of the pin and sank almost dropped her put for a 2.

The third hole was halved in par 5s. Two fine wooden shots left Miss Stirling only a few yards off the fourth green, but she was short on her approach, two more to go down. Giving Miss Burns a half in 5. Miss Stirling hit another tremendous tee shot going to the fifth hole, but Miss Burns got a half at the hole by pitching to within four feet and sinking the putt.

The Kansas City girl lost a great opportunity at the sixth hole. A fine brassie second left her only a short distance from the green, but after Miss Stirling had presented her with an opening when she was short on her approach, Miss Burns dubbed an approach, took another to get on the green and two putts. Miss Stirling failed to put her fourth close and the hole was halved in 6s.

At the seventh hole Miss Burns reached the green on her tee shot while Miss Stirling was dropped short and then barely got out. Her third was just on the green and she conceded the hole although Miss Burns was almost a yard away from the cup after her approach putt.

Miss Stirling Squares Match.

At this point of the match it looked extremely doubtful for Miss Stirling but she won the next two holes, squaring the match. Going to the tenth hole Miss Stirling's ball overran the green and went into a rough patch from where she again overplayed and lost the hole, 3 to 4, when she failed to hole a five-foot putt. Miss Stirling drew level with her opponent by holing a twenty-foot putt for a par 4 at the eleventh. The twelfth was halved in 5s, Miss Stirling saving herself by a great approach to a foot of the hole after a weak mashie pitch. Miss Burns pulled her tee shot to the rought near the eighth tee, but played a fine approach to within 6 yards of the green from where she got down in two strokes.

Miss Stirling became 1 up by winning the thirteenth, 4 to 5, but she immediately lost her advantage by dropping the fourteenth, 5 to 6.

Miss Sterling went ahead at the short fifteen when Miss Burns was in the rough, short of the green on her drive, taking another to reach the green, while Miss Stirling put her second dead to the pin. The sixteenth and seventeenth were peculiar holes. Miss Burns, short off the tee, tried to get home through the trees but was short, with a mound to pitch over and a difficult green to hold. Miss Stirling tried to blaze off a little distance by taking a short-cut to the elbow sixteenth and her ball was in the rough, but within easy pitching distance of the green.

Her judgment of the distance was faulty and she overplayed, her ball hitting a pile of rocks on the fly but bounded, luckily for her, into a spot where the green was still open. She chipped on, past Miss Burns's ball and failed on her try for a 4. With a four-foot putt for a win, Miss Burns missed, giving Miss Stirling a half.

At the seventeenth, a water-hole, Miss Burns was left with a bad shot out of the rough when her drive failed to reach the opening. Miss Stirling, after a perfectly placed drive, plunged her brassie into the pond but was still better off than Miss Burns after thy fourth shots were played. The latter's second hit some branches and fell short in the rough, while her third was in the rough at the left of the green.

Miss Burns Wins at Seventeenth.

Miss Burns overplayed her next twenty feet beyond the hole, and when Miss Stirling chipped past the tee, four feet or so, it looked like a sure half at least, for the Western girl had what appeared to be a full stymie. She was not through yet, however, for, after sighting the lay of the land studiously, she squeezed past Miss Stirling's ball into the cup for a win, 5 to 6, squaring the match.

It was now up to the last hole. Once more Miss Stirling was far ahead on the drive and after the seconds, although her second sliced to the rough. Miss Burns pushed her third off to the right of the green, leaving herself a difficult approach, while Miss Stirling's was a beautiful pitch, twelve or fifteen feet short. Miss Burns chipped a couple of yards beyond the hole and Miss Stirling overran the cup a yard. A put for Miss Burns would have sent the match on but her ball skipped over the top of the cup. Miss Stirling holed, giving her a 5 to Miss Burns's 6 and the match, 1 up.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Champions and ex-champions are scheduled to fall in the third round of the women's national golf championship at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club tomorrow. Every match will bring together a pair, one or both of whom now holds or has held a title of some sort. Miss Stirling, three-time national champion, will face Mrs. Jones, former Western champion. Miss Goss will meet Mrs. Hurd, a former national semi-finalist and ex-North and South champion. Mrs. Vanderbeck, former national champion, will meet Miss Collett, the defending champion, who now holds the North and South and also the Canadian championship. Miss Leitch, the British star, will face Miss Cummings, who has won numerous tournaments of note and who has been an outstanding factor in recent national tourneys.

H. T. WATERS WINS LYNBROOK STAKES

Takes Early Lead and Holds It to the End in Feature Event at Jamaica.

SEVEN JUVENILES START

Rival Finishes Second and Humorette Third—Miss Carina First in Lafayette Handicap.

Running in front from start to finish Abe Hallow's chestnut colt, H. T. Waters, by Polymelian out of Lady Winsome, carried off the Lynbrook Selling Stakes, the featured number on the card at the Jamaica track yesterday afternoon. The colt was easily the best of a field of seven juveniles that went to the post for the dash of five and a half furlongs. He had all his speed, going to the quarter in 0:33 2-5, the half in 0:46 and the full distance in 1:05 2-5, winning $2,950 for his owner. He was the equal choice with the Riveria Stable's Miss Domino, which finished fourth.

Small fields ran in four of the races, two favorites and one equal choice coming home in front. A good sized crowd turned out for the afternoon's sport, which was favored by almost perfect weather and a fast track.

The stake brought out a difficult field of juveniles to handle and they were at the post five minutes before they could be straightened out. Mars Cassidy finally got them away well, and in the first jump H. T. Waters showed in front, with the Riveria Stable's Ultimus filly, Miss Domino, the nearest contender. The latter could not stand the hot pace and at the head of the stretch was tiring rapidly. Her place in the procession was then taken by the Rancocas Stable's colt Rival, which while getting away well was outrun in the early part of the race.

Rival on the Rail.

Coming around the turn into the home-stretch L. Fator picked an opening on the rail and sent Rival through, but he could not gain on H. T. Waters, which beat him easily by a length and a half. H. C. Fisher's Humorette, after breaking slowly made up a lot of ground to take the short end of the purse by the margin of three lengths from Miss Domino.

Only three ran in the Lafayette Handicap, a claiming race for three-year-olds and upward, over the course of a mile and seventy yards. They finished as the public picked them, with A. J. Contento's Miss Carina, a three-year-old chestnut filly by Sir Johnson-Carina, winning under a clever ride by Burns by a length and a half from A. S. Woodcliffe's five-year-old gelding Episode. Episode was five lengths in front of Mrs. J. A. Coburn's Canyon.

Miss Carina Scores.

Miss Carina ran a nice race all through. She was away with the rise of the barrier and Burns let her rate along in front. For most of the distance she had a clear two lengths on the others, but in the stretch drive L. Fator made a determined effort with Episode and cut the lead down slightly at the end. Episode carried top weight of 114 pounds, giving seven pounds to Canyon and nine to his filly. The distance was run in 1:44 3-5.

Wynnewood Wins Easily.

Six paraded for the journey of a mile and a sixteenth of the fifth race, a claiming event for three-year-olds and upward. Mrs. T. O. Webber's old black horse Wynnewood made a runaway race of it, breaking in front and opening a big lead in the first sixteenth. Abe Hallow's Masquerado, the favorite, chased the leader to the head of the stretch and then gave up the battle to the finish and Wynnewood continued to increase his lead on the field all the way and finished seven lengths in front of G. J. Miller's East Indian, which was only a neck ahead of J. P. Coburn's Maryland Belle. The race was run in 1:48 2-5.

S. C. Hildreth uncovered the winner of the six-furlong dash for maidens in the brown gelding Stockmar, a son of Wrack and Star Gift, which was making his three-year-old debut. The gelding had been working fast and went to the post an overwhelming favorite. Stockmar got away from the post with a rush and opened a gap of three lengths when the turn was reached. He tired from his fast pace, but Sande managed to hold him in front to win by a head from W. C. Clancy's Stony Point, which was nearest the leader all the way. William Daniel's Knights Bridge was seven lengths back to take third money. Stockmar ran the six furlongs in 1:13 1-5.

Two Races for Maidens.

The first two races on the card were for maiden two-year-olds, the entry of twenty-five having been split to fill in a blank, as one race on the regular card did not fill. They were at five and one furlongs, and thirteen started in the first. The Marrone Stable's Clarice C. II. made the early pace, but weakened on the turn and finished far back. The winner was H. Waterson's bay gelding, Aggravating Page, which was held in a good position by Colliletti, and went on to win handily by a couple of lengths from the favorite, M. F. Downie's San Dimas. The latter running second all through, lasted to beat Ely W. Maxwell's Blue Miss by a length and a half for second money. The race was run in 1:07 3-5. Achievable and Shine On were left at the post.

The favorite also finished second in the other half of the race. This was C. H. Thieriot's Vulnad, which lost by the margin of a head to T. C. Sawyer's Belcross. The bleak son of Rock View took the track at the rising of the barrier and was never headed, although Abernethy was forced to the limit to bring the colt home. The Audley Farm's Fausto was the early contender, but tired and finished out of the money. C. Buxton's Tramp took the short end of the purse. The race was won in 1:06 4-5.

PAPYRUS'S RIVAL TO BE NAMED OCT. 6

Selection of American Representative Is Put Off Until Last Minute.

IRISH UNABLE TO COME

Owner of English Colt Will Be Prevented From Seeing Race by Poor Health.

Ben Irish's handsome colt Papyrus is getting well acquainted with all parts of the Belmont Park track, on which he is to run on Saturday, Oct. 20, for a purse of $100,000 against the best of the American three-year-olds. The name of Papyrus's opponent, it was announced yesterday afternoon, will not be known before Saturday, Oct. 6, the last day possible under the terms of the contract signed with Irish.

Papyrus has now seen all of Belmont Park, which is open to equine visitors. He has walked and cantered over the main track, the training track and up and down both chutes, and as far as can be observed all tracks look alike to

YANKEE INJURIES WORRY FOLLOWERS

Ruth, Pipp and Meusel Suffering Minor Hurts, but Intend to Play in Series.

SEAT SALE CONTINUES

Plenty of Space for Those Who Make Prompt Application—Many Writers Expected.

The fact that Babe Ruth has been added to the growing list of Yankee injured with the world's series less than a week away was an item of news that American League partisans digested with a wry face yesterday. Apparently, the Bambino is not yet ready for the hospital, but the mere announcement that his right ankle is ailing again and that he is limping perceptibly on it was enough to arouse misgivings in the Yankee camp.

Add to this the fact that Wally Pipp, first baseman, and Bob Meusel, left fielder, are somewhat the worse for wear because of minor injuries, and you have a situation that may affect the Yankees' chances in the classic which starts next week. All three of the Huggins casualties are likely to start the series, but weak ankles and legs are inclined to give away easily, and none of the friends of the Yankees has forgotten the series two years ago, which Ruth started but couldn't finish.

The Babe played right field for the Giants in the John Day-Jim Mutrie benefit game at the Polo Grounds yesterday and limped through five innings of the affray. He was handicapped decidedly in the field, at bat and on the bases by his weak ankle, and he merely hobbled from one base to another. At the plate he favored his ankle so much that he was constantly turning on the ball and driving it foul by a big margin. All of this, however, was only by way of precaution, and if Ruth had to get out and play a hard game, he could probably give an excellent account of himself.

Ruth Decides to Play.

Ruth refused to play in the Yankees' exhibition game at Baltimore on Tuesday, and at first decided not to appear with the Giants yesterday, but, realizing that his presence had been advertised, he went out to right field for five innings. The workout probably did him no good, but he will take it easy between now and Wednesday and ought to be in shape. The injured ankle is the same one that has bothered him before. He twisted it recently, and for a time walked with a cane.

Wally Pipp and Bob Meusel, the other hospitaleers, were at the Polo Grounds yesterday to watch the Giants-Baltimore game and they said on behalf of themselves and doctors that they would be in there as big as ever at 2 P. M. Wednesday. Pipp turned and twisted his right ankle during the simple act of getting off a train in Boston, and Meusel, after injuring his left leg sliding to the plate one day, crashed into a wall the next afternoon and was rendered unconscious. Bob, however, was only badly shaken up and, according to Huggins, is all right now.

The swelling in Pipp's ankle has been reduced by compresses and bandages, and, although Wally's father, Colonel Bill Pipp, shakes his head dolorously when the ailment is mentioned, the first baseman himself declares he will be his usual agile self on Wednesday.

Writers at Commodore.

It was announced yesterday by the Baseball Writers' Association of America that press headquarters for the series will be at the Commodore as usual. Typewriters, telegraph service and other conveniences, not forgetting food, will be provided for the out-of-town writers there. From all appearances the usual big corps of special correspondents will be sent to cover the series, and those in charge of local press arrangements are already deluged with requests for press tickets and photographers' badges.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert has thrown open a whole section of rooms at the Stadium as headquarters for the newspaper men, and there food will be served before each game. Similar arrangements will be made at the Polo Grounds.

The Baseball Writers' Association will hold its annual meeting during the series on Thursday, Oct. 11, at the Commodore.

The Yanks and Giants reported that the demand for reserved seats is still holding firm, with the end not in sight by any means. It was emphasized, however, that plenty of seats are still left for those who make prompt application by mail.

The Yankees will start their final tuning-up process at the Stadium today, playing the Athletics in the last series of the year. Connie Mack's men will be on hand until and including Sunday afternoon and then sadly depart. And to think that back in early May they said that the pennant might depend on this final series!

Business Manager Edward G. Barrow of the Yankees announced last night that all remaining games on the Yankee schedule, starting today, will start at 3 o'clock.

The first big bet on the series result to be reported thus far was made yesterday when W. L. Darnell & Co., 44 Broad Street, laid $2,000 against $1,000 that the Yankees will win. This is 2 to 1 odds of 4 to 2. The same company has $2,000 to offer at odds of 11 to 10 that the Yanks will take the first game, and also a substantial amount at odds of 1 to 15 that either team will win four games in a row.

BONUS FOR RUETHER, BEATS BRAVES, 8-6

Brooklyn Pitcher Scores Fifteenth Victory—Boston Rally Stopped in Ninth.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Dutch Ruether is $1,000 richer and Squire Ebbets $1,000 poorer as the result of the 8 to 6 Robins victory over the Braves here this afternoon. It was the southpaw's fifteenth triumph of the year and fulfilled the terms of his contract with the Brooklyn club.

The decision was drawn rather close in the ninth, when the Braves, after being held completely in check for eight frames, staged a rally that yielded four hits and as many runs. Until that point the game had been a very one-sided affair, with the Robins steadily increasing an early advantage. Rube Marquard and Dana Fillingim, two of the Boston hurlers, were shelled from the hill in the fifth and seventh innings respectively.

Boeckel opened the last frame with a double to left and scored on Ford's blow to the same territory. Bob Smith followed with another single and Gibson scored both with a double down the left field foul line. The Boston catcher took third on an infield out and tallied while Olson and Fournier were retiring another ambitious Brave.

TIGERS WIN THIRD IN ROW.

Triumph Over White Sox by 8 to 4—Hellmann Out of Game.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The Detroit Tigers defeated the White Sox for the third straight time today, 8 to 4. Robertson was hit hard at times and retired after seven innings. The Sox could do nothing with Whitehill, a recruit lefthander, who held them to three hits until the eighth inning. Hellmann was forced to remain out of the game because of an injured arm caused by his stumbling over first base in yesterday's game.

ATHLETICS BEAT SENATORS.

Triumph 12 to 8 and Sweep Last Home Series of Season.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The baseball season closed in this city today, Philadelphia taking the final game of the series from Washington, 12 to 8. The victory gave the Athletics a clean sweep of the final series on the local grounds and was largely due to the wildness of Roe, a recruit pitcher for the Senators, who walked six men in the second inning.

GIANTS WITH RUTH BEAT ORIOLES, 9-3

Babe Hits Home Run in Benefit Game for Day and Mutrie at Polo Grounds.

The Giants played an exhibition game with the far-famed Baltimore Orioles at the Polo Grounds yesterday, but it was the far-famed Babe Ruth of the enemy Yanks who stole all of the spotlight and most of the applause. Edging into the National Leaguers' party because the game was a benefit contest for John E. Day and Jim Mutrie, the Bambino crashed a home run clear over the right field stand in the fifth inning and made the afternoon complete. The Giants won by 9 to 3.

It's been a long time since anybody has slapped the ball over the stand at the Brush Stadium; in fact, nobody has done it since Babe and the Yanks packed up and evacuated last year. The ball went high in the air, well inside the foul line, cleared the upper deck and the roof and then dropped gracefully into the terrain without.

"And he'll hit a few there next week, too," yelled a Yankee partisan confidently. "Just getting the range, that's all."

In a Giant uniform that didn't fit, and limping somewhat from a bad ankle, Ruth didn't look familiar. But the homer did. It was one of four that the home team threw at the Orioles. In the second inning, with Lefty Groves, Jack Dunn's southpaw ace, pitching, Irish Meusel dropped a weak fly into the lower tier in right, and a few minutes later George Kelly shot a fly not so weak that rolled to the fence in centre field for the circuit. Then Ruth, after striking out his first time and getting assaulted by a pitched ball the second time, delivered in the fifth and immediately quit the party. In the same inning Billy Cunningham pumped a liner into the lower seats in right and made the score 7 to 2.

About 5,000 turned out for the game, the entire receipts of which were turned over by the two clubs to a fund for Messrs. Day and Mutrie, owner and manager, respectively, of New York's first National League team. Mr. Mutrie was present and held an informal reception with his friends before and after the game, but Mr. Day was prevented from being present. Aaron Ward and Elmer Smith, in addition to Ruth, represented the Yankees, and before the game Ruth posed for pictures with John J. McGraw, who will be an arch enemy beginning next Wednesday.

In addition to the receipts from the game, the benefit fund was enriched by a gift of $500 from Charles Comiskey, the "Old Roman" of the Chicago White Sox; $100 each from Garry Herrmann and Sam Breadon, Presidents of the Cincinnati and St. Louis National League clubs, respectively; $250 from Hughey Jennings, and other donations.

Including Ruth, Ward and Elmer Smith, McGraw trotted out twenty players before the ninth inning was over. All of the world's series regulars except Young and Snyder were in action. The two pitchers who toned up for the big clash were Jack Scott and Bill Ryan, and between them they allowed the five-time winners of the International League pennant just three hits.

Speaker's 56th Two-Base Hit Breaks Record Set in 1899

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3.—By knocking out his fifty-sixth two-base hit of the season at St. Louis today, Tris Speaker, star outfielder and manager of the Cleveland Indians, equaled the world's record. Ray Kolp was pitching for the Browns when Speaker drove out the hit in the third inning. The former world's record was held by Ed Delahanty, who established it in 1899. Speaker broke his own American League record of fifty-three doubles in one season at Philadelphia Sept. 20 when he knocked out a two-bagger in each game of a double-header. Speaker established the former league record in 1912, when he was a member of the pennant-winning Red Sox.

DESPERATE BATTLE CONTINUES IN A. A.

Kansas City Leads St. Paul by Half a Game—Both Have Five More to Play.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—St. Paul, fighting desperately, kept pace with Kansas City in the close American Association pennant race today by winning, 4 to 2, from Indianapolis, while the Blues won from Columbus, 11 to 6, and retained their advantage of one-half a game over their rivals.

The season will close Sunday. Each club has a postponed game with its next opponents, Kansas City being scheduled to play Toledo five games, while St. Paul will tackle Louisville for a like number.

The standing tonight: Kansas City, won 107, lost 54; St. Paul, won 107, lost 55.

BRITISH ARMY FOUR REACHES POLO FINAL

Defeats Shelburne 10-5 and Will Play for American Open Title Saturday.

RETAINS EARLY ADVANTAGE

Scores Three Goals in First Two Periods and Holds Lead Throughout Game at Westbury.

Showing all the power for which it is noted, the British Army polo team yesterday swept to an impressive victory over the strong Shelburne four on International Field, Westbury, L. I., and earned the right to play in the final round for the American open championship. Never since the British combination has been in this country has it played with the co-ordination and finish that it displayed yesterday. Each man did what was required of him and just a little more in the brilliant exhibition, and when the final gong sounded the invaders had scored a decisive victory, 10 to 5.

Starting off with an attack which caught the Americans unaware, the British Army representatives accounted for three goals in the first two periods, keeping their own goal perfectly defended in the meantime. The Americans picked up in their play for the next three chukkers, and threatened continuously to tie the score, but each time they drew up on the leaders the British stars pulled away again, and finally in the sixth Major F. B. Hurndall clinched the victory with two goals in rapid succession.

It was not any weakness on the part of Shelburne which gave the game to the foreign four, but rather the British officers' own superiority. Colonel T. P. Melville at No. 1 was in his best form, playing with all the brilliancy that has brought him on a par with Louis Stoddard as the leading forward in the world. Taking passes from his second line defense, which worked together with consistency throughout, he swept down the field time and again to send the ball hurtling through the Shelburne goal. Lieutenant J. S. Leaf at No. 2 was also a heavy scorer, sweeping around the entire Shelburne team on several occasions, weaving through its players on others. Major Hurndall at No. 3 pivoted well with both Lieutenant Leaf and Major Vivien Lockett, the British back, helping out now with the attack and now with the defense. Major Lockett spent the entire time keeping close tabs on Major A. H. Wilson, the famous "Jingles," who proved the thorn in the sides of this same British team in the international military series.

Lockett Covers Wilson.

Major Wilson never had a chance yesterday. No matter which way he turned, Major Lockett was right beside him, thwarting the attempts to pass the ball to the American Army star time after time. Consequently the main offensive efforts of the Shelburne team were shifted to the mallet of J. Watson Webb, who was at his old position of No. 2. He acquitted himself well, playing the same steady game that had marked his work all season, but he could not break through often enough.

Malcolm Stevenson was at No. 3 for the Shelburne four and Major Louis Beard, another military star, at back. It was the splendid work of the latter which held the British score down to ten points. On at least a dozen occasions he dashed in and swerved the ball from its course as it approached within inches of the American goal, and on at least a dozen other occasions he rode up to turn back the attack of the foreign four before it came within striking distance.

The British Army has developed the same teamwork by which it was defeated in the series with the American Army four, and the officers from England now appear quite as formidable as any team which entered the tournament for the open title. Three of the players on the combination from abroad are known as stars on both sides of the Atlantic. Colonel Melville, Major Lockett and Major Hurndall being names which have long stood at the top of the polo list in England, and in Lieutenant Leaf has been found a youngster who fits in well with the combination and gives promise of becoming one of the great stars of the game.

When the foreign four came to this country early last month to compete for the first world's military championship, the Monty Waterbury Cup and the open title, it proved a disappointment to a certain extent. So brilliant seemed the array of players which was to represent the military forces of Great Britain that when the Americans triumphed by a large margin in the match games and when the four was eliminated from the Monty Waterbury tournament by the Meadow Brook team, which conceded a three-goal handicap, it was felt that the combination had been overrated. However, it was realized yesterday just how strong this British Army four is.

Team Work Impresses.

The players have become acclimated to the weather conditions and have become acquainted with the American style of play. Major Lockett and Colonel Melville, both of whom were disabled by accidents on their arrival in this country, have fully recovered and are playing at their best. Also the four have worked up a co-ordination of play which was sadly lacking during the earlier contests. With the all around improved condition of the team the British Army combination will prove a strong opponent when it plays in the final round for the American open title on Saturday.

Although the weather was perfect for the event yesterday, it was one of the smallest crowds of the season which had assembled in the stands when the two sets of horsemen took the field. Harry Payne Whitney, who refereed the game, led the horsemen into the famous stretch of turf teamed in the ball, and the finest exhibition of polo which has been seen at the Meadow Brook Club this season began.

The British officers started off with a rush, evidently determined to carry the attack to the Americans rather than take defensive tactics. They caught the Shelburne players off their guard and in short order ran up a lead of two goals. Colonel Melville was the first to count. His mount stumbled at the side of the field near the Americans' posts and when the No. 3 brought his horse to his feet again he found the ball near his mallet. With one strong stroke he sent it sailing between the uprights. The Americans fought back desperately, but were unable to carry the ball within striking distance of the British goal, and soon after Lieutenant Leaf made a long forehand between the posts. The gong sounded the end of the period and Shelburne was trailing by 2 to 0.

Throughout this opening frame the American horsemen kept the ball in the American territory, and on several occasions Colonel Melville carried it dangerously near, but his drives were a few degrees off and splendid opportunities were wasted. The Americans were just as helpless through the second chukker, not once getting the ball past midfield, and only the most desperate sort of work kept the British Army players from accounting for many more goals. The players from abroad, however, kept up their thrilling exhibition. Colonel Melville, displaying his best form, carried the ball near the Americans' posts time and again. The British officers were working together with

Flamingo Polo Four Defaults Semi-Final to Meadow Brook

The Flamingo polo team which was to have met the Meadow Brook Club in the semi-finals of the tournament for the American open championship this afternoon on Cochran Field, Westbury, L. I., last night defaulted to Devereux Milburn's combination. The Flamingos announced that they were unable to gather together a team which would give the Meadow Brook four any real competition and as a result withdrew from the play. As a result of this default and the British Army team's victory over Shelburne yesterday, Meadow Brook and the British Army will meet in the final game for the American open title on Saturday, which will also be the final contest of the polo season. Last year the horsemen from the Argentine Federation captured the title.

was always there to receive it, and it was this co-ordination that accounted for a third goal, made by Lieutenant Leaf after the bell sounded.

Shelburne Narrows Gap.

The Shelburnes was being outplayed at every turn during these first two periods, but they finally found themselves at the start of the third and came back with determination. Gradually they closed the gap. Webb sent a long left-handed drive through the posts as the play got under way again, and a minute later Beard brought the score to 3 to 2.

It appeared as if the Americans were at last ready to show their superiority, but again the British attack widened the margin of points between the officers and their opponents. Colonel Melville fished the ball out from a melee of mallets in front of the American goal and sent it through for his team's fourth goal, and as the period ended Lieutenant Leaf carried the sphere around the entire Shelburne team, passed it to his No. 1 and again Colonel Melville counted. When the teams changed mounts the British four still maintained its three-goal lead.

Shelburne closed in again at the start of the fourth period. Webb and Wilson worked together in formidable fashion toward the front line and brilliant stops by Major Beard held off the opponents. Webb scored at the start of the chukker with a spectacular shot from sixty yards as Major Wilson rode off Major Lockett to make the road clear. Toward the middle of the chukker Webb returned the compliment, putting the ball in position for "Jingles" to make his first contribution to the Shelburne score and bringing the count to 5-4.

Once more the British Army combination rallied and checked the advance. Colonel Melville carried the ball past and through the Shelburne defense to again draw away from his pursuers, but Major Beard's steady work at back prevented several further chances which the foreign four had. Twice the Shelburne back stopped the ball when it was within inches of the goal line, dashing in recklessly to send it out of range or well up the field out of danger. On other occasions he was forced to score safeties to prevent the points which seemed imminent, but Major Lockett failed to make good either of his chances from the sixty-yard line. The half ended with both teams fighting with all their power and the British leading, 6 to 4.

Both Teams Determined.

The teams came back after half time with renewed energies. Bravely the Americans strove to pull up on even terms, but the British officers were just as determined to maintain their advantage. Too well they remembered how in the Monty Waterbury Cup series Meadow Brook broke through their defense in the eighth period and tied the score and then went on to win in an extra session, eliminating them from the tournament. They were determined that this should not happen yesterday. Colonel Melville barely missed an opportunity to add to the total in the first few minutes and on the kick-in Major Beard sent the ball fully half the distance of the field. Webb carried it on and seemed on the verge of counting, but he was pressed closely by Major Hurndall and his final effort was wide.

Back and forth the ball flew after that, neither side progressing within striking distance again until the final seconds of the chukker. Then Lieutenant Leaf secured the ball near the side boards, drove clear of the Americans and then followed the flying sphere and urged it through the posts for another British point.

When Major Hurndall scored twice in rapid succession toward the end of the sixth period, the British went into a lead of 9 to 4. They were traveling at a fast pace, working through the Shelburne team with great consistency and keeping the play well away from their own posts. The American formation never once got started in this chukker, and only the continued clever riding and powerful mallet work of Major Beard held the British four to only two goals instead of a dozen. Time and again the American back thwarted the attempts of his opponents at the ball, with deadly accuracy, swept for its mark.

U. S. Makes Last Stand.

The Americans made one last stand in the seventh when they held the invaders scoreless for the first time and Major Beard closed the gap to 9 to 5. But they could not break through the great combination of Major Hurndall and Major Lockett with any consistency and were forced to bow finally to the greatest performance any of the foreign teams has given on International Field this season.

Colonel Melville accounted for another goal at the start of the last frame for the only goal of the period and when the contest ended, this British Army horsemen went off the field with a well earned victory, 10 to 5, and the right to meet the Meadow Brook combination for the American open championship.

PLAY POLO MATCH TODAY.

Governors Island and Camp Vail to Meet in Second Corps Semi-Final.

The polo combinations representing Governors Island and Camp Vail will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the semi-final round for the championship of the Second Army Corps Area. The contest will be played on the field at Fort Hamilton, where Governors Island defeated and eliminated the Fort Hamilton four, favorites at the start of the tournament, last Sunday. The winners of today's contest will meet the team representing Squadron A of the New York National Guard in the final game for the championship. No date has been set as yet for the final event.

LYNCH-BURMAN BOUT AT GARDEN OCT. 19

Champion Secures Postponement of One Week—Bernstein Meets Kansas on Oct. 12.

The world's bantamweight championship battle between Joe Lynch, conqueror of Johnny Buff, and Joe Burman, Chicago bantamweight, who is recognized as champion, will be held in Madison Square Garden on the night of Oct. 19, according to present plans. The contest originally was scheduled for Oct. 12 but was postponed yesterday at the request of Eddie Mead, Lynch's manager. The necessity for greater time in which to condition himself for the bout prompted the request for a postponement on behalf of Lynch. Promoter Tex Rickard granted Lynch's request after getting the approval of Nate Lewis, Burman's manager.

A bout between Jack Bernstein, who holds the 130-pound championship belt, and Rocky Kansas, veteran lightweight, will feature the card at the Garden on Oct. 12. This bout originally was scheduled for Oct. 19 but was moved forward when the Lynch-Burman bout was postponed.

The struggle for the bantamweight title promises to be one of the high lights in the season's indoor boxing. The rivalry between the boxers is keen and the interest in the bout is expected to be high. In the coming bout Lynch will occupy the position of challenger under the demand of the State Athletic Commission, which declined to sanction the battle unless Lynch agreed to this arrangement and posted a forfeit of $2,500 in conformity with the commission's rules. Lynch's delay in recognizing a challenge from Burman led to the action from the commission.

BECKETT WILL BE PAID.

British Officials Rule That Boxer Get His Share of Purse.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The boxing officials today decided that Joe Beckett, British heavyweight champion, should receive of his share of the purse for his fight with Georges Carpentier, payment of which was held up after the fight Monday night.

It appears that the money, amounting to between £3,000 and £4,000, was withheld because the officials considered that the action of Beckett's seconds in throwing a towel into the ring as a signal of defeat after the Englishman had been knocked down three times was unjustified. Upon further consideration, however, it was decided that Beckett could not be held responsible for this "indiscretion."

The bout was scheduled for twenty rounds, but ended twenty seconds after the opening bell was sounded.

O'ROURKE TO PUSH MOORE.

Seeks to Sign English Boxer With Harry Greb in Title Bout.

Tom O'Rourke, silver-haired handler of boxers, matchmaker, promoter and manager, has taken a leaf from the book of Charlie Harvey and is importing foreign boxing talent. O'Rourke yesterday announced his intention of immediately instituting a campaign for recognition in the middleweight ranks for Ted Moore, English boxer, who has been sent to this country by his manager, S1 Alger.

O'Rourke appraises Moore as "the best European fighter that has struck these shores; the nearest approach as a boxer and fighter to Tommy Ryan." On behalf of Moore, O'Rourke is campaigning for a world's middleweight title match against Harry Greb, holder of the championship. According to O'Rourke, Moore was matched for a bout with Battling Siki at Marseilles, France, on Sept. 2, but the match fell through when the Senegalese boxer embarked for this country. O'Rourke will act as Moore's adviser and manager during the boxer's visit here.

TITLES AT STAKE TONIGHT.

Greb and McTigue Risk Crowns in Ten-Round Bouts.

Two world's boxing champions are scheduled to defend their titles tonight. Mike McTigue, world's light-heavyweight champion, will engage Young Stribling, Southern boxer, in a ten-round bout to a decision at Columbus, Ga., which will be refereed by Harry Ertle, Jersey City referee, who officiated at the heavyweight championship bout between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier two years ago.

At Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh, Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, will engage in a ten-round no-decision bout against Jimmy Darcy, Portland, Ore., middleweight.

FIRPO SIGNS WITH MOVIES.

Contract for $100,000 Calls for South American Films.

Luis Angel Firpo is going to enter the moving pictures, it was learned yesterday. The South American giant, having declined a $200,000 movie contract for a picture to be made in this country, has accepted a $100,000 contract from a Los Angeles concern for a picture to be filmed in South America.

W. AND J. CAPTAIN HURT.

Will Be In Condition, However, to Play Against W. and L. Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—Captain Chester Widerquist of the W. and J. College football squad received a slight injury in the final scrimmage of the Presidents in preparation for the struggle Saturday with Washington and Lee. He will be in condition to play against W. and J.

The drill was largely a defensive one to test the ability of the varsity athletes to check the shifts and variety of offense of the Generals, which carried them through to a 19 to 7 victory over the heavy Western Maryland eleven in their opening struggle.

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT.

Queensboro A. C., Long Island City—Bartley Madden v. Jack McAuliffe 24; twelve pounds. Joey Silvers v. George Brown; Billy Houlihan v. Frank Sweeney; Jack Brits v. Armand del Pino; Joe Werner v. Marty Shello. Each six rounds.

Rink Sporting Club, Brooklyn—Dave Rosenberg v. Soldier Barfield, twelve rounds; Sid Terris v. Joey Baker; Murray Layton v. Billy Ball; Augie Pisano v. Dave Gensler. Each six rounds.

102d Medical Regiment Armory—Jack Douglas v. Phil Reynolds; Paul Bartenbach v. Jimmy Roberts; Willie Gilligan v. Young Peppo. Three eight-round bouts.

Warner to Meet Successor In Gridiron Test Saturday

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—When the University of Pittsburgh and Lafayette College teams clash on the gridiron here next Saturday, the game also will mark a meeting between two coaches, one of whom will be a successor to the other within a year. Pop Warner, veteran mentor at Pittsburgh, will conclude his contract with the Panthers this season and next year will see him coaching the Stanford University eleven on the Pacific Coast. He will be succeeded at Pittsburgh by Jock Sutherland, a former Pitt product, now coaching the Lafayette eleven.

RICHESON INJURED IN YALE PRACTICE

Quarterback Retires With a Bruised Arm—Neale Scores Twice in Scrimmage.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 3.—Yale's quarterback situation was somewhat complicated today when Lyle Richeson was kicked in the arm in the opening scrimmage and retired. After an examination of his injury tonight, however, it was stated by the coaches that he would be able to play against North Carolina on Saturday. Billy Neale featured today's practice. He drove over the line for both touchdowns, which were the varsity's scoring product in a thirty-minute scrimmage against Billy Bull's scrubs.

PRINCETON SCORES TWICE.

Newby and Foster Cross Scrub Line in Hard Scrimmage.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 3.—Continuing his policy of hard scrimmaging, Coach Bill Roper sent his Princeton varsity through a stiff workout on University Field this afternoon. Roper worked his men intensively on forward pass defense in anticipation of the Notre Dame attack here Oct. 20.

Every man on the squad had a chance to perform on the varsity, and the various combinations put over two touchdowns on Ned Poe's Omelettes before the session was over. The first was a 20-yard run by Dick Newby, after he and Beattie had alternated at taking the ball down the field, and the second went to the credit of Foster, who plunged through the scrub line for the final three yards.

MERRILL STARS AGAIN.

Scores Harvard Varsity's Only Touchdown After 60-Yard Run.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 3.—Jimmy Merrill, who scored two touchdowns for the Harvard varsity against the scrubs on Tuesday, again was in the spotlight today. His most brilliant effort was a 60-yard run back of a kick for a touchdown. This touchdown was the only one made against the scrubs, who would have held the regulars to a tie if it had not been for a 35-yard drop kick made by Joe McGlone late in the scrimmage.

The scrubs made their touchdown on a plunge through the line by McInnes.

CORNELL HITS FAST PACE.

Varsity Eleven Works Hard Against the Second Team.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Cornell swung into midweek stride this evening in a long workout on Schoellkopf Field under the flood lights, the varsity and second team engaging in lively scrimmaging, with Doble driving them hard. More than the usual number of inexperienced players are in the varsity ranks this year and Doble is finding it necessary to give a lot more attention to details of position than usual.

There were new variations in the line-up, except at left halfback, where Paterson started instead of Smith. These two seem to be the best candidates for Eddie Kaw's position. The balance of the line-up included Henderson and Kneen at ends; Kearney and Sumstrom, tackles; Berean and Morris, guards; Pfann, quarter; Ramsey, right half, and Cassidy, fullback.

U. S. OBTAINS DRAW IN CRICKET MATCH

All-Philadelphia Team Plays on Defensive in Second Game Against English.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The all-Philadelphia cricket team obtained a technical draw today in the second match with the Free Foresters of England which came to an end by agreement at 5 P. M. When the local players started to follow on after scoring 223 in the first inning, they had to make at least 200 more runs in the second, or stay in for two hours, or be defeated.

Wickets fell rapidly and it soon became evident that it would be impossible to score the necessary runs. So the Philadelphians switched their tactics and played on the defensive. The British eleven won the first match, completed Monday, 298 to 207, with seven wickets in hand.

CARLSON BACK AT N. Y. U.

Veteran Will Bolster Team for Rochester Game.

In preparation for the game with the Rochester University eleven scheduled for this Saturday, Head Coach Tom Thorp gave the New York University squad a stiff workout on Ohio Field yesterday afternoon. Heidge Carlson, veteran halfback, was seen in uniform for the first time this season and will be a valuable addition to the Violet backfield for this season. Besides his brilliant offensive play, Carlson is one of the best kickers on the team and will be a great help in the defensive plays.

In the practice session yesterday afternoon, Thorp put Carlson through a short signal drill, while Howard Cann coached him in punting. A short session of tackling the dummy preceded one of the hardest scrimmages the team has been subjected to this season. The second team was on the defensive during the entire struggle and was the target of the first team's onslaught in which the Violet regulars crossed the goal line four times.

Staff Going Abroad.

The Norwegian-America Line, Inc., announced yesterday that among the passengers who have been booked for the S. S. Stavangerfjord, which sails from this port today, is Arthur Staff of Chicago, holder of several world's skating records. Staff, who will be accompanied by his trainer, Rudy Radiskapf, has challenged Oscar Mathiesen, the Norwegian ice-skating champion, to a match race to take place in Christiania.

"JUST a word to every motor truck driver who reads this paper. I've wanted to say something especially to you for a long time, but have kept putting it off. I was afraid you fellows might think I'm one of those high-browns trying to preach a sermon on something I know nothing about.

"Far from it! I've driven a truck a good many times, and I know what it is. It's a man's job. And what I want to say is simply this: because the average truck is so much bigger than the average car, why not give the car driver just a shade better than an even chance to pass you, without having to slide off the macadam or asphalt in doing it?

"I don't believe that a single truck driver ever really means to hog the road. But a good many times he forgets. All he's got to do is to stick to his half of the road, and he's 'done his duty'. And it's better for everyone concerned. Incidentally, I understand that every driver in the big, attractive Socony fleet of trucks has special instructions to keep his machine well over to the right—never to hog the road."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

General Advance on Stock Exchange, Trading More Active —Foreign Exchange Unsettled.

The rather emphatic recovery of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday might be ascribed either to an automatic upward swing from the downward movement, conducted under professional auspices a week or more ago, or else to Wall Street's more cheerful inferences from recent public statements regarding the business situation. The general level of prices has been virtually stationary during the past week, but before the market ceased to move it had been driven down 4 or 5 per cent. on the average by the concentrated professional selling of two or three days earlier in September. Since real holders of stocks, notwithstanding the gloom which those declines created in speculative Wall Street, took no interest in the movement, it is fair enough to presume that a "short interest" of considerable proportions may have been left uncovered, and that it decided to do some active "covering" yesterday.

If there was nothing in the actual financial news by which the advance could be accounted for, it had at least the more or less effective stimulus of statements from various sources in the last few days, taking a hopeful view of the business outlook, though always with certain qualifications. From the monthly bulletins of the Reserve Banks to the predictions at the bankers' convention and the occasional forecasts of responsible individuals, all these diagnoses of the situation have been free from any undertone of misgiving or apprehension. They have agreed in pointing out the underlying soundness of the banking and trade position; and if they have in practically every instance emphasized the fact that no return of last Spring's "business boom" is to be expected, they have equally united in foreshadowing continuance of "good business" on a normal basis—marked by no such enthusiastic expansion as that of eight or nine months ago, but also by no such lack of consuming power as that of 1921.

It is possible that the stock market, after having alternately indulged in expectation, first of an Autumn "inflation market" and then of severe Autumn reaction, has made up its mind to abandon both ideas and adapt itself to the prospect of an ordinarily prosperous season. As a matter of fact, this is what ought all along to have been inferred from the year's early and somewhat violent trade revival, followed by the gradual waning of financial and industrial activity when it was seen that past deficiencies in stocks of merchandise had been made up. If the channels of trade had been overstocked by the purchases of last Spring, if credit had been strained to accumulate the goods and the money market thereupon had tightened, the sequel might have been unpleasant.

But every one knew, as long ago as the end of August, that none of these things had happened. On the actual status of industry yesterday's figures of iron production in September possibly threw some light. The monthly output decreased, for the fourth time since the year's high figure was reached in May; last month's production was less by 16 per cent. than the Spring maximum. But the May output broke all records in our industrial history; the September daily output was slightly above that of last January, 53 per cent. above that of September, 1922, and, except for the eight preceding months of the present year, was much the largest of any month since October, 1920.

Although absolutely no fresh light was thrown by the news on the question of Germany's internal politics or on the French terms for settlement in the Ruhr, the franc declined sharply yesterday, both in New York and Europe. At the same time the mark reached new ground in depreciation, selling at a price at which one American cent would buy 5,000,000 of them. Our Colonial ancestors invented the name "shinplasters" for a currency which had achieved a similar distinction.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 3, 1923.

Stock Exchange call money continued easy, opening and renewing at 5 per cent., a slight hardening over Tuesday's rate, charge declined later to 4½, with 4 per cent. obtaining just before close. Time money was also easier in tone, though quotably unchanged, dealers reporting a fair supply of money at 5¼ per cent. for all dates, both classes, while 30-day accommodation was arranged at 5¼ per cent. Commercial paper and acceptances were discounted without variation.

BANK ESTIMATE OF LOSSES IN JAPAN

San Francisco Institution Calculates $1,500,000,000 to $3,000,000,000.

The Mercantile Trust Company of San Francisco estimates 3,000,000,000 to 6,000,000,000 yen ($1,500,000,000 to $3,000,000,000) as the probable minimum of the financial loss suffered by Japan during the first few days of September. Aside from this, it is pointed out that the productive activities of from two to three million people have been interrupted for an indefinite period, and that as much as half a million of this population is reported as dead, maimed or injured.

In this bank's judgment, "the economic strain will manifest itself at once and primarily in a very great reduction of national revenues. The loss of 6,000,000,000 yen worth of taxable property is in itself a blow; the indefinite interruption of the many activities which paid tribute to the omnipresent tax collectors will make the matter still more serious.

"Meanwhile, expenditures are certain to mount. Millions of dollars worth of Government property, including administrative and parliamentary buildings, schools, naval plant and buildings, railway stations and miles of overhead rail lines in Tokio, bridges, telephones and telegraph lines, all belonging to the Government, banks such as the semi-official institutions of the Bank of Japan, the Yokohama Specie Bank and others, were all destroyed and must be replaced. This can be done only by means of foreign loans.

"Further, as is usual in any crisis, the Government must lead the way in reconstruction. In these ways, public expenditures will inevitably rise, while tax receipts and railway revenues are certain to fall. The divergence can only be covered for the present by borrowings, the printing of paper money and the utilization of gold credits amounting to about 500,000,000 yen which Japan now holds in London and New York by virtue of export balances during the war.

"The domestic holdings of gold now amount to about 2,230,000,000 yen. Private finance will be cared for in the main for the next two months by the sixty-day moratorium which has been made effective for the afflicted areas, but thereafter it is very possible that insurance companies generally will feel the strain."

White Oil Extends Time Limit.

Officers of the White Oil Corporation interested in the reorganization plan for that company explained yesterday that the extension of the deposit agreement time limit to Oct. 20 was expected to bring in more than enough securities to make the plan effective. For each thirty shares of outstanding common stock in the present company to be deposited, it was stated, there will be issued six shares of common stock in the new company to be organized. Depositors of old stock, it was stated, will be privileged to subscribe to the new stock and the bonds at advantageous ratios.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Strong Upturn in Stocks.

The stock market turned about suddenly yesterday and for the first day in more than a week recorded a substantial advance, with closing figures approximately the highest of the day and with the run of stocks up from one to two points. In the main it was admitted by Wall Street that these advances were recorded at the expense of those who had sold stocks for the decline. But nevertheless there was said to be some measure of public participation in the market, and the day's trading had the effect of dispelling much of the gloom which has hung so heavily over Wall Street for the past month. The oil and railroad shares led the advance, but there were also good gains in the equipment shares, in automobile stocks and in a long list of miscellaneous issues. The final dealings yesterday afternoon were described as a "bear squeeze," in which such stocks as Studebaker, Baldwin and United States Steel common advanced rapidly while short sellers abandoned all other tactics than "buy at the market." The day's transactions crossed the million-share line for the first time since Sept. 11, and exceeded the actual total of any day since June 28.

Influence on the Day's Market.

After the market was over last night, there was considerable re-thumbing of the day's news in the endeavor to ascertain just what had happened to give the market such a fillip. Probably the most important development was the expressed intention of Administration officials at Washington to give aid to the wheat farmer without the uneconomic process of fixing prices or by calling a special session of Congress. Another development which attracted considerable attention was the report that an investigation of the surtax problem is under way by the Administration with a chance of its revision downward. Still another was the statement by several prominent oil officials that in their opinion the crisis in the industry has passed, and that improved conditions are to be anticipated; while still another was the report from several of the basic industries that fourth-quarter bookings show some moderately good increases over those at the beginning of the third quarter.

"Wall Street Sentiment."

If one were to believe the reports in brokerage houses at the close yesterday, it would take more than one day of advancing prices to bring about any considerable change in speculative sentiment in the financial district. In most places in Wall Street last night the professional traders continued to be more or less stunned by the action of the market, and many of them do not believe it yet. They are much disposed to call the present up swing a "technical rally in a bear market" and one which will soon fizzle out when the shorts have repurchased their commitments. In other words, while the action of the market yesterday probably has had the effect of engendering a feeling of caution in the professional element, it did not by any means change their general viewpoint.

The Railroad Financial Structure.

Figures recently made public by the Interstate Commerce Commission on railroad financing for 1923 are receiving some serious attention in the financial district as indicating the trend of railroad financing. Out of more than half a billion in new securities floated by the railroad companies last year, 86 per cent. was in bonds or other funded obligations and the remaining 14 per cent. in stock. Such a condition, it was pointed out yesterday, will be used as an argument of why the transportation act of 1924 should be preserved until the railroads "get on their feet." Those who take this view say the bond financing is tending in many cases to make the financial structure of the railroads top-heavy, and until such time as the credit and confidence in the railroads has improved enough to make possible the flotation of stock.

Unsatisfactory Guideposts.

Among investors and business men who watch the stock market for a hint as to what is the trustworthy business outlook for the immediate future there has lately been a good deal of grumbling that the Stock Exchange was giving them no clue whatever. From the business men who, on account of the nature of their business, have to watch the cotton market there is now coming a much more angry complaint, which takes the ground that the cotton market is constantly pointing out what they have to expect, but is pointing in opposite directions on alternate days or weeks and sometimes, as was the case on Tuesday, changing its indication with great rapidity and violence during the same day. The case of the cotton goods trade is admittedly one of the most peculiar which has arisen in recent years. Merchants have for months been selling their goods with prices based on cotton purchased around 22 cents a pound. During this time the occasional tests of the buyers' willingness to pay something higher have not as a rule been satisfactory. Since the low September estimates on the crop and the consequent return for a time to 20-cent cotton, these merchants have been utterly at sea. So far as the trade seems to have formulated its opinion, the feeling seems to be that if cotton should rise again materially above 30 cents, purchases of the raw material for future goods would be once reduced, but that any substantial reduction of the price below the present level would bring in fairly substantial purchases.

New York Central's Subsidiaries.

Something of a scramble has developed in the open market for the stocks of subsidiaries of the New York Central Railroad, on the theory that within a short time they will be taken into the parent company on an advantageous exchange. The outstanding example yesterday was Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, dealt in across the counter, in which the advance was from $126 per share on the previous day to $170 a share yesterday. A smaller advance was made by stock of the Big Four on the New York Stock Exchange, which advanced 6¼ points, following a large advance on the previous day. New York Central officials denied that the company in buying these stocks or that there is any immediate prospect of the affiliated companies being taken into the fold of the parent corporation. Nevertheless, it was reported that some of the heaviest purchases of these stocks during the day were from brokers who are usually very close to New York Central affairs.

The Demand for Bank Stocks.

Many dealers in bank and trust company stocks believe they can trace the present very large demand for these issues at advancing prices to the new schedule of fees on trust funds, which went into effect in this State on Sept. 1 and which has had a very remarkable effect on the earnings of the trust departments of many of the big institutions which act as trustees and executors. The new schedule of fees is 5 per cent. on the first $2,000; 2½ per cent. on the next $30,000; 1 per cent. on the next $200,000 and ½ per cent. over $300,000. One large dealer in bank stocks said yesterday that in the case of many of the larger institutions of the Wall Street district, particularly those who have trust departments in connection with their banking business, the demand for these stocks is very much greater than the supply.

Setting a New Date.

Professional Wall Street is always disposed to look to the future and set a date, after which time things may be expected to take a turn for better or for worse, as the case may be. Just now there are in the financial district a considerable number of people who believe that the definite turn in the stock market situation is to be anticipated "at Thanksgiving."

Beginning March 22 the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1923 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

LONDON SCHRODERS PLAN A BANK HERE

Branch of Firm Founded in 1804 Would Handle Only Acceptances.

HAS WORLD-WIDE BUSINESS

Despite German Origin, House Underwrote Several British War Issues.

Further evidence that large European bankers are canvassing the commercial situation in the United States with a view to entering it was furnished yesterday when it was learned on good authority that the old London house of J. Henry Schroder & Co. is planning to establish a branch here.

It is understood that the branch would restrict itself to the acceptance business, the growth of which in the United States has made such a departure almost necessary. The proposed branch would not engage in underwriting and would not therefore compete with investment institutions in the United States.

The firm of J. Henry Schroder & Co. is well known to New York bankers, whose business is of an international nature. Their activities extend throughout continental Europe and South America, particularly Brazil. The firm is rated as one of the four largest issue banks in the British Empire and is possibly the largest house engaged in the acceptance business. The firm was organized by Germans in 1804. During the World War, despite its Teutonic origin, the bank enhanced its reputation in Great Britain and played an important part in underwriting some of the large war-time bond issues. One of the largest undertakings was in the flotation of the French Railways bonds. Present partners are Baron R. Brune Schroeder and Frank C. Tiarks.

OPPORTUNITY IN ARGENTINE.

United States Ambassador Says it Is Good Place for Young Man.

John Wallace Riddle, United States Ambassador to Argentina, speaking at a luncheon given in his honor by the Argentine-American Chamber of Commerce at the Banker's Club, 120 Broadway, yesterday told of building construction under way in Buenos Aires and of the rapid extension of railroads throughout all of South America.

United States Commerce in Buenos Aires, he said, is very active. Seven of every eight automobiles in use there are of North American manufacture. The North American colony in the Argentine capitol is growing. The North Americans have a thriving club of three hundred members with a building of their own.

Mr. Riddle thought the prospects for a young North American in the Argentine were bright, provided he went not for adventure but to stay and work and posses either capital or knowledge of some technical profession or trade. A knowledge of the language was a very valuable asset and the lack of it a great handicap, he said.

Among the guests of the luncheon were John Barrett, formerly director of the Pan-American Union; Edward F. Feely, Commercial Attache for Argentine Republic in Washington; Ernest C. Perez, Argentine consul-General in New York; John L. Merrill, president of the all America Cables Company, and Frank C. Munson, President of the Munson Steamship Line.

FURTHER DECREASE IN PRODUCTION OF IRON

September's Daily Output 7,090 Tons Below August, 20,580 Below Last May.

Production of iron in the United States during September, as reported by The Iron Age, decreased about 9 per cent from August, following a decrease of 6¼ per cent in August as compared with July. It is stated that practically all of the 222,000 tons decrease in September's iron output occurred in blast furnaces operated by the steel companies. Daily average production last month was 104,186 tons, as against 111,276 in August. The daily average reached 124,764 tons in May, but is now back to the January average, which was 104,181.

Eighteen furnaces were blown out in September and three were blown in. The 255 furnaces in blast Oct. 1, represent a daily capacity of 101,000 tons, against 108,590 tons for the 270 furnaces in blast on Sept. 1.

Monthly output during the last three years compares as follows, in tons:

	1923.	1922.	1921.
September	3,125,513	2,080,720	1,868,280
August	3,348,466	1,816,170	654,193
July	3,078,434	2,468,565	994,595
June	3,676,445	2,261,028	1,084,823

Average daily output during August makes the following comparison with preceding months, in tons:

	1923.	1922.	1921.	1920.
September	104,184	67,791	62,850	104,510
August	111,274	58,586	30,780	101,580

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

French and Belgian Francs Break Sharply—Other Rates Quietly Lower—Canadian Higher.

Heavy offering of French and Belgian remittances, resulting in sharp declines in both, the former reacting 11 points to 5.58½ cents and the latter 10 points to 4.98 cents, was the outstanding movement in yesterday's dealings. All of the interest centred in these two, and except for a further decline in German marks to 500,000,000 marks for one dollar, which displaced the previous record low touched on Tuesday, trading elsewhere was moderate, with rates quietly lower. Foreign selling orders again directed the movement here. Continentals on London showing net losses.

Sterling was maintained steadily around $4.54¼, a slight gain over Tuesday, while Italian sagged 4¼ points to 4.46¾ cents. Scandinavians were moderately heavy, Spanish, Swiss and Holland irregular. Central Europeans were reactionary, with a new low in Polish marks.

There was a sharp gain in the Canadian dollar, Montreal remittance selling up to 98.44 cents, an advance of ⅜ cent over Tuesday and more than ½ cent over the price a week ago. Payments for wheat exports and purchases of the new Canadian bond issue were the factors behind the improvement.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

CONSUMERS STOCKS OF STEEL REDUCED

Revival of Buying on a Broad Scale Has Not Yet Appeared, Reviews Say.

PIG IRON OUTPUT DROPS

New Railroad Equipment Orders Are Counted On to Improve Business Soon.

Reviews of the iron and steel trade note that consumption continues at a high rate and that while September business was not up to expectations for all producers, on the whole it was ahead of August. Pig iron production continues to show a moderate decline. The Iron Trade Review says:

"Revival of steel buying on a broad scale has not yet made its appearance, but the market continues to exhibit evidence of sound underlying conditions. Stocks with a number of consumers apparently are reaching the spot where they demand replenishment and considerable new miscellaneous tonnage is attributed to that source.

"For the fourth consecutive month pig iron production fell off in September and now practically is back to the January rate. Total output in September was 3,124,101 tons, against 3,483,998 tons for August. The average daily rate was down 10.5 per cent. from the high point in May.

"Expectations of better buying of steel in the near future in considerable degree are based upon a revival of railroad equipment orders on a heavy scale. It is estimated total cars to be placed this quarter may reach 75,000 or more. The Union Pacific and Southern Pacific each have a program of 18,000 cars, while a contemplated purchase of 10,000 to 15,000 cars is attributed to the Pennsylvania Railroad. Rail buying by railroads keeps up well. New orders total 100,000."

The Iron Age says:

"A further slight contraction in output of both pig iron and steel marks the coming in of the last quarter of the year. Consumption continues at a high rate, though in some lines there is a falling off from that of early Summer, and neither sellers nor buyers are forcing the issue as to prices for forward delivery. It is recognized on both sides that September conditions may prevail for some weeks.

"September operations of the Steel Corporation are estimated at about 87 per cent. of its steel making capacity. If the 31,000-ton daily rate of new bookings which the corporation announced for the first three weeks of the month held up to the end, the net reduction in unfilled orders was considerably under the 435,000 tons reported for August.

"Output of independent steel companies averaged not far from 70 per cent. of capacity last month, and the improvement of that rate in October will call for an early picking up in the major tonnage products—plates, shapes and bars.

"Pittsburgh reports still feature wrought pipe and tin plate as the most active lines. The report of the National Association of Sheet and Tin Plate Manufacturers is expected to show September orders were nearly double those of August. Recent orders for tin plate for China and Japan have been taken at full domestic prices, indicating a stronger market for the Welsh product.

"Pig iron prices continue to decline."

CHILE WANTS CAPITAL.

Senator Solar Says American Aid Is Welcomed by His Country.

"Chile welcome Americans and American capital; now possessing great savings, she seeks commercial expansion and may help foreign industries while defending her own," declared Dr. Carlos Aldunate Solar yesterday at a luncheon to him and Ernesto Barros Jarpa given by the Chile-American Association in India House.

Senator Solar and Senor Jarpa are representatives of the Chilean Government in the Tacna-Arica arbitration proceedings at Washington. "Chile has to offer a good internal organization, civil legislation that firmly insures the right of property and does not recognise any difference between Chileans and foreigners, besides stability of taxation," he added.

Those present included: J. A. Farrell, President of United States Steel Corporation; C. F. Kelley, President Anaconda Copper Mining Company; C. E. Mitchell, President of the National City Bank; Paul M. Warburg, C. M. Barton, President Du Pont Nitrate Company; Andrew Fletcher, President American Locomotive Company; William Loeb, Jr., R. B. Thayer, Anaconda Copper Mining Company and Vernon Monroe of the J. P. Morgan Company.

SHIP RATE THROWN OPEN.

Continental Conference's Decision on Provision Freight Charge a Surprise.

The Continental Freight Conference, at a meeting yesterday at 5 Bridge Street, decided to throw open the rate on provisions to Antwerp, Rotterdam, Hamburg and Bremen. The decision came as a surprise outside of the Continental Conference, there having been talk of a general increase in the conference freight rates.

Although there was the confirmation of the report, it was said after the meeting that the decision was due largely to a disagreement between the Holland-America Steamship Company and the other members. The Holland-America holds the largest number of contracts for provision shipments, and is understood to have vigorously opposed any increase. The result was considered a victory for the Shipping Board, because of the keen competition between the United States lines and the Holland-America Company.

The monthly meeting of the United Kingdom Conference will be held this morning, when it will consider future rates. The present rate on provisions to Liverpool is 40 cents a hundred, on lour 15 cents and on grain 9 cents.

STATE AND CITY LOANS DROP

Sharp Decrease in Bond Issues Is Reported Since July 1.

Borrowing on the part of States, counties and cities, through the issuance of bonds, has fallen off sharply since July 1, according to The Bond Buyer. Compared with the total loans floated in April, May and June, of $88,000,000, $101,000,000 and $170,000,000 respectively, loans in July, August and September were $66,000,000, $58,000,000 and $51,000,000 respectively.

It is pointed out that the reduced volume of financing in July and August was due as much to the normal seasonal inactivity as to unsatisfactory bond market conditions.

The following table, compiled by The Bond Buyer, shows sales of State and municipal bonds in September, and in the nine months ended September 30 for the ten-year period:

	September.	Nine Months Ended Sept. 30.
1923	$51,937,207	$789,547,481
1922	119,209,708	1,457,577,108
1921	160,797,646	825,006,043
1920	70,712,506	564,902,666
1919	72,787,976	511,491,708

CZECH EXPORT SURPLUS.

Outward Trade for 7 Months 1,704 Million Crowns Above Imports.

The value of all Czechoslovak exports for July amounted to 1,008 million crowns, and imports to 744 million crowns, thus showing a balance of 264 million crowns in favor of exports. The exports for the first seven months of this year totaled 6,621 million crowns and the import 4,816 million, an excess of 1,704 million crowns of exports over imports.

According to a report of the Tribuna, Czechoslovakia exported from Jan. 1 to July 21, 1923, 3,300,000 quintals of iron, representing a value of 521,009,000 crowns. Export of coal in July amounted to 47,000 wagons, or an increase over June of 7,000 wagons. During the same month the export of timber just doubled the pre-war monthly average. Before the war Czechoslovakia exported 110,000 wagons of coal per month and only 20,000 wagons of timber. The proportion of coal to timber, therefore, was 5½ to 1. Today it exports 47,000 wagons of coal and 44,000 wagons of timber.

GRAPE SHIPMENTS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Ten Thousand Carloads Expected Here This Fall, 30% More Than Last Year.

RAILROADS MEET DEMANDS

Plans Made to Handle Heavy Movement—September Receipts 150 Loads a Day.

This city will receive approximately 10,000 carloads of grapes this Autumn, an increase of almost 30 per cent. over last year, which was exceptionally large. These facts were revealed in an estimate of the grape movement made by the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association.

It is estimated that the grape movement for this city, including the New York State and the California grapes, will average approximately 20 carloads a day for the fifty-day period. The reports for September are sufficient, it was said, to justify this estimate.

Plans for handling this freight, with other fruits and vegetables, have been carefully worked out under the direction of E. J. Cleaves, District Manager of the Association. The Erie railroad will handle freight over Piers 20 and 21, and has arranged to rent a portion of the Old Dominion Pier which will give them room for an additional forty carloads a day.

The Pennsylvania has agreed to handle aproximately thirty cars of fruit a day at Pier 29. Twenty-four cars daily are being diverted from the Erie at Chicago and handled over the Baltimore & Ohio at Pier 22.

Facilities have been provided on the Jersey side of the river for handling fifty cars a day, including deliveries to the Erie at Pier 3, and the carloads that can be handled in the Manhattan Produce Yards of the Pennsylvania. Between twenty-five and thirty carloads of New York grapes a day are expected to come over the Delaware & Hudson and the New York Central.

September reports show that the grape receipts have been averaging more than 150 carloads a day. Of this amount it is reported that a large volume consists of the small white and the small black grapes.

SILVER SHIPPED TO INDIA.

Month's Bullion Consignments Total $11,478,884.

The shipment of $1,280,000 in silver bullion to India was reported yesterday, bringing the total for the last four weeks to $3,648,473, or slightly in excess of the monthly average for the year to date. The total thus far has been $11,478,884, part of this consisting of resh1pments through New York of foreign silver.

Because of postage purposes and probably even more so because of the use of silver in art work of India, that country is said to afford the best prospective market for American silver. Since the expiration of the Pittman Act, which put a floor price of $1 an ounce on American silver, producers have been scanning the world market for an opportunity to develop new fields. At present, producers are considering plans of forming an organization similar to the Copper Export Association which would serve as a central marketing agency for American mines joining the association.

WOULD BUY THE LEVIATHAN

Harriman Interests Reported Dickering for Shipping Board Vessels.

Reports that the Harriman steamship interests have been negotiating with the United States Shipping Board for the purchase of a transatlantic passenger vessel were not denied yesterday at the offices of the United American Lines. It was stated, however, that no definite offers had been made.

It has been rumored for several days that the United American was in the market for the Leviathan as well as other of the Shipping Board vessels, provided they could be bought at a per ton figure satisfactory to the company. In this connection it was said that officials of the company had had several consultations with the Chairman of the Shipping Board, Edward P. Farley, but that the matter had not reached a point where the board considered it advantageous to sell.

OUTLOOK FOR CROPS SEEN AS FAVORABLE

LATE CORN HARVESTED

Seeding of Winter Wheat Progresses—Rain Aids Grains in Northwest.

The summary of crop conditions, particularly affecting corn and cotton, as issued yesterday by the Government, was as follows:

"Weather was generally warm, dry and favorable for field work throughout the cotton growing States, except in the northwest portion, where frequent showers occurred. Temperatures averaged much above normal over greater portion of the belt.

"Late cotton and top crop made fair progress in Texas, but cotton is mostly made in that State and there was little change in its general condition. Dry, warm weather was instrumental in reducing insect activities, but considerable damage was still being done to top crop. There was an entire absence of rain over much of the State and picking and ginning advanced rapidly. Oklahoma progress was generally poor; bolls opened slowly in most sections and picking was retarded by showers, with army worm active in some localities. General condition of crop varied from poor to fair.

"In all sections east of the Mississippi River cotton matured rapidly under influence of warm, dry weather and abundant sunshine, while picking and ginning made good progress. Picking was nearing completion in Southern Mississippi and Alabama, was well advanced in Georgia, and about finished in the southern counties of South Carolina. Early crop was turning out fair to very good in North Carolina, but the late crop is very light.

"Much more favorable weather prevailed for maturing corn in Ohio Valley area than had been experienced for several weeks. Maturity was rapid in Atlantic Coast States. It continued too cloudy and rainy in Central and Northern Illinois, and while the first part of the week was favorable in Iowa, the latter part was cloudy, rainy and unfavorable, with damage in some places from flooding, washing and lodging. Late corn was maturing in the north central great plains, with the crop mostly in shock in Wisconsin and husking beginning in Minnesota.

"Late corn made good to excellent progress in Arkansas, but was generally in poor condition in Louisiana. It needed rain in portions of east Gulf States, especially in Mississippi and Georgia, where drought had become severe in the northern portion. Harvesting made good progress in the Middle Atlantic Coast States under favorable weather conditions.

"Seeding of Winter wheat made good progress throughout the Central Valley States and in the great plains area, except for interruption by rain in Central and Northern Illinois, Iowa and Eastern Nebraska. Soil continued in good condition in all sections, except a few places where it was too wet. It was in especially good condition for seeding in the western half of Kansas, where work is well along and the early seeded grains are coming up to good stand. Seeding made good progress in the Middle and North Atlantic Coast States, being nearly completed as far south as Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

"Fall seeded grains needed more moisture in New England, but are germinating and growing well in the western Lake region. There was sufficient rain to improve soil conditions in the more northwestern States, especially in parts of Montana and Idaho, but more moisture was needed in Northern Idaho and much of Washington and Oregon."

$27,485,000 BONDS OFFERED FOR SALE

Canvass Indicates Glut in Market for New Issues Has Been Cleared.

ONE $17,340,000 PARCEL

New York Central Equipment Issue Is Being Handled by Several Banks.

A canvass of bond houses dealing direct with the public yesterday indicated to some of the larger underwriting houses that the glut in the market for new issues had been quite definitely cleared. Shelves of the larger syndicates, it was reported, virtually had been cleaned and the smaller dealers reported a better demand. Representatives of large estates, savings banks and other institutions, who two or more weeks ago declined to consider new issues for investment were said yesterday to be in the market again. An evidence of a better public demand was indicated through the offering today of $27,485,000 of new bonds, a total that exceeds the weekly aggregate for the two preceding weeks and approaches the largest figures attained for any one day in the latter half of the week for the year to date.

The largest of the new issues, $17,340,000 of New York Central Lines equipment bonds, is being offered by J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National Bank, the National City Company, the Guaranty Trust Company and Harris, Forbes & Co. The bonds mature from one to fifteen years and bear 5 per cent. coupons. They are being offered at prices to yield from 5.25 to 5.50 per cent. The proceeds will be used to purchase 6,000 freight cars, 160 passenger cars, 75 milk cars and 8 locomotives. The issue is jointly secured by the resources of the New York Central, the Michigan Central and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Companies. More than 25 per cent. of the equipment involved has already been paid for in cash.

Offering of $5,000,000 first mortgage and refunding 6 per cent. gold bonds, Series A, of the Public Service Company of Colorado, due September 1, 1953, is being made at 93 to yield 6.55 per cent. by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., and A. E. Leach & Co., Inc.

A new issue of $1,500,000 public improvement gold bonds and of 70,000 acres lands gold bonds, all due October 1, 1938, is being made by Halgarten & Co. and Blair & Co., Inc. The bonds are of the Territory of Hawaii and bear 4½ per cent. coupons. They are optional in 1942 and are priced at 101¼ to yield more than 4.40 per cent. to the optional date.

Offering is being ade of $1,000,000 City of Akron, Ohio, school district, 5¼ per cent. bonds by the Guaranty Company of New York, Eldredge & Co., W. A. Harriman & Co. and Ames, Emerich & Co. The bonds are due from 1925 to 1942 and are priced to yield 4.75 per cent.

Hayden, Stone & Co. and White, Weld & Co. are offering a new issue of $1,000,000 of The People of Porto Rico 5 per cent. public improvement gold bonds optional on January 1, 1944, and due from 1943 to 1945 at prices to yield 4.55 per cent. to the optional date and 5 per cent. thereafter.

A new issue of $195,000 Town of Belleville, N. J., 5 per cent. gold bonds is being offered by Graham, Parsons & Co. and J. S. Rippel & Co. The bonds are due from 1924 to 1942 and will yield from 4.60 to 4.70 per cent.

Clark, Williams & Co. are offering $75,000 Town of North Hempstead, N. Y., 4½% per cent. coupon school bonds maturing 1935 to 1943 at prices to yield 4.40 per cent.

CROMWELL ANSWERS FOES.

Stock Exchange Can't Be Coerced, Its President Says.

Seymour L. Cromwell said yesterday that the New York Stock Exchange, of which he is President, had never yielded to coercion, had not modified its discipline nor tolerated interference with its standard of business conduct, regardless of the pressure and the threats of legislative reprisals. The statement was made in an address to the Carpet Merchants of the United States at the Waldorf-Astoria.

After discussin the history and the functions of the Stock Exchange he said:

"The Stock Exchange has never been in politics and never will be. It has never maintained a lobby in Albany and never will. It has never spent money to defeat or promote legislation and never will. It has made appearances before committees through its counsel and its officers and it will continue to do so.

"It will oppose in every proper way legislation which it deems to be detrimental to the public interest and will not be deterred from doing so by efforts to impugn its motives. The exchange has everything to gain and nothing to lose from a free and a full public discussion of all the matters that affect the functions of the exchange and the business methods for which it stands."

Japanese Buying Steel Here.

Moderate buying of iron and steel products by the Japanese is beginning to appear in the American market, according to trade journals. The buying of sheets is especially large and one maker has booked 12,000 to 15,000 tons for immediate shipment. The Japanese Government has suspended the import duty on sheets and structural steel. There are inquiries in the market for 12,000 kegs of wire nails.

Declares $4 Cash Distribution.

Payment will be made only to holders of record upon presentation of their certificates for endorsement of payment at the office of the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company, 60 Broadway.

Bosch Merger Plan Dropped.

Plans for a merger of the American Bosch Magneto Corporation and Gray & Davis, Inc., have been dropped definitely. The sales contract, under which former represents the latter as selling agent will be continued.

'COMMODITY LOANS' IN GERMAN TRADE

Practice Explained of Fixing Payment in Coal, Sugar, Timber and Rye.

RESULT OF BAD CURRENCY

Even Company Directors' Fees Have Been Fixed in Terms of Pig-Iron Values.

One of the results of German currency inflation, the London City & Midland Bank points out inits monthly bulletin, "is that the various uses to which money is ordinarily put are to some extent separated and performed by various quite distant emergency monetary instruments. The first stage reached is the practical abandonment of the inflated currency as a medium of exchange in foreign trade. Thus for some time past scarcely any trade has been conducted with German importers and exporters on a mark basis.

"Apart from individuals, central and local governments and corporate bodies of all kinds have been driven to various devices for borrowing on such terms as to assure investors of a stable return in respect of interest and a final repayment of the equivalent in real values of the original loan.

"The most obvious plan for attracting such investments was the issue of loans in terms of gold marks or of some relatively stable currency. Hence the Reichdollar loan and the sterling loan recently issued by the Port of Hamburg. Similar in their operation are the various issuees in terms of commodities. While the details vary from case to case, the general principle holds that subscriptions are made according to the prices or exchange rates ruling on the date of subscription for the particular commodity or currency upon which the issue is based, while interest payments and redemptions are contracted for likewise according to the prices or rates ruling on the dates allotted for payments.

"This type of loan has been contracted widely by companies and public authorities. Thus the Prussian potash loans have been most successful, so far as success consists in raising the required sums from investors. The rye loan of the City of Berlin was also heavily oversubscribed. The State of Saxony has used the same commodity as the basis of a loan. Coal, lignite, sugar, potash, timber and rye, as well as dollars, sterling and gold marks, have all been used by companies of various times.

"Usually when a company is engaged in the early stages of production its own particular product is taken as the basis for the issue. Incidentally some companies have gone so far as to fix the fees of their directors in terms of pig iron or some other commodity produced by them. It should be noted, however, that the denomination of loans or salaries in terms of commodities is very far removed from a reversion to the truck system of actual payment in those commodities.

"The contraction of private loans, such as mortgages on a similar plan, has proceeded to an advanced stage. Thus in East Prussia arrangements were made to grant loans to farmers on a rye basis, this commodity being chosen on account of its importance in the German diet and the fact that it is grown in large quantities all over the country. In this particular case the provincial authorities issue mortgages to the value of a certain quantity of rye, with interest stated in similar terms. The holder must then find a person willing to lend on the security of this mortgage, or, alternatively, the authorities will sell the mortgage, handing over the proceeds to the mortgagor."

$1,500,000 Water Main Planned.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and the Illinois Power and Light Company are planning the construction of a pipe line from Burlington, Iowa, to Galesburg, at a cost of $1,500,000, to furnish the railroad, the power company and the city with water, it was reported in the financial district yesterday. The railroad would contribute $750,000, the public utility company $350,000 and the city of Galesburg $500,000.

Dutch Indies Cut Floating Debt.

According to information received by the foreign department of Moody's Investors' Service, the floating debt of the Dutch Indies aggregates at present 269,396,117 guilders, equivalent to about $106,411,500 at prevailing rates of exchange. Of the total, 139,396,117 guilders represent floating debt in the mother country; 40,700,000 guilders, State notes, and 7,100,000 guilders, debt owing to the Bank of Java. The present floating indebtedness compares with 416,503,466 guilders at the end of 1922 and with 586,055,128 guilders at the end of 1921.

DIRECT RADIO JOINS POLAND TO AMERICA

Newest and Longest Circuit Goes One-sixth of Way Around the Globe.

BIG STATION AT WARSAW

Gateway for Near East and Russian Traffic Will Eliminate Delays and Censorship.

Direct radio communication between the United States and Poland was established late yesterday afternoon when General James G. Harbord, President of the Radio Corporation of America, sent the following message to the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs of Poland:

"May I not extend my felicitations on this the occasion of the opening of the Poland-United States circuit. This new and powerful radio link will provide the means by which the 3,000,000 Polish nationals who have made their homes in the United States may annihilate the distance which physically separates them from their friends and relatives across the ocean. Moreover, this vehicle is destined to become highly instrumental in the development of Poland's commercial and social life. For just as communication is the vanguard of commerce, so this radio service cannot fail to reveal new and broader vistas of commercial opportunities to a free and progressive people."

The new circuit is open for commercial traffic. Heretofore messages exchanged between Poland and the United States have been relayed over land wires through adjoining countries, and the new service will establish a new record for long distance commercial radio communication. The intervening space between the United States and Poland is one-sixth the distance around the earth.

Completion of work on this circuit further advances plans to make the United States the centre of a world-wide radio communication system. The Radio Corporation of America built the new high-power station for the Polish Government and work has been in progress since August, 1921. Traffic features of the contract give the Polish people the assurance that communications to and from their country will be carried on at the New York terminal of the circuit for a contracted period of thirty years. The Radio Corporation of America guarantees to provide facilities for Polish traffic during this period and to accomplish this a new receiving circuit has been installed at Riverhead, L. I. Operators on this circuit will devote their time to the reception of messages radiated from Warsaw.

One of the high-power transmitting units at Rocky Point, L. I., which is connected by land lines with the Broad Street traffic office of the company, will transmit to the Warsaw receiving station assuring rapid delivery of messages to Warsaw. A similar system conveys the incoming signals over land lines into the centre of the business section of the city.

Warsaw's station will be the gateway for traffic originating in or destined for the Near East countries and Russia, as the service is not limited by the boundaries of the new republic. Poland will now have many political advantages not enjoyed by those countries which must relay their messages to the outside world by way of land wires under the control of other countries. A highly developed network of land telegraph wires which radiate from Warsaw to all the Near East neighbors of Poland makes the radio station a central disseminating point for all traffic originating in the eastern part of Europe. Censorship which has delayed messages and restricted trade relations between Russia and the United States will be eliminated by radio, it is said, as far as radio.

Tests indicate that this circuit, although the longest commercial radio circuit in existence, is more efficient than shorter radio systems in other parts of Europe. The personnel at the station consists of foreign engineers and operators, some of whom are Americans. The call letters of Warsaw are AXL and its wave length 18,150 meters. The call station at Rocky Point, L. I., working with Poland, is WOK, and the wave length 17,600 meters.

APPEALS TO PULP CONCERNS

Wallace Asks 20 Manufacturers to Serve on a Forestry Committee.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Twenty leaders in the American pulp and paper industry have been asked by the Secretary of Agriculture to form an advisory committee to work with the Department of Agriculture in formulating and carrying out its forestry policies which relate to the supply and use of timber in making paper and kindred products.

Hugh P. Baker, Secretary of the American Pulp and Paper Association, has been active in the formation of the advisory committee and has conferred concerning the matter with Chief Forester Greeley and E. H. Clapp, Director of Research for the Forest Service. Among the prominent manufacturers asked to serve on the committee are George W. Sisson Jr., President of the Augustine River Paper Company, Potsdam; W. Colonel W. E. Haskell, Vice President of the International Paper Company, New York, and E. B. Murray, Vice President, Union Bag and Paper Corporation, New York.

Secretary Wallace says that the creation of such a committee composed of men intimately concerned with the pulp and paper industry will in his opinion, insure thorough consideration of requests for advice as well as bring forth advice itself in such a way as to result in a sound and practical way with the fundamental problems of the industry.

"The members of the committee, and through them the entire pulp and paper industry, should become more directly concerned in the development of forestry policies and in the conduct of our research work, whether that of the forest products laboratory, of the forest experiment stations, or along economic lines," says the Secretary.

A. I. C. Sells a Subsidiary.

A. N. Darnell, President of Carter, Macy & Co. and his associates, announced yesterday that they had purchased control of Carter, Macy & Co. from the American International Corporation. This follows the policy of the American International Corporation, which has disposed of many of its subsidiaries.

RECOVERY IN COTTON AFTER LIQUIDATION

Gains of 37 to 48 Points Established in Violent Afternoon Advance—Mill Demand Keen.

After an early decline of 30 points the cotton market recovered briskly yesterday and rose nearly a cent from low levels of the morning. The most decided improvement in securities witnessed in many weeks brought an active covering movement in cotton which encountered lessening selling pressure the moment prices started upward. Less favorable weather in the West belt and a feeling in some quarters that the Department had put a too sanguine estimate on production operated in favor of the market. There is still a much larger volume of trading than existing stocks of actual cotton in contract centres, leading to unusually violent price changes. Quotations showed a gain of 37 to 49 points on the day.

Liverpool broke sharply before the local opening, January contracts there showing a decline of nearly 100 English points from high records of the season made just before the Washington report was issued. This brought quotations from above 16d to nearly 15d and reflected the degree of uncertainty and nervousness prevailing in foreign circles. Weakness following the recent strength abroad exerted a depressing influence both here and in New Orleans at the beginning of the session. With the department indicating a larger yield than many had feared, an accumulation of overnight selling orders had to be executed on and immediately following the call. Liquidation proved heavier in New Orleans than in New York. December on the Southern exchange breaking 40 points at the opening. Cotton continued to pour into the ring during the first half hour, which carried December below 27.40 cents and late months within a few points of 27 cents. But at this level, as was the case on the break the previous day, the quantity of January, March and May wanted on a basis of 27 cents indicated trade and speculative support of a formidable nature. Not only was all cotton for sale absorbed but it soon became evident that selling pressure was diminishing without attracting general outside liquidation. This steadied the market and an improvement got under way the second hour.

Rains in Oklahoma and Arkansas, with predictions of unsettled conditions today, turned attention to the question of surroundings for picking. In addition a decided improvement in securities developed on the Stock Exchange, which created an increased demand for cotton commission house sources. Various spot interests had purchased a large quantity of December contracts during the early decline, taking so much cotton from the ring that a scarcity in the supply of contracts developed. Before midday a recovery of half a cent had taken place without meeting sufficient selling pressure to resist the upturn.

New Orleans rushed up rapidly during the early afternoon, sending orders to New York and bringing one of the most aggressive buying movements in some time. Blocks of contracts for May delivery were taken from the ring, rushing that month through 27¾ cents, through 28 cents and nearly a cent above New figures of the morning. All three distant positions sold around 28 cents, while December advanced to 28½ cents, over 90 points from the bottom. Demand for the first cotton appearing in the South, both for domestic mills and export, is so keen that pressure on the three contract markets from hedges continues below that normally experienced at this season of the year.

SEES HIGHER VALUE IN FARMER'S DOLLAR

Federal Reserve Board Reports Improved Conditions in Agricultural Districts.

CROP PRICE RISE A HELP

Betterment Is Declared Due Mainly to Increased Buying Power of Industrial Workers.

WASHINGTON, Oct 3.—In a review of the agricultural situation made public today, the Federal Reserve Board finds an improvement in the farmers' condition during the last year. Banks in the agricultural districts are reported in a "strong lending position," and the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar advanced.

"The advances in prices of certain principal crops during the last two months," the review says, "has partly reflected the lower estimated yields, and these advances have been more than sufficient to offset in total value the decline in expected output. The Sept. 1 estimates of production indicate an expected wheat crop materially below last year's, and the price of wheat, both at the farm and in the primary markets, is somewhat advanced. Wheat prices, however, are below those of last year and only slightly above their pre-war level, so that the position of the wheat farmer in certain sections is still difficult.

"The cotton forecast also indicates a reduction from earlier expectations, which in July and August placed the crop at about 11,500,000 bales, compared with the September estimate of 10,800,000 bales, with the result that the prices of cotton has advanced, particularly in recent weeks.

Improvement Helps the Farmer.

The board also points out that according to the September estimates the cash crops to be grown this year will exceed by $500,000,000 bushels for the fifth time in the history of the country, while the price of corn during recent months has advanced, as it has done almost uninterruptedly since the beginning of July. This year, it is stated, for some time accompanied by a decline in the price of hogs and cattle, though more recently the latter prices also have increased, and this has brought about some improvement in the outlook of the livestock farmer.

"The farmers' net return as a producer," the review says, "depends not only on the prices brought by his products, but also upon the expense of making the crops, and this year the cost of labor, fertilizer and other materials has been generally higher than last year. From the standpoint of the farmer as a consumer, however, the advance during the last year in the prices of many farm products, which has not been accompanied by a corresponding increase in retail prices, has increased the purchasing power of the farmers' dollar."

The recent advance of crop prices, the board adds, gains in significance because it has occurred during the period when the farmer markets his crops.

Purchasing Power Greater.

"The improvement in the farmer's condition during the past year," the review continues, "has been due mainly to the large purchasing power of the domestic consumer arising out of full employment and larger earnings of the industrial workers. This improvement in the domestic market being more than sufficient at present to counteract the effect upon prices of the less satisfactory condition of the foreign market. The foreign demand for American wheat particularly is affected by the smaller world production, and also by the fact that European countries which are the principal importers of wheat are expected to produce a larger crop than a year ago.

"Reviewing the agricultural conditions abroad, the Reserve Board says that official estimates now available regarding the yield of the chief cereal crops in foreign countries indicate generally larger yields this year as compared with last year's rather poor harvests.

The board says it is clear that European countries are in a position to supply a larger portion of their requirements than they were a year ago.

MINNEAPOLIS LEADS IN NEW WHEAT GAIN

'Co-operatives' There Said to Be Speculating With Millions of Bought Bushels.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Immense covering by shorts in wheat, corn and oats brought out equally heavy profit-taking by longs in all grains, but the markets here resolved such an impetus that all resistance was quickly swept aside, and at the top figures wheat showed 6¼@6⅝ cents, corn 8¼@11¼ cents and oats 4½@6½ cents above the low of Sept. 17, with the finish on a fair reaction and net gains of 1⅝@2¼ cents on wheat, 1⅝ cents on corn and ⅝@1¼ cent on oats, with rye up 1½@2 cents.

The big feature in wheat was the heavy buying by commission houses to close spreads between here and Winnipeg. Losses of 9@6 cents per bushel were taken on the December, and the spread at the last being 18¾ cents, the widest so far, while those with Winnipeg sold and Chicago bought have secured good profits.

Minneapolis was exceptionally strong and cash lots were substantially higher. There was a rumor around that the co-operatives, instead of buying to control the wheat market by handling car lots, had bought millions of bushels of September when wheat was $1 and under. They are said to have good long on the grain, and now have good profits and can cash in to good advantage.

Millions of bushels of long December corn came out while the cash article was up to $1.01½ for No. 2 Yellow and to $1.03 for other varieties. Traders with six to eight cents per bushel profit in corn took them, regarding the market as too wild for the advance to hold. One large trader who has predicted $1 for cash corn said after the close that the signs pointed to this being the day to sell corn for profits.

James A. Patten, who has been bullish on corn, was a big seller and said that he would not advise buying.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 1,276,000 bushels; week ago, 1,617,000; last year, 2,107,000. Shipments were 535,000 bushels; week ago, 1,046,000; last year, 1,955,000.

Corn receipts were 536,000 bushels; week ago, 656,000; last year, 1,368,000. Shipments, 368,000 bushels; week ago, 343,000; last year, 1,197,000.

VALUE OF BRASS SHOWN

Markets That Had Been Invaded by Substitutes During the War Regained.

The increased consumption of copper, which was greatest in August and which for this year has been only 10 per cent. below the peak period of the war, was due, in a large measure, to the educational campaigns conducted throughout the country in the uses of copper and brass, according to William A. Willis, manager of the Copper and Brass Association.

What has been accomplished by the trade organization of the Copper and Brass Association, Mr. Willis pointed out, can be done in every line of industry. "I say without hesitation," Mr. Willis added, "that, no matter what the commodity, it can be successfully promoted through collective effort if it has merit and its destinies are properly directed."

But be warned that a trade organization which failed to promote competition among its members was doomed for failure from the day it was organized. It must also avoid all price problems.

In discussing the growth of the trade organization in the copper and brass field, and showing what has been accomplished through a united effort, he said:

"Up to the time of the armistice the copper and brass industries had no common business relations. The former represented production purely; the latter consumption alone. But when these two groups found themselves embedded in the same post-war morass through no fault of either, they very sensibly decided to combine forces to find a way out. And thus was brought about a coalition which has continued up to the present time, continued and carried on with not the slightest infringement on the Federal statutes, without in any way menacing the interest of either group, without the slightest disturbance of competitive conditions."

Mr. Willis said that the copper and brass trade organization succeeded where so many other trade organizations had failed, because it took its time in organizing and gathering its educational material. "I am convinced," he said, "that no co-operative effort can be fully successful unless it is preceded by just such a thorough survey as was made in the interest of the copper and brass industries. Such a survey should be made by some one outside the industry involved, some one with no ax to grind, some one with the courage to confront the industry with facts, even if they are unpleasant.

"When we set down in the latter part of 1919 and studied the fruits of our survey, here briefly is what we found: Almost all of the markets formerly occupied by copper, brass and bronze, controlled by substitutes which had been extensively advertised and promoted and did not mean to yield their places without a struggle; an amazing public ignorance of the merits of copper and copper alloys; an entire lack of organization so far as getting copper into the hands of the ultimate consumer was concerned; no community of interest whatever between those who mined the metal and those who fabricated, manufactured and marketed it; an absence of interest in copper and copper alloys on the part of architects, builders and contractors; a prejudice against it largely based on high costs and hostile propaganda; no adequate distribution of copper or brass either in the form of finished materials such as sheets, rods, tubes and wire, or in the thousands of articles in which copper, brass and bronze now go into daily consumption. Add to this the fact that poverty stricken Europe, which always had taken a large percentage of American copper, was practically out of the market, and you will get some idea of what the industry faced."

After the survey, he said the Copper and Brass Research Association was formed. Serious attention was given this development by such leaders in the industry as Walter Douglas, John D. Ryan, R. T. Agassiz, Stephen Birch, Charles Hayden, F. S. Chase, E. O. Goss, Edward H. Rhinne, and H. J. Rowland. Through the combined efforts of the industry the copper and brass men launched a campaign of public education through advertising, educational literature and speeches. A service bureau also was organized to answer any and all questions concerning the uses of the metals, whether inquiries were of a technical nature or a commercial character.

Recently a survey showed that the two years' campaign had increased the domestic consumption of copper 7 per cent. During the first eight months of this year, according to the figures of the association, the world's copper consumption was approximately 250,000,000 pounds, which was at the rate of 3,750,000,000 pounds a year. Of this monthly consumption 192,500,000 pounds was supplied by American mines and refineries.

Great Southern Reports Gain.

The net operating income of the Alabama Great Southern Railroad Company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1922, according to the annual report made public yesterday, was $1,562,926, against $1,620,786 in 1921. This increase was accomplished, the report shows, despite the fact that the total operating revenues were but $8,524,806 in 1922, compared with $8,543,230 in 1921. The savings were effected in the maintenance of way and equipment and the cost of transportation.

NEW MEXICAN BANK STOCK APPORTIONED

Republic to Hold 51% of 100,000,000 Pesos Capital, Bankers Are Told.

While final plans for the new bank of issue in Mexico have not yet been formed, it is indicated in advices to local bankers that the new bank will be capitalized at 100,000,000 pesos, which will be divided into three kinds of stock. The first, or A stock, will be held by the Republic of Mexico; the second, or B stock, by the old Mexican issue banks which formed the National Bank of Mexico, and the third, or C stock, by American, French, British and other foreign stockholders.

The A stock, which will be held by the Government, will total 51 per cent. of the bank's capitalization. The B stock will amount to 22,000,000 pesos and the C stock 17,000,000 pesos. It is this last named stock which, under the tentative plan, is to be taken up by American, British, Spanish and Swiss bankers and investors, the French interests being represented by the National Bankidentified as being the property of the Bank of Mexico. The actual administration of the bank will be in the hands of holders of B and C stock. It is understood, although the Republic of Mexico, through ownership of the A stock, will have the controlling interest.

Linked up closely with the development of a new finance system in Mexico is the effort of that Government to better conditions of its peons. President Obregon and his Cabinet are said to recognize the necessity of raising the standard of the Mexican peasant to higher levels. Education is one of the elementals figuring in the program, but as a preliminary step it is now planned to make every Mexican a land owner. In furtherance of this plan, President Obregon has issued a decree providing in part that "every Mexican not possessing land and unable to obtain it by other means may ask for and receive national lands."

In the current issue of Mexican Trade News, published by the Mexican Chamber of Commerce of the United States, a summary of this bill is given as follows:

"The only requisite will be to take personal possession, to make the necessary demarcation and to inform the Department of Agriculture in writing. The areas that may be allotted to each person are: 25 hectares if the land is irrigated; 100 hectares if the land is not irrigated but has a good rainfall; 200 hectares if the land is not irrigated and has a poor rainfall; 500 hectares if the land is mountainous and good only for pasture.

"The land selected will have to be nation. Lands of private property, commons appertaining to the villages, or land in possession of the occupants are not to be taken. The land will have to be settled individually by those to whom it is allotted. Persons working the lands mentioned in the decree for a period of two consecutive years will receive free and complete title from the Government. In the case of pasture lands, proof will have to be submitted that they have been used for that purpose."

The decree also stipulates that "lands acquired by virtue of this decree must not be sold to foreigners nor to Mexicans possessing equal or large extensions of land, and the Government keeps the control of the subsoil." To further check the possibility of any one man getting hold of large tracts of land by means of the national land grant, it is provided that "no person is allowed to hold more than one parcel of land" under the Obregon decree. The decree does not, of course, apply to holdings already acquired.

Eagle-Picher Extra Dividend.

The Eagle-Picher Lead Company has declared a stock dividend of 11 1-9 per cent., an extra cash dividend of $1 and a regular quarterly dividend of $1.25. All are payable to stock of record Oct. 2. Distribution of stock dividends calls for the issue of $2,000,000 additional stock, bringing the total outstanding to $20,000,000.

New Colors for Spring.

Chinese, Indian and Second Empire influences dominate the Spring, 1924, color card of the Textile Color Card Association. This is indicated in the advance card that has been sent to members of the organization. The shades portray those which will lead in fashions generally for Spring, and also those which will be stressed by individual trades. A feature is the attention given to colors for sports wear, ten colors particularly adaptable for this use being included in the card. Special millinery colors are being selected by representatives of that trade, and will be announced shortly. A range of tan shoe and hosiery colors have been chosen, and are shown in the new card. Fourteen shades for woolen cloths and two new ones for cottons are also featured. General distribution of the regular cards will take place during the latter part of this month.

Summer Clothing Moving Well.

Much comment is heard in the local clothing trade over the satisfactory response of retailers to the road showings of Summer clothing lines. The houses specialising in these goods have escaped the general apathy that is noted toward the regular Spring lines, and in some instances the orders placed are well above those of last year at this time. This condition has been brought about by the fact that retailers cleaned out their stocks of Summer goods at the expense of the regular lines, owing to the sudden jump from cold to hot weather last Summer. In addition, there is the tendency for consumers to buy suits of practically unvarying weight for both Fall and Spring, which makes a tropical worsted, flannel, mohair or beach cloth suit desirable.

Calls Silk Reports Misleading.

Most of the information coming from Japan in regard to the raw silk situation is misleading, according to George A. Post, a Vice President of the Silk Association of America. Although the reports indicate that it is possible to do business, he said yesterday, little is not the case. Moreover, the prices quoted in the cables lead to the erroneous belief that silk can be bought below $9 a pound. The only business done has been against old contracts and no silk is available to other consumers. The situation is straightforward enough and unless a change develops an acute shortage will be soon felt here. Shipments of silk from Japan have been held back to the extent of between 25,000 and 30,000 bales, and there are no surplus stocks here to meet manufacturers' needs.

Millinery Up to the Minute.

This cablegram, setting forth the latest in French vagaries in women's chapeaux, was received from Paris yesterday by the Retail Millinery Association of America: "Desoat alters popular cloche. Back treatments main shape of cloche. Crowns higher and sectional. Brims medium. Felt the most popular development. Black fancies on gross aigrette order lead. Wide black satin ribbons making entire soft brims. Stubby, fluffy black fancies preferred. Flowers and metal cloth weak. Large formal fitted mushrooms and close simple tams favored. Much silk used with velvet. Ermine trims herald furs. Flares correspond with New York."

Burlaps Quiet, But Strong.

Although trading in the local market for burlaps has quieted down in the last few days after one of the busiest September experienced in a long time, prices on spot goods continue very firm here. Due to the marked shortage of these goods, especially lightweights, they were held yesterday at 6.65 cents for "lights" and 7.65 cents for "heavies." This branch of the market is expected to advance still further as a result of the longshoremen's strike at New Orleans. October shipments from Calcutta were quoted yesterday at 5.20 cents for 8-ounce "40s" and 7.15 cents for 10½-ounce goods. Sellers were anxious to sell futures yesterday, but wanted to hold spot and actual goods in the belief that the shortage would continue from thirty to forty days and that buyers would soon become active again.

Offers New Fadeless Dyestuff.

A clear bright blue direct dye of a reddish shade, meant especially for use on all classes of cotton goods where resistance to sunlight is of prime importance has been brought out by one of the big domestic producers of colorstuffs. It is said also to be of value in dyeing paper, because of its light-resisting qualities. This color was imported from Europe before the war and was regarded as very important because of its fastness to sunlight without the necessity of after-treatment. A wide market for it exists here.

Garment Shipments Are Heavier.

Cooler weather has put more snap into the Fall garment demand, and the heaviest shipments thus far are now going out to retailers. There is still plenty of room for improvement in buying, local wholesalers say. As far as women's apparel is concerned, the consumer has shown every willingness to buy. With the question of styles entirely settled, the question is solely one of how far the retailers are willing to operate ahead. The present policy is to provide for about three weeks' supply, and there is little evidence of any change in buyers' plans.

To Dress by the Calendar.

A campaign to introduce dates when consumers are to don knitted underwear and leather gloves, corresponding to the present custom regarding straw and felt hats, is planned by the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers. The idea is that if custom dictates that men should discard straw hats on Sept. 15 and resume them on May 15, there is no reason why there should not be a similar understanding with regard to gloves and underwear. Retailers, accordingly, will feature regular opening dates for underwear, the lightweight season beginning on June 1 and ending on Sept. 30, when medium weights will be worn. On Dec. 1 the public will change to "heavies," going back to the medium weights on April 1. Oct. 1 is set as the date when leather gloves should be worn, the season continuing until May 1. Silk gloves are stressed for the Summer months.

More Inquiry for Gray Goods.

More inquiry for gray goods was reported in this market yesterday, but there was no marked change in the amount of business done. First hand sales of printcloths, for near-by delivery, included 38½-inch 64-60s at 9¾ cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 8¾ cents. Other business for the same shipment was done on these bases. The 39-inch 68-72s 11¾ cents was the asking price in the sheeting end of the market not a great deal transpired. Buyers paid 9 cents for 36-inch 5.50s, while for 36-inch 56-60s, four-yard sheetings the best they could do was 12½ cents. Other sales of importance were lacking.

Prices Show Drop at Fur Sale.

With a grand sales total of about $4,000,000, the annual Fall auction of raw furs came to an end in the Masonic Hall here yesterday after eight days of selling. Bidding at the closing sessions lacked snap. Prices were again quite generally under those of the Spring sale and, taken as a whole, the results of the auction were somewhat disappointing to shippers. More than 90 per cent. of the offerings were actually sold, but strong shippers withdrew their goods when prices were not to their liking. Others let them go for whatever they would bring. Raccoon was the most important offering yesterday, the best skins bringing $7.30, with Northern pelts showing a rise of 10 per cent. over the Spring sale average prices and Central and Northwestern skins showing no change. The only other advance of 10 per cent.—was shown by Japanese raccoon, which sold up to $2.60. Rabbits were generally unchanged. Civet cat was 25 per cent. lower, and Chinese raccoon and house cat each declined 20 per cent.

Ship Board Returns $25,751,531.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Chairman Farley of the Shipping Board today transmitted to Secretary Mellon a check for $25,751,531.04 with a request that it be deposited in the general fund of the Treasury. This amount is part of $37,656,562.22 which the Board is turning back into the general fund. Included in the total is $25,751,531.04 which was appropriated to pay operating expenses, the balance being made up of savings from the appropriation by Congress for the payment of old claims.

BROADWAY LOFTS IN $3,500,000 DEAL

Operators Purchase Entire Square Block Downtown From the Guggenheimer Estate.

YEARLY RENTS $400,000

Buyers Will Add Twelve Stories—Demand for Other Business Properties.

The New York Commercial Buildings, occupying an entire square block on lower Broadway, were sold yesterday in one of the largest loft property deals of the year, the transaction involving about $3,500,000.

Isidore Zimmer, Samuel Resnick and Frank Locker purchased the property estate of Randolph Guggenheimer. The buildings occupy an entire square block bounded on the west by Broadway, on the east by Mercer Street, on the north by Waverley Place and on the south by Washington Place, and are also known by the Street Numbers 715 to 727 Broadway.

The consist of four twelve-story buildings having a height of 158 feet with basement and sub-basements and vaults under all the sidewalks and 100 per cent sprinkler systems, situated in the heart of the wholesale clothing district.

The frontage on Broadway is 184 feet by 200 feet on Washington Place, 200 feet on Waverley Place and 184 feet on Mercer Street, which, with the exception of a small plot on Washington Place, and Mercer Street, 80 and 90, consists of the entire square block.

These buildings were built by the late Randolph Guggenheimer for personal investment and have foundations suitable for a 24 story building, so that 12 additional stories can be added, which the present owners contemplate doing in the near future.

This is the largest loft building unit on Broadway and only 24 tenants occupy the entire unit as some of them occupy four and five lofts totaling 40,000 to 50,000 square feet. The building house some of the largest clothing and hat manufacturers in the country.

The rental, when leases expiring in the near future will have been renewed, will be approximately $400,000 per anum.

Other Business Sites Sold.

The Stozard Holding Corporation sold 7, 9, 11, 13, 15 Hamilton Place, junction of Broadway and 137th Street, comprising a two-story business building with twelve stores, on plot 125 by 100 by irregular. The property rents for about $30,000 and was held for $225,000. The purchaser is an investing client of George Steinman, Inc.

Moses Harris and Charles Schnabel purchased through Isaac Hyman 272 Canal Street, corner of Cortlandt Alley, on plot 25 by 26. The property was held at $50,000. David S. Levin acted as broker.

Leon S. Altmayer sold for J. F. Donovan to the Leelex Realty Corporation, the three-story and basement building known as 1,500 Lexington Avenue, located on the east side of the avenue, between Eighty-fifth and Eighty-sixth Streets.

Large Loans Placed.

Hughes & Hammond placed a first mortgage building and permanent loan of $1,100,000 on the premises on Broadway, southwest corner of 108th Street, to be improved with a fifteen-story store and apartment house from plans of Rosario Candela, architect.

Anthony A. Paterno, as principal stockholder of the 514 West End Avenue Corporation, will immediately erect a fifteen-story apartment building, containing forty-five housekeeping suites, on the southeast corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street.

S. W. Straus & Co. yesterday announced the underwriting of an issue of $535,000 first mortgage serial coupon gold bonds of the borrowing corporation, maturing in from four to twelve years. The land and building as completed are appraised at $751,875.

LEHIGH'S RADIO DRIVE.

Four Stations at Once to Launch Appeal for $4,000,000.

Four-ray radio blasts will announce the opening of the $4,000,000 drive of Lehigh University alumni at an inaugural meeting and dinner at the Machinery Club, 50 Church Street, tomorrow evening. Charles M. Schwab, a trustee, will speak by radio from Lorretto, Pa. George W. Wickersham, former United States Attorney General, and Charles Russ Richards, President of Lehigh, will make addresses here. The drive will extend throughout the United States, Porto Rico, Panama, Cuba, Europe and China.

Station WEAF will broadcast directly from the meeting in the Machinery Club, and the other stations to be connected by land lines and to broadcast from other points are KDKA at Pittsburgh, KYW at Chicago and the Wanamaker station, WOO, at Philadelphia. Simultaneous broadcasting by a group of four stations has been achieved only once before, it was said. The drive will be known as the Greater Lehigh Fund Campaign.

RADIO SHOW OPENS OCT. 6.

Exhibition at Grand Central Palace Will Show Latest Equipment.

The American Radio Exposition will open at the Grand Central Palace Saturday at 2:30 P. M. and will be open daily, except Sunday, until Oct. 13. One hundred and six manufacturers, including several foreign concerns, will exhibit the latest improvements in radio apparatus. The entire fourth floor of the building will be occupied by booths.

Motion pictures will be shown each evening on subjects pertaining to construction of radio sets, &c. Practical demonstrations of apparatus will be given and ample entertainment will be furnished from a receiving set of the latest design.

There will be marine, army and navy exhibits, including apparatus used in the World War.

APARTMENT HOUSE DEALS.

Entire Edgecombe Avenue Block Front Sold by D. F. Farrell.

The block front on the east side of Edgecombe Avenue, between 138th and 139th Streets, has been sold by Daniel F. Farrell through O'Reilly & Dahn, as brokers. The property consists of four five-story apartment houses on a plot 200 by 85 feet. It has been held at $325,000.

The six-story apartment house, on a plot 75 by 100 feet, at 1,353 St. Nicholas Avenue was sold by David B. Bartelstone for the Manhattan Realty Company to Kaplan & Kaplan. The building was held at $205,000.

Charles Galewski has purchased from the Nellie Downay estate the seven-story elevator apartment house known as Salome Apartment, at 149 and 151 West 105th Street, on plot 49 by 100. The structure is arranged for three families on a floor of five and six rooms with bath and returns an annual rental of $30,000. The property was held at $175,000 and was purchased free and clear. The present sellers purchased the property from Paterno Brothers, the builders, about seventeen years ago and it has never changed hands since, Slawson & Hobbs were the brokers in the transaction.

M. A. Kuh and Rose Heyman, executors of the estate of M. Heyman, sold to Samuel Nassau and Sam Friedman the southwest corner of 125th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, 40 by 100, a six-story walk-up with six stores, with an annual rental of about $21,000. This property was being held at $140,000. This is the first sale of this property since it was built in 1907.

Clarence E. Hutchinson sold to J. R. Lockley the five-story apartment house with stores at 2,342 Seventh Avenue. The seller was H. G. Leist, who owned the property for a number of years.

D. Rosenblum has purchased from James H. Cruikshank for a client the premises at 262 and 264 West 115th Street, near Seventh Avenue, two five-story double flats, on a plot 50 by 100. The houses were held at $57,000.

Schindler & Liebler have sold for Moe Galvin to Leona Stone the five-story double flat with stores at 1,496 Lexington Avenue; also for John P. Johnson the four-story double flat at 311 East Seventy-eighth Street, both for investment.

MANDEL-EHRICH DEALS.

Corporation Sells 57th Street Parcel and Buys on 55th Street.

The Mandel-Ehrich Corporation has sold to F. N. Dowling, interior decorator, 52 East Fifty-seventh Street and the abutting property at 77 East Fifty-sixth Street.

The property will be immediately altered for occupancy by Mr. Dowling. Pease & Elliman were the brokers.

The Mandel-Ehrich Corporation has also purchased 42 East Thirty-fifth Street from Dr. Asa H. Davis, through Samuel D. Folsom, of Folsom Brothers. The buyer owns the adjoining properties at the corner of Park Avenue and plans to erect a fifteen-story apartment house of small suites on the combined plot, which fronts 72.6 feet on Park Avenue and 68 feet on Thirty-fifth Street. Construction will probably be begun early in December.

ASTOR VILLAGE SALES.

Builders Buy One Hundred Lots for Small Houses.

The Mile Construction Company has purchased from Louis Gold one hundred lots additional in the proposed Astor Village on Bronx and Pelham Parkway at Williamsbridge Road, the Esplanade and the Pelham Parkway station on the New York, Westchester and Boston Railway, Bronx.

The lots are on Laconia, Waring and Lurting Avenues, between the parkway. The buyers will immediately build from fifty to seventy-five one-family frame houses on plots of 25 feet and wider.

This sale follows close on that of the 300 Astor Village lots adjoining, purchased recently by James F. Meehan and associates and the beginning of work on 150 detached and semi-detached houses.

These home-building operations form a nucleus around which, it is predicted, hundreds of new dwellings will be erected in Astor Village and on the adjoining 498 lots, with frontages on the parkway, the Esplanade, Young, Mace, Waring, Astor and other avenues, which are to be sold at auction by Joseph P. Day on Columbus Day, Oct. 12, on the premises.

PLAN NEW PROJECTS.

Apartment for Last of Rockefeller Estate Holdings.

As a site for an apartment house, the plot 50x100, at 38 to 40 West Fifty-fifth street, was sold by the Estate of William Rockefeller to the 38 West Fifty-fifth Street Company. The property consists of a garage and stable, and is the last of the estate in New York City to be liquidated. William A. White & Sons negotiated the sale.

Plans were filed yesterday by W. L. Rouse & L. A. Goldstone, architects, with the Bureau of Buildings for a fifteen-story co-operative apartment house to be erected on the northeast corner of Seventy-Second Street and Lexington Avenue, for 141 East Seventy-Second Street, Inc., for $480,000.

The building is to be 45 by 102 feet, containing one apartment on a floor and is a project of the Joint Ownership Construction Company, Frederic Culver, President.

Private House Sales.

The three-story brownstone private dwelling at 148 West 127th Street has been sold through Jerome H. Frank to John A. Warner, who will thoroughly renovate the same for his occupancy.

M. H. Gaillard & Co. sold for Paul R. Loeckler the three-story high-stoop residence, 130 Manhattan Avenue, adjoining corner of 106th Street. The purchaser will occupy the house after alterations are completed. It was held at $25,000.

Long Island City Buyer to Build.

Roman-Callman Company has sold for Mary F. Krouse unimproved property on Jackson Avenue, near the Bridge Plaza, Long Island City, adjoining the manufacturing buildings of the Sorensen Company and the Walworth Manufacturing Company. The buyer is E. C. Muller, who contemplates the erection of a commercial improvement on the property.

THE BRONX MARKET.

Old-Time Builder Sells Houses. Valued at $500,000.

John S. O'Leary, the old-time builder, sold to a client of George S. Jackson the two five-story tax exempt apartment houses, each on a plot 105 by 110, at 2,400 to 2410 Davidson Avenue, near Fordham Road. The property was held at $500,000. L. J. Greenberger and John F. Fetzer were the brokers in the sale.

The 180th Street and Audubon Avenue Corporation, Michael Kaufman, president, sold the southwest corner of Sherman Avenue and 164th Street, a five-story building, completed, to the Eastern Realty Corporation, Norbert Laibel, president. The building stands on a plot of 38x irregular and has nine apartments on floor with a rental of about $36,000. The building was held for $350,000. Martin Goldfarb was the broker.

A resale has been made to the Montgomery Holding Corporation of the thirty-three lots comprising the square block between Montgomery and Andrews Avenues, between 176th and 178th Streets, recently purchased by Jacob Freidman.

Plans have been filed for the erection of twenty-six two-family houses to cover the entire plot.

Myron Butler acted for the seller.

Myron Butler purchased for Jacob A. Lewis the plot on the easterly side of Valentine Avenue, 75 feet south of 196th Street, 75 by 84, resale of same being made by Jacob A. Lewis to Elkay Builders, Inc., who will immediately improve the plot with a five-story apartment house.

Cahn & Cahn, operators, sold to Bessie Friedman, 1st Prospect Avenue, southwest corner 150th Street, a three-story building containing seven stores on lot 25 by 100. Edward O. Blumenthal was the broker in the transaction.

George Steinman, Inc., have sold for the G. & H. H. Realty Corp., 131 West Kingsbridge Road, a new five and one-half-story tax exempt apartment house, plot 78 by 148 irregular, comprising thirty apartments and renting for $30,000. Property was held at $175,000.

Leases on Fifth Avenue.

Charles F. Noyes Company leased for Frederick Brown in his eighteen-story building, 55 Fifth Avenue, northeast corner of Twelfth Street, two floors containing 36,000 square feet of space to the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company (Alonzo Gore Oakley, Vice President and General Manager), and to the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Company of New York. These leases are for ten years and quickly follow leases negotiated by the Noyes Company for entire floors in the building to the Atlas Assurance Corporation, Ltd., Sun Insurance Company and the Sun Indemnity Company. The Noyes Company reports that already six floors of this building have been rented to leading insurance interests.

the 400-foot wide

Bronx & Pelham Parkway

COL. EDWIN GOULD is the developer of that new and beautiful Residential Park known as PELHAM PARKWAY GARDENS on the 400-foot wide BRONX AND PELHAM PARKWAY, a little beyond the 489 Bronx and Pelham Parkway Lots, at Williamsbridge Road, the Esplanade and the Pelham Parkway station on the N. Y., W. & B. Rapid Transit line, purchased many years ago by the Astor family.

COL. GOULD had all New York to pick from and he selected the 400-foot Bronx and Pelham Parkway for his $10,000,000 initial real estate and housing operation.

COL. GOULD is building approximately 40 brick, private houses at Pelham Parkway Gardens.

100% Co-operative Plan

The Apartments are Arranged in Suites of

6, 7, 8 & 9 Rooms with 3 & 4 Baths

EVERY room is exceptionally large and sunny. Among the improvements are wood burning fireplaces and individual garbage incinerators.

THE PLAN has been carefully worked out so that a saving of about 40% over prevailing rentals is assured, and also embodies large yearly payment on the conservative first mortgage so that the present moderate charges are materially reduced in a few years.

THE CO-OPERATIVE PLAN under which the apartments are being sold has been approved by leading attorneys and indorsed by financial and real estate authorities as one of the best co-operative propositions ever offered.

THE MODERATE SELLING PRICES range from

$10,800 to $23,040

655 Park Avenue

WORK has actually begun on this new 100% co-operative building on Park Avenue's choicest site, the block front between 67th and 68th Streets.

It will be a low building, architecturally homelike, and entirely in keeping with its elegant, residental environment.

There are available apartments of 7 to 10 rooms, duplex apartments of 14 rooms or more, a maisonette with individual entrance, and apartments with roof gardens.

As to prices, 8 room apartments may be had from $20,000 upwards.

Those purchasing now may have floor plans of the apartments changed to suit their requirements.

Occupancy in the late Summer of 1924

An illustrated booklet giving complete floor plans will be sent on request.

Motion Pictures in Business

YOU may talk from now till Doomsday but you can't convince the public that it is dangerous to jay-walk — to leave valuables around the house — to invest in worthless stocks — to do any of a hundred things you are constantly striving to drive home! But tell them with motion pictures — and you've appealed to their season thru the eye.

Manufacturers, Public Utilities, Investment Houses, if you want to convince, tell your story the convincing way — with pictures made by Dalton Productions. Inexpensive, technically correct and assured free distribution.

Would you take your prize customer into your stock room?

Is it an orderly, well-arranged space, with a place for everything and everything in its place? Or is it a jumbled curiosity shop where hours are spent each day fumbling through material to find needed supplies.

ART METAL Steel Shelving is helping many businesses to make the most of their storage space—to have trim, spick and span stock rooms where supplies are quickly located.

No more sagging, unsafe and unsightly wooden shelves! ART METAL Steel Shelving is as solid and rigid as the walls of your building. Yet this permanent shelving can be moved, rearranged or added to at will.

In factory, office or retail store, ART METAL will satisfactorily meet your every shelving need. Yet with all its countless advantages, ART METAL shelving costs less than wood.

Write us today for our interesting booklets on steel shelving. Or better, 'phone our salesroom for an ART METAL man to quote on your shelving requirements.

Each Clow "Gasteam" radiator is independent. Each one can be lighted when and as needed

You don't need a furnace of any sort

The burner of a Clow "Gasteam" Radiator creates tiny Bunsen flames

Each radiator an independent steam heating plant

AT this season of the year those who need heating systems begin to think about the labor a furnace would require, about all the heat that will go up the chimney, and about all the delay, trouble and dirt that the ordinary heating plant involves.

None of these are necessary evils any more.

There is a steam heating system that converts into healthful warmth, 100% of the fuel it burns.

None is lost in pipes—it hasn't any pipes. None goes up the chimney—it doesn't need a chimney. And all the work required for using it is to turn a valve and light.

Economical, Instantaneous and Automatic Steam Heat

With Clow Gasteam Radiators, steam heat is made as convenient and efficient as the housewife's gas range.

You don't have to use your entire installation when you don't need it. Each radiator is an independent unit.

Light as many as you think you need, and light them only when you need them.

The heat they furnish is even and steady—free from ups and downs. An automatic regulator controls the supply of gas to the burner, so that the steam is kept at an even pressure without any attention from any one.

Wholesome Heat, Healthful Air

The colds and throat troubles due to air that is dried out by ordinary methods of heating will soon begin to be common.

Most people accept them as a necessary evil. Others go to the expense and trouble of providing humidifiers.

With Clow Gasteam Radiators neither the colds nor the humidifiers are necessary.

These radiators represent the only type of heating system that preserves the normal moisture of the air.

Their Bunsen flames actually make moisture, thus automatically humidifying the air and providing unusually wholesome heat.

Send for Designs and Prices

Clow Gasteam Radiators have been approved by over twenty years of continuous use.

They are made in a number of designs. Each design is furnished in a number of heights and lengths.

A catalog listing all designs and sizes will be sent free on request. The available supply for immediate delivery of both unvented and vented Clow Gasteam Radiators is limited.

Later in the season it may be difficult to make immediate deliveries.

Inquire now so that we can anticipate your requirements.

CLOW "GASTEAM" HEATING SYSTEMS

Manufactured by JAMES B. CLOW & SONS, Chicago

How to Heat Your Home at Little More than Half Price

Your old heater probably burns egg, stove or nut—the most expensive sizes.

Buckwheat Anthracite will heat your home just as comfortably; and costs little more than half as much per ton.

You are paying nearly twice as much as you need to, every year, for your coal.

There is still time before winter to junk the old, expensive heater and install a Spencer Heater that is especially made to burn Buckwheat Anthracite.

Buckwheat is the same coal as egg, stove or nut only smaller in size, being merely breakage occurring when these sizes are made. It is always plentiful.

A 25 Year Record

The Spencer Heater has a proven record of 25 years of success in heating all types of buildings with a remarkable saving in fuel costs.

Thousands of Installations

Hundreds of Spencers are heating homes in this city and vicinity. Have us put you in touch with owners—let them tell you the story.

Saves Coaling, Saves Care

A water-jacketed magazine holds a 24 hour coal supply (in ordinary winter weather), insuring even heat from 8 to 12 hours without attention. No night firing needed.

Spencer Sectional Heater, for steam or hot water. Front section removed to show water-jacketed magazine.

Spencer Tubular Steam Heater, with corner cut away to show the water-jacketed magazine.

Any Fitter Can Install

Your steam fitter, or heating contractor can install a Spencer Heater with your present steam, vapor or hot water system in any size or type of building.

Act Quickly!

Send for the Spencer Book and list of installations in your vicinity.

Let us put you in touch with owners of the Spencer — the heater that revolutionizes modern heating methods.
